STRIKERS AND POLICE FIGHT WITH TEAR GAS BOMBS AT BETHLEHEM STEEL PLANT

TWO PATROL CARS OVERTURNED IN CLASHES ALONG LINE OF PICKETS

Crowd Seizes Bombs, Turning Them on Officers, 3 of Whom Are Hurt — Parleys Under Way — Firm Has Billion in Defense Work.

BETHELEHEM, Pa., March 25 (AP).—A crowd of shouting strikers seized two police patrol cars and threw tear gas bombs at retreating policemen today as the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee began a mass picketing effort to close down the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant.

Seven policemen arrived at a gate soon after 2 o'clock and began to break up a line of 1000 pickets waiting for the change of shift at 3 o'clock.

Turmoil followed. The police began tossing tear gas bombs into the crowd. Strikers charged at the two patrol cars, overturned them and grabbed up the store of gas bombs remaining. As the policemen moved away, a shower of bombs followed them.

Second Use of Tear Gas.

It was the second use of tear gas and one of a series of outbreaks throughout the day—a situation which led to a call for help to the Pennsylvania State police, who still had taken no active part late today.

A conference between a Federal conciliator, leaders of the Employes Representation Plan and SWOC officials continued most of the afternoon and there was no announcement.

Three city policemen were injured in the outbreak. Two were suffering from tear-gas burns and one had been hit in the stomach by a rock.

At another gate, a man who said he had come from Bordentown, N. J., to get a job as a plant guard was pummeled.

Governor Surveys Situation.

Gov. Arthur H. James dispatched Commissioner Lynn G. Adams, State police head from Harrisburg, to survey conditions. Sheriff W. Calvin Nickle had telegraphed the Governor:

"I will be unable to control situation with men at my disposal."

In his office at Easton, Sheriff

A F L WORKERS BEATEN IN HARVESTER STRIKE

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP). — Roving groups of what Police Capt. John Stege called "goon squads" assaulted numerous work-bound employes near the McCormick works of the International Harvester Co. today.

Several thousand CIO members and sympathizers, meanwhile, paraded streets near the plant, yelling and jeering at non-striking American Federation of Labor and unaffiliated workers filtering into the factory through six gates.

Stege said he did not know how many workers were beaten up, but that there were "a lot of 'em." He had one report that a man's leg was broken. He said "goon squads" of from a dozen to 30 roamed the neighborhood, popping out of alleys and passageways to attack one or two work-bound employes at a time.

Police pursued the attackers and Stege said that "10 or more men" had been arrested.

Seven hundred policemen were on duty at 5 a. m. preceding the 7 a. m. plant opening, but when the sporadic violence increased, Stege ordered a reserve force of 300 into action. They drove crowds of strikers and sympathizers back a block from the gates.

There were no pickets at the actual gates today, and picket shacks had been torn down over night. Leaders of the Farm Equipment Workers Organizing Committee had issued a call for a "mass mobilization" of CIO unionists at the plant gates today.

M'DANIEL SUED BY 5 HE NAMED IN CONTEST

Persons Listed as Illegal Voters Each Seek $20,000 for Defamation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FARMINGTON, Mo., March 25. —Five suits for damages totaling $100,000 were filed today in Circuit Court here against Lawrence McDaniel, defeated Democratic nominee for Governor. The suits allege defamation of character and are filed by persons named in McDaniel's contest petition as unqualified residents of the county who were permitted to vote for Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, Republican.

Four of the suits were filed by persons named in the McDaniel petition as not qualified to vote because they had been convicted of a felony or some other infamous crime. The fifth was by a woman, whose ancestors fought in the American Revolution, named in the petition as not qualified to vote because she was not an American citizen.

Each suit asks for $10,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages.

Former Circuit Judge Taylor Smith, now counsel for McDaniel in the contest proceeding, in a statement given to the St. Francois County newspapers, said he had learned since he became McDaniel's attorney that at least 15 of the 50 persons named in the petition as illegal voters in this county had been falsely accused. Smith's home is in Farmington.

Those who filed suit today were William Lunsford and John Braham, both of Cantwell; Clarence White, a farmer south of Farmington; H. N. Brooks, a lead miner

Revivalist Jailed for Defying Draft Changes His Mind and Is Released

George Herman, Southern Illinois revivalist of the Free Pentecost sect, who went to jail rather than register for the draft, saying that the Lord had other work for him to do, changed his mind and registered today, explaining that his conversion of four prisoners in the St. Louis city jail constituted the work intended for him.

Taken before United States District Judge Fred L. Wham, who had ordered him to jail last Tuesday for two weeks of religious meditation, Herman told the Court he was now ready to register, since his work was done. A registrar of a local draft board was summoned, and the prisoner went through the brief routine. Judge Wham then released him on a year's probation.

Herman, 32 years old and the father of two children, was indicted two weeks ago at Danville and was arrested at Grantsburg, Ill., where he had been conducting a revival meeting. He told reporters he converted two prisoners during a short stay in the jail at Murphysboro, Ill., in addition to the conversions in the St. Louis jail, and that he considered the time in durance well spent.

BRINKLEY TELLS COURT HOW HIS FORTUNE WENT

LAST OF 3 YACHTS SOLD TO U. S. NAVY

Testifies in Bankruptcy Case That He Doesn't Know What Happened to Much He Made.

DEL RIO, Tex., March 25 (AP). —Diamond-laden Dr. John R. Brinkley, the man who made a fortune through the microphone of the world's most powerful radio station and a publicized rejuvenation operation, good-naturedly told a Federal bankruptcy court yesterday how the bubble burst.

Recounting the building of the Brinkley hospitals, radio stations and sundry other enterprises on the banks of the Rio Grande, the doctor told his story for attorneys of his creditors. Rather lightly he insisted he didn't know what had happened to sums ranging into thousands. He said he never had much money on deposit, "just $15,000 or $20,000."

Unsecured claims against the doctor total $1,214,121. They run from a $2.30 linen bill to unpaid Federal income tax.

Start in Kansas.

Back in Milford, Kan., the strange story of the Brinkleys started.

Money his wife, Mrs. Minnie T. Brinkley, received from her parents went into real estate. The first Brinkley hospital was founded and the radio advertising started. And in the course of things, after he became widely known over the radio, he ran for Governor of Kansas on a platform of building lakes in the Western part of the State to abolish the dust belt. He was beaten in a very close race.

"It was my wife's enterprise," Dr. Brinkley said. "I didn't even file an income tax in Kansas. She always had her own estate. When we moved down to Del Rio in 1933 we had that understanding. The hospital was hers."

Mrs. Brinkley had $154,000 when they started to Texas. Some $54,000 was transferred to Del Rio through usual banking channels. Twenty thousand dollars went into a yacht. The remaining $80,000 she personally brought to Texas in cash. That $80,000 fortune stayed in the Brinkley household, in cash. The $54,000 was comparatively safe in a Del Rio bank. The Brinkley hospital was started. Patients began arriving. Then Mrs. Brinkley became worried about her money.

$100,000 Flown to Canada.

"President Roosevelt was devaluing the dollar at the time," explained Dr. Brinkley. "Mrs. Brinkley withdrew money from the bank and added it to her $80,000 to make it an even $100,000.

"That night we kept the cash under special guard at the Del Rio National Bank. Early the next day our airplane pilot took the $100,000 and flew it to Canada. It was deposited in a Canadian bank and, because of exchange, shrank to $97,000. Later the interest raised it to $101,000 and Mrs. Brinkley withdrew it in 1935."

Later that year the Brinkleys took $15,000 and one of their three yachts and vacationed in Canada. Lawsuits developed and it took a $3000 bond to leave Canadian waters. The rest of the $15,000 was spent on the yacht and the trip.

Questioned by Gerland Patton, Little Rock (Ark.) attorney representing clients who are in litigation involving $230,000 in damage claims, Dr. Brinkley said Mrs. Brinkley now has: Jewelry, some stocks in the Del Rio Lumber Co., one or two automobiles, a few shares of Anaconda Copper stock, a few other stocks, some scattered real estate over the country, "and she may have a little cash on hand, but not very much."

He testified he operated a hospital in Little Rock in partnership with his wife and then bought a country club for $50,000 for another hospital. He dissolved the partnership with his wife in May, 1940, "so many lawsuits, with so many attorney fees, caused me to sell the hospital in Little Rock," he testified.

How Fortune Dwindled.

"I have no yacht now," he testified. "In December of 1940 I sold my last one to the United States Navy for $119,000."

From that sum, deposited in the Riverview State Bank at Kansas

MANY ARRESTED IN PROVINCES FOR WILD ANTI-NAZI DEMONSTRATIONS

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—An authoritative source declared today that Britain reserved the right to attack any German forces appearing in Yugoslavia and regarded the Axis-Belgrade agreement as the "thin edge of the wedge of German domination."

Yugoslavia, this source said, had been warned of the "dangers" of even a modified agreement.

He expressed belief the Germans would have more difficulty reconciling the Yugoslav peoples to the agreement than they had in either Rumania or Bulgaria.

BELGRADE, March 25 (AP).—Hundreds of arrests were made in provincial cities of Yugoslavia tonight as police sought to prevent any serious trouble resulting from national feeling over the nation's signing of the Axis pact.

The arrests followed wild anti-Axis demonstrations by schoolboys, Serb peasants, Communists and the revolutionary comitaji (rebels) today and tonight.

The gray-haired rebel leader Kosta Pecanac was reported to have left Belgrade for Southern Serbia to recruit the sons of his old World War revolutionary comrades for a new fight.

Headlines in red ink and blaring radios told Yugoslavs that their country had signed the three-power pact in Vienna, as Germany, Britain, Greece and Turkey cleared the decks for possible large-cale warfare on a new Balkan front.

Turkey faced the expected showdown with new confidence following a Russian declaration that the Soviet Union would remain neutral should the Turks be forced to fight the Germans. Diplomatic sources regarded the pledge as strengthening Ankara's resistance to the Axis.

Yugoslavs Look to Russia.

Anti-German elements in Yugoslavia, protesting against the alignment with the Axis, apparently were looking to Moscow for aid against Nazi penetration in the Balkans. Pamphlets scattered on Belgrade streets proclaimed that "Russia definitely is against the Germans' expansion in the Balkans." Some Belgrade papers asked: "Was Moscow notified?"

Communists in Croatia, meanwhile, were reported being rapidly organized. For what purpose was not disclosed.

Extra editions of Belgrade newspapers featured notes delivered to Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic by the German and Italian Foreign Ministers, promising to "respect the independence and territorial integrity of Yugoslavia forever" and that "the Axis Powers will not ask Yugoslavia to permit passage of troops."

Cries of "Down With Hitler."

Police riot squads hauled away several hundred boys between the ages of 14 and 19 who left their classrooms in two Belgrade schools to parade, singing and shouting, "Down with Hitler!" "Down with Mussolini!"

Even as the pact was signed pamphlets were being distributed declaring that Adolf Hitler would "burn his tongue" by nibbling on Yugoslavia."

MARSHAL GRAZIANI RESIGNS NORTH AFRICAN COMMAND

Also Gives Up Posts of Army Chief of Staff, Governor of Libya—Relieved 'at Own Request'—Aids Succeed Him.

ROME, March 25 (AP).—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani today resigned command of Italy's North African troops and the positions of army chief of staff and Governor of Libya.

An official announcement said Gen. Italo Gariboldi, chief of Graziani's staff in Libya, had been promoted to Governor, with command of troops in Libya. Gen. Mario Roatta, army under-chief of staff, was promoted to chief of staff.

Chief of staff since October, 1939, he was named commander of the army in Libya July 1, 1940, succeeding Marshal Italo Balbo, who was killed when his plane was shot down over Tobruk.

Graziani organized the Italian advance into Egypt, which was turned into a retreat when the British recaptured Sidi Barrani last December. He retained command throughout the British counter offensive, in which the Italians were driven from Eastern Libya.

Italy's military reverses in Africa and Albania have taken a heavy toll of high Fascist commanders—and most of them stepped out just as Marshal Graziani did, by resignation after repeated defeats.

The first to go was Gen. Visconti Prasca, replaced as chief of the Italian forces in Albania last Nov. 16 by Gen. Ubaldo Soddu. Last Dec. 6 Gen. Ugo Cavallero superseded Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the Italian general staff and Cavallero shortly afterward also was sent to Albania to take the command there from Soddu.

The resignations gave ill health as a cause.

Marshal Graziani, however, held his positions as Governor of Libya and commander of North African forces for months after his start of an invasion of Egypt backfired and he lost eastern Libya.

EARL BROWDER SURRENDERS TO START HIS 4-YEAR TERM

Former Secretary of Communist Party Going to Prison for Passport Fraud.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Earl Browder, former general secretary of the Communist party, surrendered today in Federal Court to serve a four-year sentence for passport fraud.

His conviction was upheld last month by the United States Supreme Court.

A $2000 check in payment of the fine imposed on Browder was received in the mail by the court clerk.

The check, drawn on the Amalgamated Bank of New York and signed by Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Communist official, was rubber-stamped with the words, "Defense Committee of Civil Rights for Communists, 799 Broadway."

NAZI AIR ATTACK ON BRAZILIAN VESSEL OFF EGYPT REPORTED

Ship Said to Have Been Bombed and Machine-Gunned; Three Crewmen Wounded.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 25 (AP).—A German plane was reported today to have bombed and machine-gunned the 5099-ton Brazilian merchant ship Taubate in a 90-minute attack about 100 miles northwest of Port Said.

19 IN CREW MISSING AFTER TANKER BLAST

Another Craft Reported to Have Taken Still Burning Boat in Tow.

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., March 25 (AP).—Capt. Dameron Meekins of the United States Coast Guard at Beaufort Inlet reported today that 17 survivors of the 9316-ton oil tanker Cities Service Denver had reached Morehead City and five others had been picked up by the W. W. Bruce, but that 19 were still missing after an explosion aboard the tanker.

Two of the survivors were badly burned. They were listed as Wenfield Campbell, Portland, Me., and Oscar Degerstedt, Two Harbors, Minn. They were taken to the Morehead City Hospital. Campbell and Degerstedt were among 17 survivors picked up from lifeboats by the tanker Pan-New York. They were transferred to a Coast Guard boat which brought them ashore here. None of the other 15 men was injured.

The W. W. Bruce, a tanker, was reported to have taken the Denver in tow, in spite of heavy seas, and was heading for Beaufort, near here. The tanker was still burning.

The chief mate of the stricken ship was quoted as saying he did not know what caused the explosion, or just what happened because the flames spread so rapidly.

Coast Guard headquarters at Washington received a report from a Coast Guard plane that the mate of the tanker said "it was believed that 19 men were trapped below decks at the time of the explosion."

The Cities Service Denver's home port was New York, but it regularly plied the Philadelphia-Corpus Christi (Tex.) run and was due in Philadelphia Thursday or Friday.

BELGRADE CHIEFS SIGN IN VIENNA; NAZIS PROMISE TO RESPECT BORDERS

New Partner Exempted From Furnishing Active Military Aid — Berlin Calls Pact 'Answer to Churchill and Roosevelt.'

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

VIENNA, March 25 (AP).—Yugoslavia joined the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo lineup as a fifth junior partner today, but gained pledges that no Axis troops would cross its frontiers.

In the great yellow hall of Belvedere Palace, Yugoslavia's Premier and Foreign Minister, Dragisa Cvetkovic and Aleksander Cincar-markovic, signed a document pledging collaboration with the Axis Powers.

Territorial Integrity Pledge.

Unlike Rumania and, more recently Bulgaria, which were promptly turned into encampments for German armies, after joining the Axis, Yugoslavia received the pledges of the three senior partners that its sovereignty and territorial integrity would be respected for "all time."

In addition, an unofficial version said, Yugoslavia was exempted from giving any active military aid to the Axis nations, but agreed, on the other hand, to permit transport of war material and hospital equipment, as well as wounded, through its territory.

Greece, which may provide the battlefields for this equipment, already has warned Yugoslavia that this would be regarded as a "hostile act."

In support of unofficial assertions that Yugoslavia was exempted from the obligation to give active military help, authoritative German sources said "we don't want Balkan divisions."

Among the commitments made by the Yugoslavs in turn, it was understood, were promises to gear their economic system to that of the Axis and to end anti-Axis agitation within the country.

Hitler Receives Yugoslavs.

Adolf Hitler, attended by his Foreign Minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, received the Yugoslav signers at the Hotel Imperial later. This was the second time they had seen Hitler during the day. All participants in the signing met him in Belvedere Castle immediately after the ceremony.

In Berlin, an authorized spokesman asserted that British Prime Minister Churchill had threatened Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia before they joined the Axis and asserted that "President Roosevelt had indirectly made a similar expression toward the Balkans and directly through the Yugoslav Minister in Washington."

DANES' ERSATZ TEA JUST AS GOOD TO SMOKE AS DRINK

COPENHAGEN (Via Berlin), March 25 (AP).—You can drink your tea or smoke it these days in Denmark.

Ersatz tea, a mixture of cherry and hawthorne leaves, is going great guns at local markets since Danes found it to be just as good ersatz for scarce pipe tobacco.

The mixture is doubly enjoyed by pipe smokers since it is a legal tea substitute and cannot be taxed as tobacco.

Swooping Navy Plane Cuts Off Head Of Woman Working in Field, Flies On

ROBERTSDALE, Ala., March 25 (AP).—An airplane swooping low across a field decapitated a 35-year-old mother here today and then flew away toward Florida.

Sheriff W. R. Stuart said Mrs. Robert Phillips was killed about noon in a 40-acre turnip field where she had been working. He said Mrs. Phillips was one of several persons who fled when the plane roared down across the field. Others fell to the ground to escape injury.

A piece of the plane's tail was found in the field and workers said the woman apparently was struck by the tail, rather than the propeller. There was no way of telling if the pilot knew he had struck someone.

The plane, which witnesses said appeared about noon and circled after the accident, was declared by State Patrolman H. A. Whitley to have been from the United States Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla. The witness asserted the plane apparently was in no trouble, since it gained height quickly and disappeared.

Promise to Ankara Viewed as Possibly Meaning Moscow Would Furnish Material Aid in Defense of Dardanelles.

ANKARA, March 25 (AP). — Soviet Russia clarified its attitude toward swiftly-moving events in the Balkans today by promising to remain neutral if Turkey, Britain's non-belligerent ally, were attacked and forced to enter the war in self-defense.

Announcement of the pledge, which observers believed would stiffen Turkish resistance to German overtures, coincided with reports that Russia had cut off oil shipments to the Reich and was concentrating additional army and naval forces in the Black Sea area.

High diplomatic circles saw in the Russian promise an implication that the Soviet is prepared to give Turkey full material support to defend the Dardanelles, vital gateway between the Mediterranean and Black seas, against any possible German encroachment. They said it was probable that Russia, which has been reported sending material aid to Greece for several weeks, may now ship such aid overland through Turkey.

(Reports from Belgrade said Russian military supplies already were flowing into Turkey across the Caucasus frontier.)

Stronger Soviet Policy Seen.

Diplomatic quarters attached particular significance to the fact that Russia's reassurances to Turkey coincided with Yugoslavia's entrance into the German-Italian-Japanese camp.

The Soviet declaration was regarded by these circles as a further development of Russian policy reflected when the Kremlin publicly announced earlier this month its disapproval of Bulgaria's action in opening its frontiers to German troops.

Observers expressed belief Russia was feeling increasing concern for its own vital interests, not only in the Balkan zone, but in a larger sphere.

With German armies less than 100 miles from the Dardanelles, the Reich in control of the entrance to the Baltic Sea and Japan established in the Pacific with a vastly superior fleet, Russia is virtually landlocked from a strategic point of view, these sources said. In the Far North, Russia has only one year-round ice-free port, Murmansk.

The Russian pledge to Turkey, announced here in a special communique, is a reaffirmation of a non-aggression pact negotiated between the two countries in 1925. In return for the Russian promise, the Turkish Government said it had given the Soviet similar reassurances.

Communique on Pledge.

"These declarations have been recently exchanged by the Turkish and Soviet governments:

"Following reports which have appeared in the foreign press to the effect that if Turkey is obliged to enter the war the Soviet would take advantage of the difficulties with which Turkey would be confronted in order to attack her, and in connection with a question raised on the subject, the Soviet Government has informed the Turkish Government as follows:

"'1. Such reports do not correspond in any way to the position of the Soviet Government.

"'2. In the event that Turkey should be the object of aggression and she found herself obliged to enter war for the defense of her territory, Turkey could then, in conformity with the non-aggression pact existing between herself and the U. S. S. R., rely on the full and comprehensive neutrality of the U. S. S. R.'

"The Turkish Government has expressed to the Soviet Government its sincerest thanks for this declaration and has informed it that the U. S. S. R. on its side, in the event it should find itself in a similar situation, could rely on the full and comprehensive neutrality of Turkey."

Welles Says U. S. Is Pleased at Soviet Pledge to Turkey.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, expressed the United States Government's satisfaction today that Soviet Russia had given a new declaration of friendship to pro-British Turkey.

Welles told his press conference that at a time when so many nations had lost their autonomy and independence, it was a measure of satisfaction to this country when a great Power like the Soviet Union reaffirms its intention of maintaining its "comprehensive" neutrality in event that a neighboring country were to suffer an attack.

At the same time, Welles indicated that the United States had taken active diplomatic measures in an effort to persuade Yugoslavia to resist Axis demands.

Street Cars Collide, Man Killed.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —A motorman was killed and 16 passengers were injured in a collision of two street cars at a downtown intersection early today. One car was overturned.

German Infantry Reported in Italy To Bar Separate Peace, Keep Order

18 or 20 Divisions Said to Have Entered Country in Strict Secrecy—Four Near Yugoslavia, Belgrade Hears.

BELGRADE, March 25 (AP).—Foreign military observers heard reports last night that there now are 18 or 20 German infantry divisions in Italy—to keep internal order and to forestall any attempt by Italy to negotiate a separate peace.

The troops were said to have entered the country in strictest military secrecy. Informants said emphatically that they were infantrymen—despite Italian denials and German explanations that some ground troops have been sent in to service German air units operating in Italy.

These estimates of German strength in Italy followed an earlier report of the presence of four German divisions in Northeast Italy near the Yugoslav border.

The United States Government was informed of the earlier report, but no confirmation of it has been made except acknowledgement in Rome that German flyers and ground crews were in Italy.

The observer who reported the four divisions said the German troops were promptly dispatched to the south, being scattered along highway routes and railroads. Some were sent to Silicily for transportation to Tripoli to join Italian forces, he added.

Movements of all potential observers in Italy have come under strict control and all foreigners seeking to pass through Northern Italy have been refused passports.

STEEL STRIKERS AND POLICE FIGHT WITH TEAR GAS BOMBS

Nickle said he had 25 deputies on duty, 22 of them "especially appointed" for the job.

At a mass meeting this morning strikers were given instructions for mass picketing this afternoon.

The plant here is the parent one of the vast Bethlehem organization which has more than one billion dollars in defense contracts. The plant here employs 21,000.

In a move toward peace, Howard Curtiss, district SWOC head, announced a four-point program through which he said he hoped for "early termination of the strike."

The SWOC meanwhile called a mass meeting of members at the corporation's Johnstown, Pa., plant tonight to discuss plans for a "three-day holiday and demonstration" to be held if an ERP election starts at that plant tomorrow. ERP representatives said the election would be held as scheduled. The plant employs 15,000.

"Illegal Election" Charge.

The walkout was called by the SWOC at 5:30 p. m. yesterday because, Curtiss charged, the Employes Representation Plan began what he said was "an illegal" election. The SWOC claims the ERP is a company-dominated union.

Curtiss said eventually 18,000 would be out. Of the 21,000 employes here, 18,000 are eligible for union membership. The ERP, however, claims 16,000 members.

Curtiss asserted that less than 2000 of the usual shift of 8000 men were in the plant today and added:

"That number consists mainly of maintenance men and production could not be carried out."

Demonstrators Gave Way.

Tear gas was used by a city policeman to disperse pickets who thronged around an automobile driven by a company policeman as the car approached the main gate of the plant while shifts were changing at 7 o'clock this morning.

The demonstrators gave way as a charge from a tear gas gun was loosed in their direction. The company policeman proceeded into the plant.

Several automobiles of workbound employes were surrounded and turned away. A clash between police and strikers occurred as the police attempted to remove an overturned car that blocked one gate. Curtiss said several policemen had been "roughed up." Two strikers were taken in custody but promptly released in bail.

Attitude of Strikers.

Curtiss, announcing the SWOC's four-point program, indicated the union might be agreeable to calling off the strike as soon as the company agreed to conferences to discuss the points.

His proposal:

1. That strikers be returned to their jobs without loss of seniority.

2. That the company "withdraw permission from the ERP for holding elections on company property."

3. That the company abide by an order of the National Labor Relations Board to disestablish the ERP. (The NLRB issued such an order some months ago. The company's appeal is now pending.)

4. That the company agree to enter negotiations toward a Labor Board election in the plant for selection of a collective bargaining agency.

Curtiss said 1500 pickets were stationed at the nine gates of the plant this morning.

"City police brought wrecking cars to remove it, but our men refused to permit them. We had 300 men who prevented the police from acting and there was somewhat of a personal encounter. The police were roughed up a bit and the car is still there."

Violence started last night soon after the start of the 11 o'clock shift when pickets and strike sympathizers overturned a machine they said was carrying food to workers who stayed in the plant.

Windows in the machine were smashed as pickets removed the food and then righted the car. No one was injured.

Officials of the company which has seven plants in Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland, maintained silence on the situation after a statement by Plant Manager R. A. Lewis, who asserted the steel firm had "nothing to do" with the ERP election.

John J. Coburn, a spokesman for the ERP, estimated that 8000 workers had voted during yesterday's balloting but added the total would not be known until all the ballots are counted.

GERMANS SAY U. S. ACTED UNNEUTRALLY IN RETURNING ESCAPED NAZIS TO CANADA

BERLIN, March 25.

GERMAN spokesmen decried today the return of two escaped German prisoners to Canadian officials after the prisoners had been intercepted at the United States border.

"It is no longer possible to speak of the neutrality of the United States," it was declared. "Unchivalrous is the least term that can be applied to this action."

"That's putting it mildly," another spokesman said. "Not even England would do a trick like that."

Counsel for the two German naval officers, Lieut. Bernhardt Gohlke and Lieut. Heniz Rottman, appealed at Ogdensburg, N. Y., yesterday from an order of immigration officials for their return to Canada.

EXPLOSION WRECKS PLANT OF OREGON CHEMICAL FIRM

11 Injured at Portland; Workman Says He Thinks Blast Originated in Mixing Machine.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 25 (AP).—An explosion today wrecked the R. N. Chipman Chemical Co. plant, which was being converted for the production of explosive chemicals. Eleven persons were injured.

An injured workman told first-aid workers he thought the blast originated in a chemical mixing machine. Eight employes suffered burns and bruises. Three rescue workers from the neighboring General Metals factory, which was damaged, suffered acid burns in extricating victims from the wreckage.

Firemen fought the fire that followed the explosion for several hours, using gas masks as yellow smoke poured from the flaming structure.

NAZIS SAY LIBYAN POST OF AGHEILA IS IN THEIR HANDS

Armored Units Reported in Former British Stronghold—English Near Harar in Ethiopian Drive.

BERLIN, March 25 (AP).—Authorized sources said today German troops had hoisted the swastika flag over the former British stronghold of Agheila, 150 miles southwest of Bengasi, Libya.

The announcement said Nazi armored units were garrisoned there, but did not disclose how they gained the position.

CAIRO, March 25 (AP).—British forces which penetrated Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland early this month are approaching the walled city of Harar in their drive on the Addis Ababa-Jibuti railway from Jijiga, a communique said today.

"A number of prisoners and quantities of equipment were taken during and following the action of Marda Pass," captured yesterday, the communique added. "In the meantime, operations north of Neghelli continued to develop successfully."

It reported that in Eritrea, British troops repulsed another counterattack southwest of Cheren, "inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy."

Meanwhile, the fight for Giarabub, Italy's last stronghold in Eastern Libya to fall, was described by the British Air Ministry as one of "the fiercest hand-to-hand battles ever fought in the heart of the desert."

The oasis town, long besieged, was taken March 21 after a nine-hour attack by Australians, supported by British planes, artillery and armored cars.

The principal defenses, the ministry's news service said, were a series of rocky knolls on the south, "bristling with guns" and tunneled to provide an underground arsenal and shelters.

Australians went through gaps in the wire at dawn and fought in a sandstorm "which, while offering some protection, jammed their rifles and blinded them as they crawled toward the Italian machine gun nests."

"Periods of close action followed when bayonets and hand grenades only were used. By 10 o'clock the entire Australian infantry forces were engaged in hand-to-hand struggles."

The news service said the British took more than 800 prisoners and when the battle was over "dozens of Italians lay dead."

British Held Back in Jijiga and Cheren Sectors, Rome Claims.

ROME, March 25 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported its forces were holding off British attacks in the Jijiga sector in Ethiopia and around Cheren in Eritrea.

In Western Ethiopia, a communique said, British attacks in the Yavello sector were repulsed with heavy losses.

British air attacks on Italian troops near Sirte, Libya, caused some casualties, it said, while at Asmara, capital of Eritrea, nine persons were killed and 25 injured in a British raid.

BRITISH SINKING 3 TONS OF SHIPPING TO EVERY 4 LOST, ADMIRALTY SAYS

LONDON, March 25 (AP).

THE Admiralty announced today that 23 British and Allied merchantmen totaling 71,773 tons were lost in the week ended March 16. Of these, 17 were British, totaling 60,670 tons.

This compared with total losses of 98,832 tons the previous week and 141,314 the week before.

The Admiralty declared that in the five weeks up to March 16, Britain's own naval and air raiders were sinking almost three tons of Axis ships for every four tons Britain and its Allies lost. Compared with the announced total of 410,000 tons lost to Allied and neutral shipping during the period, the British said Axis losses were 300,000 tons.

U. S. AID REPORTED OFFERED YUGOSLAVS

Envoy Said to Have Made Washington Attitude Clear —Roosevelt Freezes Funds.

BELGRADE, March 25 (AP).—A qualified neutral source said today that Arthur Bliss Lane, United States Minister, conducted a vigorous four-week campaign while Yugoslavia was considering joining the Axis to let Yugoslavia know the position of the United States.

Lane, this source said, made it clear to Government leaders from Regent Prince Paul down that the United States would "aid any nation which would defend itself."

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —President Roosevelt today froze all funds of Yugoslavia in the United States. This was announced at the Treasury soon after Yugoslavia signed the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis pact.

The action prohibited the use or removal of any Yugoslavian cash, securities or other movable assets in this country. Commerce Department experts estimated such Yugoslavian assets totaled $1,000,000.

Yugoslavia is the thirteenth nation the funds of which in the United States have been frozen. The other nations have about $4,500,000,000 in assets here. They are Norway, Denmark, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxemburg, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Affected indirectly, if Yugoslavia adopts reprisal measures, are about $36,000,000 worth of American investments in Yugoslavia, most of it private American holdings of Yugoslavian Government bonds.

MARTIAL LAW IN SYRIAN TOWNS TO STOP DISORDERS

Reports Say French Failed to Placate Extremists Demanding Independence.

JERUSALEM, March 25 (AP).—Dispatches from Beirut, Lebanon, today said Gen. Henri Dentz, French commandant in the Levant states, had placed several towns under martial law to prevent disorders, demonstrations and strikes.

The dispatches said he had failed to placate extremists demanding Syrian independence under a 1936 pact with France, which holds Syria as a mandated territory.

port in a Hungarian newspaper that the President had offered support to Yugoslavia if it resisted the Axis overtures.

Von Rippentrop touched on this point when the addressed diplomats at the signing ceremony, predicting that "this event will have especial importance for the future of Yugoslavia and the well-being of her people."

He said there were two special reasons for joy that Yugoslavia had joined the Axis:

First, because, "practically speaking, the hitherto neutral Balkans now have come into the camp of the new order in a body and, secondly, a state which . . . as reported, England and America tried to influence—which must be described of as an unheard of act—now has joined us."

The published version of the ceremony quoted Premier Cvetkovic as replying that it had always been Yugoslavia's policy to keep the peace with neighboring countries.

Donovan's Visit Recalled.

The commentary, Dienst Aus Deutschland, which has close German Foreign Office connections, said the Yugoslav action "commands higher value because it follows a situation in which to the last moment every effort was made by Anglo-Saxon quarters to turn Yugoslav politics into a contrary channel."

"The Southeast European journey of Col. Donovan, sent by Roosevelt, whose most important stopover was Belgrade, is recalled," Dienst added.

(William J. Donovan toured Southeastern Europe and Northern Africa and visited Ireland and Britain on a recent tour, ostensibly unofficial.)

One Berlin commentator asserted that the political effect of Yugoslavia's entry into the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance "will exceed that of all previous signings." He recalled that 26 nations were aligned against Germany in 1914-18, but asserted "now we are equal to any combination on earth."

As on the occasions when Hungary and Bulgaria signed with the Axis, the ceremony took place in Belvedere Palace in the presence of Von Ribbentrop, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese Ambassador to Berlin. They signed for their respective countries while Yugoslav Premier Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Cincar-Markovic signed for Yugoslavia.

Von Ribbentrop Reads Notes.

The Axis governments addressed identical notes to Premier Cvetkovic. The German note was read by Von Ribbentrop and bore his signature.

"In connection with today's action of Yugoslavia in signing the three-Power pact," it said, "the German Government confirms its determination to respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Yugoslavia for all time."

There was still another note to Yugoslavia signed by Von Ribbentrop:

"With reference to the negotiations in connection with Yugoslavia's joining the three-Power pact today, I have the honor, Your Excellency, in the name of the German administration, herewith to confirm an agreement between the Axis governments and the royal Yugoslav Government that the governments of the Axis Powers during this war will not permit the marching or transport of troops through Yugoslav territory."

Yugoslavs Sign Protocol.

Yugoslavia, as did the four other junior partners of the Axis, did not sign the original Rome-Berlin-Tokyo treaty, but signed a protocol by which it accepted the pact—with specifications to fit its particular case. Other signers and the dates of their affiliation: Nov. 20, 1940, Hungary; Nov. 23, Rumania; Nov. 24, Slovakia; March 1, 1941, Bulgaria.

The 10-year tripartite pact, signed in Berlin Sept. 27, 1940, provides that the three Powers shall "mutually support" each other in the event any one is attacked by a power not then involved in the European or Far Eastern conflicts. The treaty specifically stated that any treaty any of the Powers had with Russia would not be affected by the pact.

Japan's leadership in the "creation of a new order in the great Asiatic region" and the leadership of Germany and Italy "in creating a new order in Europe" were mutually recognized.

Petitions of each of the four men deny that they have, at any time, been convicted of a felony or other infamous crime which would deny them the right to vote.

Mrs. Zeller's petition denies that she is not a citizen of the United States. She is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and a descendant of John Ross, who came to the United States in 1720. Early members of the family were George Ross, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Betsy Ross, popularly credited with making the first American flag.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Mrs. Zeller was married to Albert Zeller, a native of Germany, who became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1917.

McDaniel Declines to Comment on Damage Suits.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25 (AP). — Lawrence McDaniel declined comment today when informed he had been named defendant in five damage suits as a result of allegations in his petition contesting Gov. Forrest C. Donnell's election.

"We'll wait until we read the charges," said Taylor Smith, McDaniel's attorney.

GREEKS BEAT OFF ITALIAN ATTACKS IN HEAVY FIGHTING

Report Inflicting Big Loss on Enemy With Grenades and Bayonets in Viosa River Sector.

ATHENS, March 25 (AP).—Greek troops fighting in Albania inflicted heavy losses on Italian units in repulsing a series of Fascist attacks yesterday near the Viosa River, a Government spokesman announced today.

The Italians lost about two-thirds of the troops they threw into these attacks, the spokesman said. Fifty Italians were reported captured.

"The Italians displayed great determination despite heavy losses and succeeded in approaching our lines," he said. "But our men used hand grenades and charged with bayonets to inflict extremely great losses. The Italians thereupon retreated in confusion and left the field littered with dead and wounded.

"Prisoners taken by our troops said that there were many cases of self-inflicted wounds in the Fascist ranks—so many that orders were issued that all those suspected of such wounds were to be shot at once."

Dispatches from the front said Greek infantrymen still were burying Italian dead in the Tepelene sector, scene of an Italian offensive two weeks ago.

GERMANS BOMB TWO TOWNS IN BRITAIN; DAMAGE LIGHT

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—An Air Ministry communique tonight said:

"During daylight today enemy aircraft have been fairly active around the coast, but a few have flown inland. Bombs were dropped on a town on the south coast and at a place in west England, but little damage was done and no one was seriously injured."

Royall Air Force bombers attacked German shipping off the Dutch coast yesterday afternoon and sank one vessel with the loss of planes, the ministry said.

ECKER CHARGES SPECIAL 'LUG' ON CITY EMPLOYES

serts 8000 Workers Are Assessed $15 to $30 Each for Fund to Help Re-Elect Dickmann.

'WE NEED NO MONEY; RIGHT ON OUR SIDE'

Holland Says Democrats Have Cash 'to Flood Precincts' and 'Buy Election They Fear Is Lost.'

The 8000 city employes are being assessed between $15 and $30 each by the Democratic campaign committee to pay for Mayor Dickmann's drive for re-election, it was charged last night by former Judge William Dee Becker, Republican candidate for Mayor, in a speech at Concordia Turner Hall.

"This is, of course, in addition to the regular 1 per cent lug which the Public Employes' Welfare Association exacts from all city workers," Becker said.

"So you see that the issue in this campaign is whether the decent and right-thinking element in this city can overcome the Dickmann-Hannegan machine with its 8000 city employes, eight or nine to a precinct. But we'll meet that issue and defeat them.

"Sometimes I wish I had one-fifth of the money Barney Dickmann has raised in this campaign for himself. But we don't need it. When you're in a crusade and the right-minded people rise up to back you, then you don't need money because right is on your side."

Holland Speaks.

Another reference to political assessments on city employes was made by Joseph F. Holland, attorney, who is aiding in the Becker campaign. In a radio speech Holland asked:

"Would you like to know what happens to the $150,000 which is lugged in a year from city employes? It will go on election day to flood the precincts to buy an election which the Democrats fear is lost."

Holland said the fact that Michael J. O'Neill, Democratic candidate for Comptroller, had withdrawn from the race against Comptroller Louis Nolte was proof that the Democrats were worried.

"The removal of Mr. Nolte's opponent was the first great confession of the machine's fear. The hurried passage of the merit bill was a second. A month ago it would have been offered you by the Board of Aldermen at this election without added cost if Dickmann had said the word. But he didn't say it until three days ago, and now it goes on a special election in September to cost the taxpayers $60,000. Barney hesitates for 30 days and you pay $60,000. I don't think Barney is worth $2000 a day of anybody's money."

Man Offers "Real Proof."

Becker charged that all city employes who earn $100 a month were being assessed $15 for the campaign, those who make $150 were assessed $25, and those who make $200 or more were forced to donate $30. He was interrupted by a woman in the rear who shouted: "Mr. Becker, would you like to hear from someone who has real proof?"

A man came forward and identified himself as Alfred H. Hensing, 1868 South Eleventh street. He said he had quit his $55-a-month job as dishwasher at City Hospital because the Democrats had again asked him for campaign contributions. He exhibited two receipts showing that he had given $5.40 prior to the election last November.

"It was always a dollar here and two dollars there," he shouted into the microphone, "and when they came to me again for money I told them to keep their job before I'd give them another nickel." The solicitation was made by the timekeeper at the hospital, he said.

"I know I'll get a good beating for this," he added, "but I can take it."

None of those at the platform had apparently ever seen Hensing before. Becker told the audience the facts spoke for themselves.

No Lug, Becker Promises.

"But I know that in my administration," he added, "every man and woman on the city payroll will be entitled to his or her full salary, and it will not be diminished by any lug. Not one dime will we take from a city employe.

"I want no political machine and everyone who knows me knows the sincerity of that statement. If, after four years in office, I couldn't be re-elected on my merit by the very people who put me there the first time, I wouldn't want to be re-elected."

Becker, speaking extemporaneously for the first time while making one of his major addresses, referred sarcastically to Mayor Dickmann's plea that Becker state the issues and say what he would do if elected. Becker said he had been doing nothing else except stating the issues and pointed out that his program had been printed several times in full in the newspapers.

"It's too bad," he said, "if Barney is too busy campaigning to be able to read the newspapers or listen to the radio." He then repeated a 20-point program which he has touched on in all of his speeches. He repeated that he would be happy to meet Dickmann in debate.

"But the real issue," he added, "is

"But the real issue," he added, "is whether the citizens of St. Louis shall say to the citizens of the 47 other states that they approve of boss rule. We do not intend to condone any man who trifles with the fundamentals of our democratic government."

Attacks "On the Map" Slogan.

Becker challenged the slogan advertised on Democratic billboards that Dickmann "put St. Louis on the map." He brought along two copies of Life magazine, one of which had a story on smoke elimination, the other an account of the governorship "investigation" at Jefferson City.

"Let me read you the headline on this later story," Becker said. "Here it is: 'State government at standstill as Democrats try to steal governorship.' Is that what Barney calls putting St. Louis on the map? Here's a line from the story: 'Democrats in Missouri take all-American booby prize for political buffoonery.' Those aren't my words. Those are from a national magazine. Is that putting us on the map?"

The hall in which Becker spoke was crowded to overflowing, with men and women standing in every corner and in all the aisles.

Former Circuit Judge Henry A. Hamilton, in a radio speech last night in Becker's behalf, said that "St. Louis problems remain unsolved for the simple reason that Mayor Dickmann can never solve them due to political entanglements in which he has enmeshed himself."

Dickmann Headquarters Says Hensing Was Fired Feb. 17.

Dickmann-for-Mayor Headquarters released a statement today in which it was said that Alfred Hensing, the city employe who appeared at the Becker meeting last night, had been discharged from his job at City Hospital Feb. 17 for being "absent without leave." He had been discharged for the same reason Feb. 9, the statement said, but had been reinstated.

WHICH END OF STREET CAR DO YOU READ? ANSWER MAY DECIDE WHO'LL BE MAYOR

HOW you vote may be determined by which end of a street car you read, for the hard-fought mayoralty campaign has been extended to the city's trolleys.

The Republicans started it by buying poster space on the front of most street cars to exhort voters: "Now smash boss rule in St. Louis—elect Becker."

"Boss rule? Bunk!" the Democrats sneered back in posters placed on the rear of the same street cars this week. "Continue good government with Dickmann."

BITTER POLITICAL ROW OVER RENTAL OF HALL

Republicans Threaten Suit, Say They Made Reservation and Democrats Canceled It.

The hard fight being waged by the two major parties to capture the votes in the Twenty-fourth Ward, largest and most populous in the city, reached a bitter stage last night when Democratic and Republican ward leaders quarreled angrily over the rental of Big Club Hall, largest on "the Hill," for mass meetings Thursday evening.

James G. Blaine, attorney and Republican Committeeman of the ward, told a Post-Dispatch reporter his ward organization last Saturday arranged to rent the hall, paying a deposit. About 4000 cards were sent out, he said, for a mass gathering of Republicans Thursday night.

Last night, he said, Alderman Louis G. Berra of the Ward, a Democrat and political power on "the Hill," telephoned to say there had been a mistake in the schedule, as the Democratic ward organization also planned to hold a meeting there that night, and that the Republicans were "out of luck."

Blaine and the committeewoman of the ward, Mrs. H. J. Koelling, and several Republican ward workers hurried over to see Berra at his headquarters, the Fairmont Club, 5208 Shaw boulevard, in the Big Club Hall. Hot words followed, but Berra, whose organization controls the hall, stood pat.

Blaine, dismayed at the thought that many Republicans who received cards may not hear of the postponement in time and will attend a Democratic rally, said a protest meeting will be held by Republicans of the ward this evening at Gola Hall, Patterson and Edwards avenues.

"And that's not all," he added. "We're going to file suit against them for breaking their agreement with us." Berra could not be reached.

BROTHERS QUESTIONED IN PLAYMATE'S DEATH

Elder of Pair Said to Admit Killing Michigan Youth With Hatchet.

MUSKEGON, Mich., March 25 (AP).—Glenn Arthur Brough Jr., 14 years old, and his brother, Benny, 11, of Fruitport Township, faced further questioning today by Sheriff Peter Cardinal in connection with the killing of Jack Kelly, 13, whose mutilated body was found Sunday near their farm home.

The two boys were returned here last night after they were picked up by police at Lansing yesterday. Police Capt. John J. Early of Lansing said the elder boy admitted the killing last Saturday morning.

"We got into a fight at my house and Jack threatened to go home and get his .22 rifle, so I grabbed a hatchet and beat him to death," he was quoted as saying. "Then Benny and I dragged his body to the swamp and covered it with saplings and leaves."

Sheriff Cardinal said he was not satisfied with the elder boy's story. "The hatchet was found only 300 feet from the body and we have other proof that the killing took place along the highway," he said.

Benny was absolved of any part in the killing by his elder brother, officers said. "He helped me drag the body to the swamp and cover it, but he did not strike Jackie," they quoted Glenn as saying.

Search for the Kelly boy began Saturday night when he failed to return home.

The hunt for the two Brough boys began Sunday night, after they ran away from their father and another brother, Marvin, near the swamp. The father, Glenn Arthur Brough Sr., 40-year-old Grand Rapids plasterer, became suspicious and went to the swamp, where he found the body of the Kelly boy.

TOMORROW IS DEADLINE FOR REGISTRATION CHANGE

Clerks at the Election Board office, 208 South Twelfth boulevard, were busy today transferring the names of registered voters who have moved since the primary election. Tomorrow is the last day for making a transfer before next Tuesday's election.

The Election Board office will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight, but will close at 5 p. m. tomorrow. There has been no registration since before the primary election.

Persons struck off the registration list in the canvass before the primary can appeal to the Circuit Court for reinstatement on the rolls, if they can prove their right to vote. Yesterday Judge Robert L. Aronson directed that 114 be added to the lists.

The board has received 102 requests for absentee ballots from St. Louisans serving with the army.

WESTON SEEKING RE-ADMISSION TO EAST SIDE UNION

Operators Reject Application Second Time in 6 Months Despite Charter Revocation Threat.

Clyde A. Weston, who, with John P. Nick, was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $10,000 in United States District Court last September for violation of the Anti-Racketeering Act by domination of Movie Operators' Local Union 143 and of the picture show business in St. Louis, is trying to obtain restoration of his membership in East St. Louis Movie Operators' Local 288, from which he withdrew six years ago to enter broader fields, the Post-Dispatch learned today. Weston's appeal from the Federal Court conviction is pending.

Barred permanently by injunction last April from participation in the affairs of Local 143, of which he was business agent, Weston recently has been working as an extra operator in East St. Louis, by virtue of his membership in the Stagehands' Union, affiliated with the operators' union.

The East Side local voted 12 to two at a meeting last Wednesday against permitting Weston to regain his membership, turning down his application for the second time in six months, it was learned.

No Comment From Officer.

Zollie Holt, local president, declined to discuss the matter with a reporter other than to say Weston's application was still pending. He said he would make no statement until the matter was "cleared up."

It was learned, however, that several days before last week's meeting, an international representative of the union called several members to an informal meeting at Hotel Chase and urged them to restore Weston, under threat of revocation of the local's charter by the parent body, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators.

Members were unmoved by the threat in the knowledge that under the international's rules the local has autonomy over matters of membership. Under the rules, a rejected applicant for membership must wait six months before applying again.

Publicity Consideration.

The members' chief reason for voting Weston down, it was said, was because of the adverse publicity which would result. It was felt Weston had helped the union by his activities as an international representative in former years, but it was admitted that he "did it a lot of harm, too."

In testimony at his trial last summer, Weston said he helped organize the Theatrical Stage Employes' Union in East St. Louis in 1908 and five years later organized the East Side movie operators and acted as their business agent.

The charges on which he was convicted were that he and Nick obtained $6500 from theater owners in 1937 through exorbitant wage demands and obtained money illegally from owners in other ways.

A charge of extortion against Nick and Weston, growing out of the same $6500 payment, is pending in State Circuit Court. A similar charge against Nick, based on an an alleged $10,000 payment by theater owners in 1936, was dismissed on a directed verdict by the late Circuit Judge Thomas J. Rowe Jr. Edward M. (Putty-Nose) Brady, a former State Representative, jointly charged with Nick in the 1936 case, was freed on a nolle prosequi filed by former Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller on advice of Judge Rowe.

SENATE VOTES TO EMPTY, LOCK BARS AT CLOSING HOUR

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25 (AP).—The Senate passed a bill today requiring bars to be locked and empty of customers promptly at the State's liquor curfew—1:30 a. m. week nights and midnight Saturdays.

That would end the present practice by the State Liquor Control Department of permitting customers to finish drinks already purchased when the closing hour strikes.

Only one vote—that of Senator Michael Kinney (Dem.), St. Louis—was cast against the bill. It now goes to the House.

Senator Phil M. Donnelly (Dem.), Lebanon, author of the measure, said a final vote on a companion bill would bar Sundays sales of 3.2 beer.

Says Abrogation of Option Contracts Is Trying to Remedy One Mistake by Another.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri appeared before the House Military Affairs Committee today to plead the cause of St. Charles County farmers who have been dispossessed of their land, on which the Government is building the Weldon Spring TNT plant, but have not yet been paid for their property.

Cannon explained that the farmers had been dispossessed at the time the War Department abrogated its contract with R. Newton McDowell, Kansas City contractor employed to get options, on the ground that the prices McDowell had agreed to pay were too high.

"Apparently the only excuse of the War Department for abrogating the contract," remarked Representative Dow W. Harter of Ohio, "is that they made a mistake and set land prices too high." Harter is acting chairman of the committee.

"That's exactly it," Cannon replied. "They propose to remedy one mistake by another mistake at the expense of those least able to pay."

Cannon declined to say under questioning that the prices under the options were too high. He said the average price for farm land in the options was $114 an acre and the average price for town property was $185 an acre. He added that he thought farm land in the vicinity had previously sold for as high as $200 an acre.

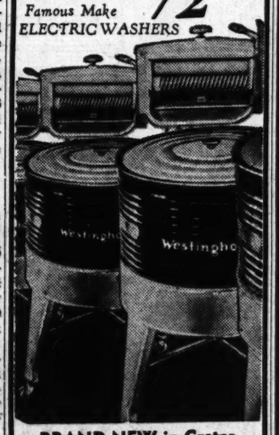

"I do not want to pass on the question of fair prices," Cannon added. "The thing that concerns me is that the Government agreed to pay stipulated prices and they are now refusing to pay those prices." He said "wealthy St. Louisans" who had recently bought property in the county had been paid because they had new abstracts, while farmers whose titles went back to Spanish grants had not been paid when the options were abrogated.

Under the contract, McDowell would receive a total fee of about $150,000, Cannon estimated.

Just what the Military Affairs Committee could do to resolve the Weldon Spring controversy was not apparent, except that it could recommend passage of a law forbidding contracts such as given to McDowell.

Donnell Irritates G. O. P. Politicians By Failure to Oust Contest Backers

Party Men Can't Understand Why He Doesn't Hit Back at Democrats by Means of Law Giving Dismissal Power.

By CURTIS A. BEITS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—Republican politicians of the old school are becoming vexed by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell's failure to remove from office Democratic officeholders who participated actively in the attempt to deprive the Governor of his office through legislative "investigation" proceedings and later helped in raising funds to meet the expenses of Lawrence McDaniel's contest of the Governor's election.

Some of the politicians, more practical than the Governor or, it may work out, less practical, profess to believe that they cannot understand why he does pot invoke a law passed by a Democratic Legislature in 1933 to enable an incoming Democratic Governor to oust holdover Republican officials. Under that law a Governor may remove any official appointed by the Governor without assigning any other reason than "for the betterment of the public service," the law resting solely in the Governor the discretion of deciding what is for the good of the service.

The statute has not been extensively used, Gov. Guy B. Park removing a few officials and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark a few. Gov. Donnell so far has removed none, the only important change in personnel since he was inaugurated being the substitution of Miss Margaret Cobb for W. B. McGregor as assistant budget director. He accomplished that by asking McGregor for his resignation and getting it.

Enigma to Politicians.

This is but one of many things the politicians cannot understand about the Governor. He is an enigma, the like of which they never have seen before in the Governor's office. So far he has had extremely few conference with Republican leaders about any official matter. He has conferred with the Democratic officials in other offices on matters coming within their jurisdiction or special knowledge, and has gone ahead being Governor in too non-partisan a way to suit his own party men.

Some of the organization Republicans insist that the Governor, in defending himself against McDaniel's contest and against the Democratic organization which sponsored it, could stop the collection of funds from Democratic State employes to finance the contest by arbitrarily removing the heads of departments who countenanced such collections from their subordinates. These Republicans would not hesitate a moment in removing executive-appointed officials who have lobbied for the prosecution of the contest.

The Governor, however, has given no sign in any official action that he even knew a contest was pending. He not only has conferred with Democratic officials, but in social functions at the executive mansion Mrs. Donnell has had the wives of these officials assist in the entertaining and has mixed them in with the wives of Republicans of prominence.

No Office Time on Contest.

Not long ago the Governor had occasion to confer with the attorneys representing him in the contest. He invited them to the executive mansion for luncheon, telling them the conference could be held at the luncheon hour. Then he told them that it would be impossible for him to have any talks about the contest during regular business hours, that his time belonged to the State's business and that his personal affairs, which he considered the contest to be, would have to be deferred until after office hours.

There is talk about a State liquor inspector who accidentally included among the vouchers filed with his expense account last month his receipt for his contribution to the McDaniel contest fund. The inspector still holds his job, but the Republican politicians are certain he could be discharged if the Governor would merely bring a little pressure to bear.

There has been much less activity by jobholders in fostering the McDaniel contest since Gov. Donnell was inaugurated. Contributions are being received from Democratic jobholders but apparently the heads of the departments are not doing the collecting, at least not in many instances.

They are still taking the new Governor's measure. They are hesitating about doing anything which would cause him to act hastily in selecting their successors if he should win the contest.

In the meantime, the contest is proceeding slowly and will be decided by a Democratic Legislature if it does not peter out before the Legislature gets around to passing on it. Through it all Donnell just keeps on being Governor in a political atmosphere strangely different from any which ever has prevailed in Jefferson City.

He said today he would file an answer to McDaniel's contest petition "probably tomorrow." He would give no intimation of the contents of his cross-petition.

WORKERS ACCEPT UNION ELECTRIC OFFER IN DISPUTE

Engineers Who Had Authorized Strike Agree to Proposal—12 Men to Get Jobs Back at Once.

The dispute between Union Electric Co. and the AFL Operating Engineers' Union ended today with announcement that the union had accepted a settlement proposed by William McClellan, president of the utility. Final action by the union was taken at a third meetnig of its members last night at the Catholic Community Center in East St. Louis.

McClellan's announcement of the settlement terms said 12 of 17 men laid off were to get jobs back without loss of pay for the time they have been idle and others will be given work as soon as it is available.

Union members had asserted 18 men were laid off at the Venice plant March 14. They demanded that these men be restored to their jobs and authorized officers to call a strike at the Venice, Cahokia and Bagnell power plants of the utility if the dispute could not be settled by negotiation.

McClellan's statement was:

"All I can say is that the union presented a complaint about a number of shifts, including the layoff of employes at certain plants. After making a thorough personal investigation I found that there was some justification for these complaints. Seventeen employes had been laid off because of the cessation of the work they were doing, at a time when other work was available for some of them in the same plants, which however was unknown to the department for which they were working. Ten of these men are to be transferred to the other department and two men are to be restored to their original positions, without loss of pay for the time they had been idle.

"At the time of the layoff there was no work available for the remaining men at the plants where they had been working. However, it was reported to us that two or three of these men have left the employ of the company for reasons of their own. The remaining men will be given work with the company as soon as work is available at the plants."

DICKMANN CALLS ON BECKER TO END 'BREAST-BEATING'

'Stop Shilly-Shallying and Beautiful Generalizations, Tell Plans for the City.'

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, carrying on his new tactics of attacking directly William Dee Becker, the Republican nominee for Mayor, challenged him to "stop his shilly-shallying and tell of his plans for the city," in a talk to 1000 persons last night at St. Joseph's Hall, Twelfth and Russell boulevards. This gave the evening's campaign activities a somewhat pugnacious tinge, for Judge Becker last night for his part, militantly challenged the Mayor to a debate "on the issues."

Voters of the Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth wards packed St. Joseph's Hall to hear Dickmann assail his Republican opponent, showing far more enthusiasm for the Mayor's new battle strategy of hitting at Judge Becker than had been evoked in previous meetings by Dickmann's recital of his administration's achievements.

In the Busy Streets.

"I challenge my opponent to stop his breast-beating about the fact he says he found some dirt in a curb of some busy street," Dickmann said sarcastically. "I'm hopeful the streets of St. Louis will continue to be busy. Let him tell us what he proposes to do with the recommendations of the city survey made by this administration.

"Let him stop speaking in beautiful generalizations. He declares that he is in favor of more safety on the streets. No doubt, he is also in favor of home and country, but I say to the citizens of St. Louis that we are doing something about the safety of the city instead of just talking about it. And we are going to do even more.

"I say to my Republican opponent"—Dickmann studiously avoided mentioning Judge Becker by made—"stop your shilly-shallying. I admit I'm only the Mayor, a business man. I don't know how to twist words so that they will be all things to all men. I challenge for my Republican opponent to tell us of his plans. Let him stop telling the people that he admits what this administration has done has been good, but that he would like to do them for a while himself. Let us all join in asking him to speak up for the future of St. Louis."

Has Nothing to Hide.

Turning again to the Citizens' Survey report, the Mayor said his willingness to have a group of impartial governmental experts make such a survey was evidence that the administration had nothing to hide. The Republican "campaign orators," he went on, have been unable to find anything in the report on which to base criticism of the administration, and therefore are conducting a "campaign of silence" against the report.

"How my opponent has tortured and racked his brain to discover some method by which he could undo the effect of this frank and honestly conducted survey," he continued. "He knew that it is a strange political machine, indeed, which says to an unbiased public agency, 'Come on in, examine our records, let the public know what you find.'

"Ladies and gentlemen, the report of the Governmental Research Institute is public property, but you would never know it if you listen to the Republican campaign orators. It is as if no survey had been made at all. But I'm willing to wager that they've gone over every word in the survey so many times they probably have it memorized!"

Byrnes on Governorship.

James W. Byrnes, Democratic candidate for Mayor in 1921, who followed the Mayor to the lectern, vigorously defended Dickmann against what he said had been made the paramount issue in the mayoral campaign—the Mayor's actions in connection with the Democrats' attempt to prevent the seating of Gov. Forrest C. Donnell. It was the first defense of the Mayor on this subject in the current campaign.

"There was a meeting in the De Soto Hotel following the presidential election," Byrnes recounted. "What happened? Purely as a matter of courtesy, the chairman of the City Democratic Committee invited the Mayor to attend, which in courtesy he did. More than that, it was his duty to know what was going on.

"But beyond knowing what was going on, the Mayor was tied. There are important bills pending in the State Legislature affecting St. Louis, the largest single taxpaying unit in the entire State. One of these, for example, is the proposal to have the State take over the operation of the City Sanitarium, which in justice it should do. Now, the Mayor was in no position to jeopardize these matters affecting the city by trying to tell the legislators what to do in the governorship matter. It makes no difference what he thought of the whole question, he had no right to take sides.

"What he did say was that all the votes cast for Governor should be counted, a proper and just solution, and in accordance with the laws of the State. He could not go beyond that."

Boisaubin and Dearmont.

Vincent L. Boisaubin, Democratic nominee for president of the Board of Aldermen, making his first campaign address last night, told of his surprise when he received a telephone call last Thursday from Chairman Robert E. Hannegan of the City Committee asking him to run for the office. "Because of the Mayor's fine record and because I love my city, I said to myself that, if it fell within my power to contribute to the welfare of St. Louis, I would do it. It was a call to duty. So, I called Hannegan back and said, 'Bob, I'll do it.'"

Russell L. Dearmont, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1932, reviewed the record of the Dickmann administration. He referred to the withdrawal of Michael J. O'Neill as the Democratic nominee for Comptroller by saying it would serve to cut Judge Becker "off the coat-tail of Comptroller Louis Nolte."

Dr. Kane on Baby Case.

Dr. R. Emmet Kane, who has differed frequently with Mayor Dickmann on party matters, in a radio address last night urged Dickmann's re-election. "It will be no news to anyone who listens to radio talks or who reads the newspapers," he said, "to hear me say I have been in frequent and violent disagreements with the Mayor and the local Democratic organization. When, in my opinion, they were wrong, I said so publicly, and I fought with every ounce of strength I had, to defeat them."

He likened Judge Becker to Wendell L. Willkie, asserting that Becker "admits" the city has benefited from the administration of the Mayor, just as Willkie praised many of the policies of Roosevelt. Referring next to the Nellie Muench baby case and the habeas corpus action in Becker's court to return Anna Ware's baby to her, Dr. Kane said:

"What was there in it that should make Judge Becker so proud? The case came before him as a member of the Court of Appeals. He had nothing to do with having Nellie arrested. He had nothing to do with the investigation leading to her arrest. He had nothing to do with obtaining evidence in the case, or with preparing or presenting the case. All he had to do was to sit in court, as do thousands of other Judges all over the country, and fulfill the obligations of his oath of office."

Labor and Negro Support.

Radio talks urging support of Dickmann also were made last night by Boisaubin, preceding his appearance at the mass meeting at St. Joseph's Hall; Thomas J. McCarthy Jr., a senior law student at the St. Louis University Law School; and by a group of labor leaders in a round table discussion. The group included Joseph P. Clark, President of the Central Trades and Labor Union, William J. Gibbons, member of the Typographical Union, John J. Church, Secretary of the Building Trades Council, and Martin A. Dillmon, editor of the St. Louis Union Labor Advocate.

A Negro Citizens' Committee to work for the re-election of the Mayor was formed yesterday at a meeting of Negroes at Democratic Campaign headquarters, 1117 Locust street. About 600 Negroes attended, and adopted a resolution commending the Mayor for "consideration" shown the Negroes of the city.

Workmen to Be Enrolled in AFL, Urban League Officer Says.

One hundred and fifty Negro carpenters will be placed on jobs this week at Fort Leonard Wood army training camp under construction near Newburg, Mo., through efforts of the Urban League of St. Louis, it was announced today by Arnold Walker, field secretary in charge of the league's industrial department.

He called the employment of these skilled workers an "important step in breaking down barriers against Negroes seeking work in the national defense program."

He said labor, army and construction company officials agreed to the employment after a three-day conference last week.

The carpenters will be enrolled in the AFL Carpenters' Union, on payment of a $25 initiation fee, Walker said. They will receive the same wage rate paid to white carpenters, $1 an hour and time and one-half for overtime, and earn a total of about $62 a week each, he said.

Fifty-five of the carpenters will be sent from St. Louis and the rest from outstate urban and rural areas. About 60 Negro laborers and 48 carpenters, regular employes of the construction companies, are employed at the camp now, Walker related, adding that they, too, would be enrolled in their respective unions.

Due to objection of white persons in neighboring towns, Walker said, housing had proved a difficult problem for the early Negro employes, but it has been solved by the leasing of a summer resort near the Lake of the Ozarks, 40 miles away, where board may be had for $8 a week.

Walker's conferences were with L. H. Huntley, project manager; Maj. Frank Reed Jr., construction quartermaster, and Tom McFarland, carpenters' union business agent.

REALTY BOARD SEEKS BLANKET TAX CUT HERE

Delegation at Capital Asks for 10 Pct. Reduction in Assessments.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, through a delegation of 21 members, today petitioned the State Board of Equalization to make a blanket cut of 10 per cent in the total assessment of St. Louis real estate for taxation.

The total assessment on St. Louis realty, reported recently by City Assessor Ralph Coale as a basis for this year's taxes, is $882,030,700. A cut of 10 per cent, or $88,203,070, would reduce the assessment to $793,827,630, and would reduce the city tax levy by about $1,614,000.

Gov. Forrest C. Donnell presided at the hearing, and asked several questions of the exchange representatives as to declines in city realty values. Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, Treasurer Wilson Bell and Auditor Forrest Smith were also present; the fifth member, Attorney-General Roy McKittrick, was absent.

Ray R. Dolan, president of the Exchange, said the tax situation was serious in some parts of St. Louis, and the tax burden so heavy, that much property was being sold for less than the assessment figures.

William A. Federer, chairman of the Exchange's Tax Committee, said the high assessments on city values were driving population to St. Louis County. He said the theory of assessment seemed to be to yield a certain revenue, rather than to represent actual values. He said district assessors were expected, and sometimes instructed, to keep the total of their district assessments up to the existing level.

DR. JOHN R. BRINKLEY

BRINKLEY TELLS COURT HOW HIS FORTUNE WENT

City, Kan., Dr. Brinkley testified, he gave the bank $75,000 to pay a lien and used the $44,000 balance to pay off life insurance policy loans.

"Yacht number two—they were all named 'Dr. Brinkley' for advertising purposes—was sold in December, 1936, to the President of Venezuela for $125,000. I think I spent most of this money in the Luling (Tex.) oil fields.

"Yacht number one, a ship my wife bought for $20,000 and sailed down to Galveston, was sold for $15,000 several years ago to a bunch of fellows at Galveston."

Radio Ventures.

Radio Station XER at Villa Acuna, Mexico, just three miles from here across the Rio Grande, was built in 1931 and cost $90,000, he testified. It was confiscated, he said, by the Mexican Government in 1934.

"The Mexican Government placed numerous fines of several hundred thousand pesos against the station. They were more than the station was worth. The fines were not paid, and the Mexican army, acting under orders from the Government, took over the station in February of 1934. It was closed down and sealed, guarded by the army, for some time."

Further testimony revealed that the Frontier Broadcasting Co., with many Mexican stockholders, reopened the station as XERA in 1935.

"I have bought much time over XERA," said Dr. Brinkley.

He was questioned at length regarding activities of the Inter-Nation Advertising Corporation of Del Rio, which, he testified, had 10 shares of stock and was dissolved in December, 1940. He said he owned five shares and Mrs. Brinkley three.

He disclosed that advertising for Station XERA could be obtained through the Inter-Nation firm. He said the advertising agency had advanced some $142,000 to the station in payment of advertising time to pay bills, adding that the station now owes notes of more than $60,000 to the advertising firm.

"There was no way under the sun that a Texas corporation could pay bills of a Mexican corporation," Dr. Brinkley testified in explaining the notes.

$10,000 a Month to Station.

Monthly payments to Station XERA for broadcasting time by the Country Club Hospital of Little Rock ran as high as $10,000, he said. It cost between $20,000 and $30,000 to operate the station, and "of course, if the station was not on the air, there was no business for me."

Dr. Brinkley, when asked if he expected to receive money for the $60,000 in notes held against XERA, commented:

"If that station doesn't close down the last of this month, it will make money. I understond some of the big chains may come in to operate the station. If so, it would make money and that note could be repaid."

He testified that he bought Radio Station XEAW in Reynosa, Mexico, in 1935 or 1936 and rebuilt it into a powerful station.

"I've no idea how much I spent on that station, but it was a lot, way up there."

Late in 1939, he sold it to Carr P. Collins, wealthy Dallas business man, and the station has been used frequently by Gov. O'Daniel, close friend of Collins, for his fireside chats.

Collins, Brinkley revealed, paid him $60,000 for the station, $40,000 of it being deposited in a Del Rio bank, while the additional $20,000 was placed in escrow to pay taxes and fines to the Mexican Government.

MIDWEST-RADIANT FUEL FIRM NAMED ON NUISANCE CHARGE

Discharge of "Offensive Smells" Alleged in Information Filed by Prosecutor.

The Midwest-Radiant Corporation, which manufactures a smokeless fuel at a plant at Millstadt, Ill., was charged with maintaining a public nuisance because of "noxious exhalations and offensive smells," detrimental to the public health, in an information filed in St. Clair County Court yesterday by State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck, on complaint of 77 persons living near the plant.

Several damage suits against the company, making similar charges, are pending in Circuit Court at Belleville. In a suit for $15,000 damage, brought by Louis Waelti, a United States District Court jury returned a verdict for the company after a trial last January.

'BRANDING IRON' VOTE BILL ARGUED IN HOUSE

Withdrawn After Debate in Which City Mayoralty Race Figures.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—A bill designed to prevent members of one political party from voting for candidates of another party in primary elections was sharply criticised today in a House debate as an attempt to permit political machines to control the nomination of their candidates.

The measure, known as the "branding iron" bill, would require voters to designate their party and would prohibit them from voting in another party primary unless they filed a declaration of a change of party affiliation with election officials 60 days before the primary election.

Opposition to the bill, introduced by Representative Obie L. Ford (Dem.), Oregon County, was led by Dr. J. A. Gray (Rep.), Atchison County, who charged that enactment of the proposal would prevent independent voters from voting for candidates they wanted to support in primary elections.

"This bill is made to order for political machines, and gives them complete control in naming their own candidates," Dr. Gray asserted. "Sometimes politics become so rotten and boss-ridden that it is necessary for people of all political parties to join together and vote down their candidates."

He recalled the Douglas-Billings primary campaign of 1938, and declared that if the present proposal had been law then Judge James M. Douglas of St. Louis could not have been nominated for the State Supreme Court over the Pendergast candidate, James V. Billings of Kennett.

Dr. Gray's assertion that the bill would aid the Dickmann-Hannegan machine in St. Louis, brought the St. Louis mayoralty campaign into the debate. Representative David A. Hess of St. Louis repeated Mayor Dickmann's frequent statement that "we don't have a machine in St. Louis; we have an organization."

"The Republican party in St. Louis," Hess countered, "is owned and controlled by a small click of high-powered big business men, headed by Edgar Queeny, who holds a mortgage on the Republican party in Missouri. Becker (William Dee Becker, Republican candidate for Mayor of St. Louis) is Queeny's stooge, and they are out to beat the best Mayor of any city in the United States."

Supporters of the Ford bill declared it would prevent members of one party from voting in the primary of the other party for the purpose of nominating that party's weakest candidates. After extended debate on the proposal, Ford withdrew the measure from consideration and no vote was taken on the bill.

WELL, it's longer going downhill than up, longer going slow than fast, longer on smooth, open, level roads than on hills, tough going and soft roads.

But the important new discovery of the year (or since Buick's Compound Carburetion* appeared) is that it's longer when you have two carburetors teamed like Buick's than when you have one!

Here's why:

In smooth, slow, easy going like most of your travel, just one of Buick's smaller-than-usual carburetors thriftily handles all engine requirements.

Only when you go up against a tough pull, want power or otherwise have reason for stepping hard on the gas treadle, does the second carburetor come in.

Result is that carburetion is always fitted to your driving need.

You're never driving with a carburetor that's bigger than you need for low-range travel, as is usually the case, or one that's too small for top-range performance.

Now the net result is something very pleasant: the same-size engines give up as much as 10% to 15% more miles-per-gallon than last year.

And that's a handsome saving—mighty handsome in a car big and roomy and smart as a Buick.

Look over the next Buick that passes you—or better yet, go trial-drive one—and see if you don't agree.

BILLION AID BILL TO BE FLOWN TO ROOSEVELT TODAY

Wallace, Rayburn Sign Measure, Completing Congressional Action, Send It to White House.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Vice-President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn signed the $7,000,000 British aid bill today, completing congressional action on the measure.

Wallace signed the measure at 3:48 p. m., 41 minutes after Rayburn had affixed his signature. The bill was immediately sent back to the House, where the enrolling clerk was to deliver it to the White House.

At the White House, officials said the bill will be flown to Miami, Fla., aboard a commercial plane leaving Washington at 3:45 p. m., and arriving at Miami in late evening. From there it will be flown by special plane to the President, now on a vacation cruise, for his signature. The bill will be carried by a postal inspector in a pouch along with other White House mail. The appropriation was passed last week by the House and yesterday by the Senate.

Only a parliamentary technicality kept the bill from being on its way South yesterday soon after the Senate gave it approval, 67 to 9. The House, however, had adjourned before the Senate acted and the rules require that it be in session when the Speaker signs legislation. With the debate over, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, told reporters that final approval of the seven-billion-dollar appropriation had given the President "everything he has asked for."

"Now," he continued, "it is entirely up to the President to determine whether this is going to be a war measure, or, as his leaders in the Senate said, a peace measure."

Wheeler, who voted against the program and the appropriation, voted Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky and Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, as saying it was not contemplated that shipments to Britain should be convoyed by American naval vessels or that American troops should be sent abroad.

"Because of these statements," Wheeler continued, "I do not see how it would be possible for the President either to use convoys or to send men without repudiating all the promises that have been made both by himself and his leaders."

Besides Wheeler, two other Democrats voted against the appropriation. Five Republicans and one Progressive also opposed it. For the bill were 49 Democrats, 17 Republicans and one Independent.

Not a single amendment was offered yesterday and the final roll call was reached after 90 minutes of debate.

Wheeler was working today on an itinerary for a speaking tour, in which he will demand that the United States stay out of war. Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, another opponent of the British-aid program, announced he would start his tour with an address in San Francisco Saturday. Nye will make addresses in Palo Alto, Cal., next Monday, and in Los Angeles and other Southern California towns next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On April 6, 7 and 8 he will speak in Portland and Seattle. All the addresses will be under auspices of the America First Committee.

BIGGER LOANS TO FARMERS APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

Bill to Add Billion a Year to Agricultural Income Unanimously Indorsed, Bankhead Says.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Legislation which its author said would add "about one billion dollars a year" to farmers' income through higher Government loans was approved today by the Senate Agricultural Committee.

The author, Seantor Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, said the bill was intended to place farmers "nearer to parity with labor and industry."

The 13 Senators attending today's committee session, Bankhead said, were unanimous in approval.

President Roosevelt recently refused to support the Bankhead plan and several other proposals by congressional leaders of farm legislation for increasing farmer income, legislators said. Secretary Wickard and other Agriculture Department spokesmen also refused to support the Bankhead bill during public hearings of the Agriculture Committee.

BITTEN LAST SUMMER, TEACHER DIES OF RABIES

Miss Dorothy Scully Apparently Recovered But Was Taken Ill Again.

Rabies contracted as the result of being bitten by a dog in Forest Park last August caused the death of Miss Dorothy R. Scully, teacher at Mullanphy School, a Coroner's autopsy showed today. Miss Scully died yesterday at Christian Hospital. She was 34 years old and lived at 4535 Lindell boulevard.

She apparently had recovered after an illness of three months following the dog bite, but became ill again last Tuesday. Funeral services will be at 9 a. m. Thursday at the St. Louis Cathedral. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned.

Bill to Add Billion a Year to Agricultural Income Unanimously Indorsed, Bankhead Says.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —Legislation which its author said would add "about one billion dollars a year" to farmers' income through higher Government loans was approved today by the Senate Agricultural Committee.

The author, Seantor Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, said the bill was intended to place farmers "nearer a parity with labor and industry."

The 13 Senators attending today's committee session, Bankhead said, were unanimous in approval.

President Roosevelt recently refused to support the Bankhead plan and several other proposals by congressional leaders of farm legislation for increasing farmer income, legislators said. Secretary Wickard and other Agriculture Department spokesmen also refused to support the Bankhead bill during public hearings of the Agriculture Committee.

BITTEN LAST SUMMER, TEACHER DIES OF RABIES

Miss Dorothy Scully Apparently Recovered But Was Taken Ill Again.

Rabies contracted as the result of being bitten by a dog in Forest Park last August caused the death of Miss Dorothy R. Scully, teacher at Mullanphy School, a Coroner's autopsy showed today. Miss Scully died yesterday at Christian Hospital. She was 34 years old and lived at 4535 Lindell boulevard.

She apparently had recovered after an illness of three months following the dog bite, but became ill again last Tuesday. Funeral services will be at 9 a. m. Thursday at the St. Louis Cathedral. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned.

'GILDED SPITTOONS' 'HIDING' HIS MURALS IRK ARTIST BENTON

Says Urns at Indiana U. Show Architects to Be 'Antique Hunters.'

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 25 (AP).—Thomas Hart Benton, apparently spoiling for another fight over his Indiana murals, spoke out today against modern architects, whom he termed "antique hunters."

The Missouri artist's criticism was made in an open letter to Indiana University after his murals had been mounted in the school's new $1,170,000 auditorium.

The decorative urns which the architect placed on a staircase, he called "great gilded spittoons" that "hide as much of the side wall paintings as possible."

Benton attended dedication of the building Saturday night. So did the architects—Daniel Paul Higgins, Otto C. Eggers and Theodore J. Young of New York City, and A. M. Strauss of Fort Wayne, Ind.

FORDS FAIL TO ATTEND NLRB HEARING ON PLANT ELECTIONS

Company Attorney Says He Knows of No Subpena Service on Them.

DETROIT, March 25 (AP).—A National Labor Relations Board hearing on petitions for employe elections at two Ford Motor Co. plants proceeded today without the presence of Henry Ford, founder, and Edsel Ford, president of the company.

Subpenas for appearance of the two, and for Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, were issued by NLRB Trial Examiner William R. Ringer late Monday at the request of Maurice Sugar, attorney for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), the union which is seeking the elections at Ford's Rouge and Lincoln plants.

When the hearing got under way today, Sugar called the name of Henry Ford. When there was no response, he asked that Ford be recorded as absent. The same procedure was followed for Edsel Ford. I. A. Capizzi, company attorney, said that, as far as he knew, there had been no service of the subpenas as claimed by the union attorney.

TAX CLAIMS AGAINST ALLEGED AID OF JOHN LAZIA UPHELD

Appeals Board Says Arthur M. Slavin Owes $40,000 on Gambling Income.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —The Tax Appeals Board upheld today a Treasury claim that Arthur M. Slavin, whom it termed "a professional gambler for about 40 years," owed $40,000 in income taxes and penalties for 1929 and 1930.

The board said Slavin operated gambling houses in Dallas, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo., during the years involved, and that at present he was a resident of New Orleans.

The findings also declared Slavin was "placed in charge" of the "casino" or gambling rooms of the Cuban Gardens in Kansas City in 1929 through "an arrangement with Arthur McNamee, John Lazia and Tim Crummett," and that he "ran roulette, blackjack, dice" and other games.

"Crummett negotiated and made payments with the county officials for 'protection,'" the board's findings added.

Extra Shoes for U. S. Infantry.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The army, despite the era of mechanization, still expects to do a lot of walking. In fact, it was announced yesterday that effective July 1, three pairs of shoes instead of two will be issued to each man.

mediately to interpret all foreign war news for the benefit of the Yugoslav people.

Palace attendants said Regent Prince Paul and the Croat Peasant leader, Dr. Vladimir Macek, listened together to a broadcast of the Vienna signing ceremony at a radio in a study of the White Palace.

Excitement in Capital.

Newspapers, with front-page pictures of Hitler, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Premier Cvetkovic and Yugoslav Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic, gave the first official announcement of Yoguslavia's capitulation.

Newsboys prospered as excited crowds throughout the capital snatched up each edition.

Reports began reaching Belgrade, meanwhile, of demonstrations in the provinces. At Cetinje, in Montenegro, great crowds were said to have gathered, shouting "down with the Government!" and denouncing the tri-partite treaty with speeches . . .

(The line was cut at this point in filing the dispatch from Belgrade to the Associated Press office in Bern, Switzerland, for relay to New York. The following is from an earlier dispatch.)

While Yugoslavia's Premier and Foreign Minister were affixing their signatures to the Axis alliance and their Yugoslav opponents were crying treason, these developments increased observers' belief a showdown is imminent:

Britain appeared prepared to sever diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia and Hungary, after advising the Belgrade Government it could not "condone" the alliance with the Axis.

Soviet Russia, whose attitude long has been an enigma, pledged "full and comprehensive neutrality" in the event that Turkey, Britain's non-belligerent ally, is "obliged to enter the war for the defense of her territory."

Soviet war materials were reported flowing across the Caucasus frontier into Turkey only a few hours after this pact was announced in Ankara. Russian army and naval units facing German forces in Southeastern Europe also were reported being strengthened.

Reliable sources asserted Russia also had halted shipments of vital oil supplies to the Reich.

Greek-Nazi Clashes Reported.

Reports from Bulgaria said minor frontier clashes already had taken place between Greek troops and German forces massed for a thrust toward the Mediterranean. One report said Greek anti-aircraft batteries had shot down a Nazi reconnaissance plane over Thrace.

Greece indicated it would terminate a 1923 treaty giving Yugoslavia a free port zone at Saloniki, if Yugoslavia consented to the passage of German or Italian ammunition trains through its territory.

Yugoslav Communists, reported to be acting on orders from Moscow, urged a campaign of sabotage and non-co-operation to disrupt communication lines within the country which might aid the Germans.

Milan Gavrilovic, Yugoslavia's First Minister to Soviet Russia and a leader of the Agrarian party which opposed alliance with the Axis, resigned his diplomatic post. He announced in Moscow that he sent his resignation to Belgrade yesterday.

British May Seize Ships.

British quarters asserted that a break with Yugoslavia and Hungary, which would leave the London government with only nine of the European diplomatic missions which existed before the war, might "come at any moment."

Observers expected the British to follow up such a break by swiftly seizing Yugoslav merchant ships plying the Mediterranean, for it was understood that under a secret provision of the Axis pact Yugoslavia would "co-ordinate" all its commerce and industry with the Reich.

Yugoslavia's merchant marine of more than 400,000 tons has been making rich profits carrying neutral cargoes through the British blockade.

Importance of Soviet Pledge.

Diplomatic circles attached the greatest significance to Russia's pledge to remain neutral, should Turkey find it necessary to meet force with force. This was described as the first concrete step the Soviet Union has taken to influence the course of the war since it signed a non-aggression pact with Germany in August, 1939.

Uncertainty regarding Russia's intentions presumably has governed all of Turkey's actions to date, and with the fear of Soviet intervention removed, it generally was expected that Turkey might take a more forthright stand against German overtures.

In this connection, it was noted that Ismet Inonu, President of Turkey, sent King George of Greece a message today commending "the gallantry and resistance Greek forces are displaying in discharge of their national mission." The note coincided with Greece's national independence day celebrations.

Greek quarters declared that action by Yugoslavia granting Germany permission to move war materials down the Vardar valley toward the Greek frontier, in itself, would violate the Greek-Yugoslav non-aggression treaty of 1934.

NAZIS REPORT HITS ON BATTLESHIP IN MEDITERRANEAN

Heavy Bombs Dropped by Raiders, High Command Says — Two Freighters Damaged.

BERLIN, March 25 (AP).—Heavy bomb hits were scored by Nazi air raiders on a British battleship in the Mediterranean southwest of the Greek island of Crete, the German high command reported today.

An "enemy outpost boat" was destroyed there, the communique said, and two large freighters, each of about 8000 tons, were severely damaged in an air attack on a British convoy south of Crete.

Nazi raiders were said to have struck again at Valletta harbor on the British Mediterranean island of Malta "in the face of the strongest defense" and to have scored hits on anchored ships and loading facilities.

A British tanker reported in yesterday's communique as left in sinking condition south of Crete was identified today as the 10,000-ton Sulheim.

Troopship Torpedoed by Fascist Plane, Rome Reports.

ROME, March 25 (AP).—Fascist planes torpedoed a "large steamer transporting troops and bombed other ships," in the Mediterranean, the high command reported today.

German planes, co-operating with the Italians, were reported to have "repeatedly" raided the British Mediterranean base of Malta, damaging a cruiser and several ships in the harbor and bombing workshops and fuel dumps.

HARVESTER PLANT STRIKERS ATTACK A F L WORKMEN

A statement from FEWOC made public by Burns asserted the strike was "100 per cent effective" and that "no more than 600" persons entered the plant today, whereas the company said its count was 3800, about 600 more than yesterday.

The FEWOC statement said numerous strikers and pickets were "brutally assaulted without cause by police and strike breakers," and added "thus does Mayor Kelly who has the blood of 10 murdered steel strikers on his hands allow the rights of labor to be ground under by anti-labor injunctions and scab-herding cops." (Ten men were killed in a clash Memorial day, 1937, between police and striking CIO steel workers at the Republic Steel Corporation plant here.)

The plant closed Feb. 28 after the FEWOC called the strike to enforce its demands for elimination of piecework, wage increases and recognition.

Mediation Board Organizes, Calls for Industrial Peace.

By the Associated Press.

The new National Defense Mediation Board organized in Washington today, urging labor and management to prevent any further interruption of the defense program.

Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, chairman, in a statement at the mediation group's first meeting, said this was a time of "world crisis" and that if the United States "is to be an arsenal for democracy there must be uninterrupted flow of production from mine, mill and factory."

All 11 members were present. Dykstra urged the public to support the board in a policy "that the public welfare today requires each of us to subordinate a purely private or personal interest to the good of the country." He said the group would "endeavor to be impartial, completely honest and thoroughly non-political."

Other labor developments:

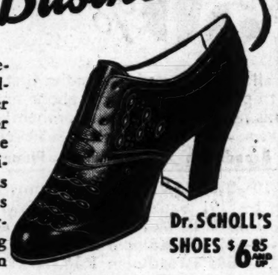

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—A strike of 1400 workers paralyzed operations at the Wilson & Co. packing plant last night, after a 6 p. m. deadline passed without settlement of negotiations between the company and the CIO United Packing Workers' Union. James Cooney, Chicago, a vice-president, said the company never will agree to a closed shop. "That is the sole issue in this case."

NEW YORK — John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO), today took an active place on the joint sub-committee representing bituminous coal miners and operators negotiating a contract to replace the one expiring March 31.

Asked, as he entered the conference room, if there was a possibility of a work stoppage in the event a new agreement had not been reached by that date, Lewis replied: "It would be a lockout." He said that under the existing contract, the miners could not go into the mines unless a new agreement were in effect, and added, "I don't want my men to trespass."

Spring in Hollywood

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 25. BRIGHT yellow, red-upholstered convertible cruises slowly up Sunset boulevard. It's spring; the top's down. In the front seat sit Lana Turner and Tony Martin, a huge Great Dane between them. This is a touch of the colorful Hollywood of 20 years ago. . . . Wally Beery's thick sirloin grows cold in the Brown Derby as he gestures with knife and fork to a passing acquaintance. He's discussing the damage suit his one-time ward brought against him—and lost. "The Judge called it a hold-up," crows Beery. . . . Ronald Colman grabbing a quick sandwich at a drive-in. Gent in an Ohio-licensed car next to Colman's chuckles to his lady friend, "that fellow looks enough like Ronald Colman to be him." . . . Robert Taylor complaining to Director Norman Taurog on the set of "Billy The Kid" that he'll have to start flying lessons all over again when the picture is finished. It's been shooting 82 days and Taylor hasn't been able to fly his new plane in all that time.

LANA TURNER.

EDWARD ARNOLD, who takes his dialogue blowups more calmly than most actors, got real mad after the third successive take-killer. He stamped his foot. . . . Bette Davis invariably says the naughty word, the real naughty one. . . . An ear-to-ear grin breaks out on Don Ameche's face when a publicity man hands him a telegram. It's from the Twentieth Century-Fox branch manager in Washington, D. C., and says, "The Brazilian Ambassador has just seen 'That Night in Rio' and wishes me to congratulate Mr. Ameche for his perfect Portuguese and true Brazilian accent.'" . . . Maureen O'Hara, most intense actress in town, standing unprotected in a rainstorm on the RKO lot while she discusses her career with a newspaperman.

• • •

The RED-FACED MAN, pushing his station wagon from the middle of a busy Beverly Hills intersection into the curb, is Robert Young. He's out of gas. . . . James Cagney staring at the menu in Warner Bros.' Green Room. He beckons to a waitress and points to the card. "Just what is a James Cagney sandwich?" he inquires. . . Standing on a precarious ledge 50 feet above a tank full of dirty water, Clark Gable tussles hand-over-hand with a heavy cable releasing a life boat. Gable speeds this action up, take after take. Finally he glances at his hands. They are covered with blood. Three-day-old blisters have broken.

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck arrive early at the premiere of "Meet John Doe" and take their seats in the center of the house. A super-curious and nervy dowager from the paid fan section shuffles into a row of empty seats three rows down from the stars and lifts a pair of binoculars to her eyes. She stares at the Taylors a full five minutes. Early arrivals titter. The uneasy Taylors, unable to stand this ocular cross-examination any more, arise and stroll casually up the aisle.

• • •

Lorre In "The Uniform" With Gable, Russell

Peter Lorre has been signed for a role in "The Uniform," in which Clark Gable and Rosalind Russell are co-starring. Lorre, whose most recent "horror" characterizations highlighted "That's Right, You're Wrong," the Kay Kyser starrer, and "The Face Behind the Mask," will portray a rascally Oriental sea captain in lending his menacing presence to "The Uniform."

In "The Uniform" he will portray the skipper of a rusty freighter plying the China Seas. On the ship Gable and Miss Russell take refuge after fleeing Bombay on the heels of a sensational robbery.

Farce at Y. M. H. A.

"See My Lawyer," Broadway hit farce which the Civic Theater presented last summer, will have three performances by the Dramatic Club of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue, next Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The first performance is being offered without charge to soldiers of Scott Field and Jefferson Barracks.

Belated Gifts.
Oso Massen, the Danish actress who is playing an important role in Joan Crawford's film, "A Woman's Face," has just received her Christmas mail from abroad. All the greetings had been opened by the censor and no gifts could be sent except a small book of Danish fairy stories which had belonged to her as a child and which was the present her brother mailed her.

ASPIRIN LISTED AMONG SCHENCK TAX DEDUCTIONS

U. S. Agent Reports Racing Forms, Bicycle Rent as Other Items Disallowed in Returns.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Playing cards and aspirin tablets might conceivably go together, says the Treasury Department, but not on an income-tax return as items deductible as "business expenses."

These and other items—including Easter bunnies and racing forms, razor blades and hair tonic—were so listed by Joseph M. Schenck, a department agent testified yesterday.

Schenck, board chairman of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, is on trial in United States District Court on charges of avoiding $412,000 in taxes in 1935-36-37 by deducting certain amounts as necessary expenses. His Eastern representative, Joseph H. Moskowitz, is co-defendant.

The agent, Lawrence W. Gibney of Los Angeles, last Government witness in the trial, is expected to take several days itemizing Schenck's tax returns for the three-year period.

Gibney, in his breakdown of deductions made by Schenck in 1936, enumerated besides the Easter bunnies, aspirin, etc., cost of a passport a week end at a hotel and the following:

Bicycle rent, $11; fruit juice, $1; badminton, $30; telephones, $1604.93; groceries, $7190.86; cleaning and laundry, $1562.94; flowers, $615; plumbing, $383.94; household linen, $158, and a mattress, $30.50.

Total deduction for that year's business expenses was $44,676. Gibney said it should have been $483.

For 1935, the agent testified, deductions for necessary expenses were $32,142, of which he said $4114 was actually allowable.

SWIMS TO SAVE DOG IN ICE

WALTHAM, Mass., March 25 (AP).—Seeing a collie dog floundering amid broken ice in the Charles River, Thomas Silver, 31-year-old truck driver, stripped off most of his outer clothing yesterday, ran out on the ice until it collapsed beneath him, then swam 100 feet to the dog's rescue. Silver supported the animal until firemen put out in a boat and took both dog and man to shore.

FEDERAL SPENDING IN YEAR LIKELY TO TOTAL 25 BILLIONS

Only 13 1-2 Billions Voted in Previous Period — 18 1-2 Billions the Record in World War Days.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The tremendous expenses of the armament program pushed congressional appropriations today rapidly toward a record total of more than 25 billion dollars for one year's governmental activities.

The prospective total would be almost double the $13,542,000,000 spent last year, and well above the $18,514,880,000 expended in the peak World War year.

The House already has approved outlays of $17,810,994,862, including the seven billion dollar British aid appropriation, and it has still to act on some $7,351,313,159 in other budget estimates from President Roosevelt.

But that may not be the end. Fiscal experts anticipate that supplemental requests for still more millions of dollars will be sent to the Capitol as new defense needs develop.

Moreover, Congress has added to almost every one of the appropriation bills authority for the Army and Navy Departments and other agencies to enter into contractural obligations for which appropriations will be made in future years.

Thus far the largest single outlay approved has been the seven billion dollars for British aid. A prospective second to that was the President's recommendation that $5,967,475,809 be approved for regular War Department activities—a measure now pending. The third big money measure was the $3,415,521,000 navy appropriation on which congressional action virtually has been completed.

Roosevelt said in his budget message to Congress in January that the domestic defense program from June, 1940, through June, 1942, would total about $28,480,000,000. That figure includes both actual expenditures and contract authorizations. It omits, however, the cost of aid to Britain, Greece, China or any other nation that may be aided. Thus a minimum total of 35 billion dollars is indicated for the combined defense-aid program.

Here is a list of major money bills approved by the House, and passed or pending in the Senate:

British aid, seven billion dollars; navy, $3,415,521,750; supplemental defense, $1,980,356,820; independent offices, $1,415,991,838; agriculture, $890,824,037.

TROUSERS FIRM, C I O SIGN AGREEMENT ON WAGE HIKES

Contract Also Provides for Closed Shop, in Glaser Bros. Shop, 40-Hour Week.

A contract providing wage increases of $1 to $3 a week for the 150 production employes of Glaser Brothers, Inc., manufacturers of men's trousers at Eldon, Mo., was signed yesterday by the company and the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The contract, effective for 15 months, fixes a minimum weekly wage of $16, thus providing a $1 raise for about 100 machine operators, pressers and cleaners. Cutters are raised $3 a week to $27. Other provisions are a closed shop, a 40-hour week with time and one-half for overtime, seniority rights, and establishment of a committee to arbitrate disputes.

The contract was signed by Milton Glaser, president of the company, and Max Michelson, manager of the St. Louis joint board of the union. The company's St. Louis offices are at 1110 Washington avenue.

SURVEY ON STATE GOVERNMENT AND TAX LOAD URGED

Public Expenditures Group Promises Aid to Donnell in Any Program of Reform and Economy.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—Appointment of a commission to study State and local government in Missouri and to make recommendations to the Legislature on governmental reorganization, economy and tax reduction was suggested to Gov. Forrest C. Donnell yesterday afternoon by representatives of the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

The delegation which called on the Governor, made up of St. Louis and St. Louis County business men and officers of the Public Expenditures Survey, assured the Governor of their co-operation in any program for reform in government structure and economy in operation.

No decision was reached yesterday, but other conferences on the matter likely will be held later, Donnell said.

The suggestion for creation of a survey commission included the basic ideas of consolidation and reorganization, reduced expenditures and accompanying reductions in State and local taxes. It was suggested that such a program would materially aid Missouri citizens in meeting the impending increase in Federal tax levies to pay for the national defense program.

The Public Expenditures Survey, with headquarters in Jefferson City, has been urging drastic action by the Legislature not only to bring appropriations for the 1941-42 biennial period within the anticipated revenues, but to reduce State expenses. The budget recommended for the biennial period by former Gov. Stark, who retired last Feb. 26, from all revenue sources, including Federal grants, totaled $247,006,097.

Officers of the Public Expenditures Survey, in suggesting creation of a commission to study the problem of mounting governmental costs, both State and local, said the cost of such a survey could be financed privately.

This organization has announced plans to hold a Statewide conference here on April 10, in conjunction with nine other civic, business, industrial and agricultural organizations, to discuss means of halting the steadily growing tax demands for support of State and local government and to develop an "economy for defense" program to ease the burden of paying for national defense.

JOHN YOUNG BROWN III IN CANADIAN AIR FORCE

Son of Advertising Executive Here Deferred Third College Year to Join; Now an Instructor.

Young St. Louis pilots in the Canadian Air Force include John Young Brown III, son of a vice president of D'Arcy Advertising Co., who deferred his third year at the University of Virginia in order to volunteer to serve with the Canadian flyers.

Brown, who is 23 years old, enrolled at the Brayton Flying School at Lambert-St. Louis Field on finishing his second year at the university last June. By October he had accumulated 100 hours of flying time and obtained a private pilot's license. He then enlisted in the Canadian Air Force and was assigned to a six-week training course at Trenton, Ont.

On completion of his course he was given the rating of Flight Instructor and transferred to Hamilton, Ont., where he has assisted in the training of many pilots who have gone overseas. His father, who lives on the St. Louis Country Club grounds, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that his son's letters frequently expressed admiration for the "unconquerable spirit" of the men in training.

Brown, who is a grandson of the late Dr. John Young Brown, eminent St. Louis surgeon, prepared for the University of Virginia at the University School, Cleveland.

LAST PAYMENT BY FAILED BANK

Lowell Depository Meets 71.52 Per Cent of Claims.

A final payment of 1.52 per cent to depositors of the closed Lowell Bank was authorized yesterday by Circuit Judge William B. Flynn on petition of William H. Biggs, special Deputy Finance Commissioner in charge of liquidating the bank's assets.

He reported $31,911 on hand for the distribution. Previously 70 per cent of claims were paid, totaling $2,100,000.

Clyde Hopson Bell, who was murdered with his wife Jan. 18 in his shoe repair shop at 1607 Franklin avenue, left an estate valued at $7178, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. The principal asset is insurance. A daughter and son are named as beneficiaries in his will. Two Negroes are held for the murders.

STOLEN WALLET RECOVERED, THEN VANISHES AGAIN

Deputies at Belleville Give It to Wrong Man, and Hunt Is On.

A wallet, recovered after a pickpocket took it from former Sheriff Martin Schnipper of St. Clair County while he was attending a Lincoln day dinner in Belleville Feb. 12, again was the object of a search today.

A few hours after it was stolen, Belleville police arrested Harry Moran, a transient, and found it in his pocket.

Although $9 of the $11 it contained was missing, Schnipper was glad to learn police had recovered the wallet, which he valued as the gift of a friend now dead.

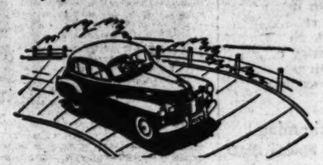

The police sent Moran to the county jail and sent the wallet to the Sheriff's office for evidence. Moran subsequently was sentenced to 60 days on a vagrancy charge.

When Schnipper went around to the jail to claim his billfold yesterday, he learned that a deputy sheriff had returned it to Moran by mistake. Further investigation revealed that Moran had taken the $2 from it and thrown the wallet into a wastebasket. Another prisoner, who was being discharged, fished it out and took it away with him.

Today Schnipper and slightly red-faced deputy sheriffs were making unsuccessful attempts to find the discharged prisoner.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 25.—The punchless Cardinals squeezed over three runs in the eighth inning to win today's game from the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 1.

Two of the Cardinals' three hits entered into the run scoring, Marion opening with a single, advancing on two safe bunts, both of which were scored as sacrifices, and scoring on Steve Mesner's long fly to center. Then Coaker Triplett scored Crespi and Kimball with a smashing double to left center.

Working the corners proved costly to Murry Dickson in the second inning, for it put Beau Bell on first base via a walk. Then Dickson let loose a wild pitch and Bell scampered to second, whence he scored on Ray Mack's single to right center. Dickson retired at the end of three innings, having permitted three hits. In his only previous work this spring he held the Red Sox hitless in three innings, on March 11.

Sam Breadon, president of the club, started the return journey to St. Louis and thus missed today's game, his first absence of the spring.

The game:

EIGHTH—CARDINALS—Marion singled to left. Crespi bunted for a sacrifice and reached first safely on Krakauskas' error, Marion stopping at second. Kimball also bunted for a sacrifice and Marion beat Trosky's throw to third and the bases were full. Mesner flied deep to Weatherly, Marion scoring after the catch, Crespi reaching third. Koy was called out on strikes. Triplett doubled to left center, scoring Crespi and Kimball. Mize grounded to Trosky. THREE RUNS.

Browns Bat Against Wes Ferrell in Game With Bees at Austin

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 25.—Boston's Bees and the Browns, even at four victories each, resumed their long spring series here this afternoon with Bob Harris pitching for Fred Haney's ambitious American Leaguers against the veteran Wesley Ferrell, trying to make a comeback with the Bees.

Despite threatening skies, about 1500 persons attended.

Rommel and Sears were the umpires.

The Browns took the lead with three runs in the second inning. Swift beat out a grounder to Miller and Harris sacrificed. Swift took third on a wild pitch. Clift walked and Radcliff dropped a triple near the right field line, scoring Swift and Clift. McQuinn's single to right scored Radcliff.

Boston came back with a four-run rally in the third inning, pounding Harris for two triples and a single. Ferrell walked and scored on Sisti's triple to left, and Sisti went home while Bray was being retired on an infield out. Rowell was hit by a pitched ball and scored on Moore's tremendous triple to center, and Gene scored on a single by West.

Harris retired for a pinch-hitter in the third and Jack Kramer took over the pitching assignment in the fourth inning.

The Browns tied the score in the fourth on two singles, a pass and an outfield fly. McQuinn and Cullenbine singled to right, Berardino walked and Cullenbine scored after Heffner's fly to West. McQuinn had been retired on a force play.

Misses Betz, Bundy, Hubbell In Semifinals

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Best Managed Of All Champions.

JOE LOUIS may not be the greatest champion in history but he's the best-managed title-holder of all time, in some respects. . . . Julian Black and his partner, John Roxborough, in developing Louis have done things for Joe that no other manager in the past ever did for his protege.

When the Negro co-partners took over the graduating amateur Joe Louis Barrow they had just a promising prospect, uneducated and unused to the many enjoyments and refinements of life. Just a kid before whom a wonder-world was unfolding.

* * *

He was green in boxing science, too, and so the co-managers' first step was to provide him with the very best boxing instructor and fighting coach they could find, Jack Blackburn. . . . Few beginners in the professional fight world have had the good fortune to be brought up under such capable tutelage, for Blackburn in his day was one of the best of fighters, in a period of great ones.

* * *

They Kept Down That Swelling.

AS Joe progressed and began to roll up knockouts and lay the foundation of a fortune, his managers watched their charge still more closely, even anxiously. . . . Youth flushed with success and money, usually suffers from swelling of the bean. . . . But not Joe; his managers kept that down.

They steered him away from the fleshpots. . . . They hired a tutor to brush up Joe's neglected education. . . . They tried to improve him in every way and keep him clean and a credit to his race. . . . Early in his career his managers persuaded him that the proper course was to marry and get away from some of the pitfalls that usually trip up ring champions; so he wedded Marva Trotter.

* * *

They watched over him, kept bad contacts away from him and insisted on hard training. . . . The result is shown in Joe's physical condition. . . . In 15 defenses of his title Louis' weight has hardly varied three pounds, over a period of more than three years!

* * *

And, in addition, the co-managers have looked after Joe's financial future. . . . His share of his ring earnings has been carefully handled. . . . If Joe were to lose his title here on April 8 to Tony Musto—no laughter, please—he would still have an important annual income to live on.

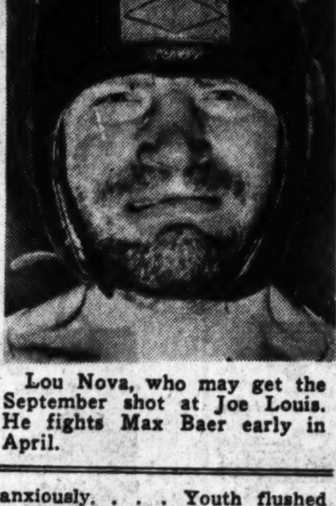

* * *

Today the principal care of Roxborough and Black is to keep Joe clear of all questionable entanglements and concentrate his attention and work on his fighting career. . . . They hope to capitalize him as long as opponents are available and promoters want him.

In all history we can think of no heavyweight champion who was so meticulously and so effectively managed for his own benefit as Joe Louis has been. . . . And that, perhaps, was due to the fact that both John Roxborough and Black

Eight New Marks Set In Carnival

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25 (AP).—Shattering records in the second annual Missouri Valley A. A. U. track and field championships last night was routine business, but world marks, targets for a group of national stars, remained a matter of unfinished business. Eight meet records were broken and three tied.

Earle Meadows of Los Angeles and Richard Ganslen of Roanoke, Va., took the spotlight with a duel in the pole vault. Both struggled over the 14-foot-4-inch mark, but flicked off the bar when it was hoisted another three and one-half inches. They tied for first place, breaking the meet record of 12 feet, 6 inches held jointly by William Bevin of Lawrence, Kan., and C. Wilson of Tarkio, Mo.

John Borican of Asbury Park, N. J., one of the world record seekers, gracefully strided through the 600-yard run for a new meet record. His time was 1 minute, 12 seconds, as compared with the 1940 mark of 1 minute, 15 seconds by Robert Simmons of Nebraska U. Borican was one and eight-tenths seconds shy of his own world mark. The lanky Negro, the only two-time winner in the meet, also took first in the 1000-yard run, a new event. He was clocked at 2:17.4, which was :08.6 over his record.

Walter Mehl's performance in the one-mile race was the most disappointing of the evening. The little Madison (Wis.) distance runner, who has been on Greg Rice's heels all season in the two-mile, made a strong bid for the lead on the tenth lap, but John Munski shot to the front, maintained his pace for the remaining two laps, and breasted the tape 15 yards ahead. Ray Harris of Lawrence, Kan., beat Mehl by an eyelash for second place. Munski, working out of Missouri U., stepped the distance in 4:12.2, eclipsing the meet's record held by Wayne McMillen of Wichita by 18 seconds.

Fred Wolcott, the blond flash of Rice Institute, fell short of his world record in the 60-yard hurdles by three-tenths of a second but had enough spring left to nose out his constant pursuer, the one-armed Marsh Farmer of Fort Worth, Tex. His 7.5 was considered good in face of a charley horse in his thigh. Wolcott's time equaled last year's record set by Paul Cope of Colorado University.

Other meet records bettered and corresponding marks established last year were:

Two-Mile Relay—M. Club, Columbia, Mo. (Baker, Brent, Rayl, Nicholads), 8m. 5.6s. (8m. 12s.)

High Jump—Winston Rogers, Jefferson City, Mo., and Schnacke, Ames, Ia., 6 ft. 4 in. (6 ft. 2⅝ in.)

RECORDS EQUALED.

60-Yard Dash (Junior College) — Jack Dillander, Kemper Military Academy, Boonville, Mo., 6.6s.

Thesz to Meet Garibaldi.

Louis Thesz, St. Louis wrestler whose efforts against so-called "champions" have been unsuccessful of late, will try his hand against a non-champion, Gino Garibaldi, in the next show at the Auditorium, April 4. Thesz recently held Bronko Nagurski, present "champion," to a draw in Minneapolis. A few weeks before that, Thesz was beaten by previous "Champion" Ray Steele.

John Burroughs Girl Wins Highest Junior Rifle Award

Alice Bronfenbrenner, 14-year-old Clayton (Mo.) sharpshooter, who has been awarded Distinguished Marksmanship Gold Bar, the highest award made by the National Rifle Association of America.

Fourteen-year-old Alice Bronfenbrenner, a John Burroughs School student from Clayton, has a medal today which proves that there isn't a boy or girl under 19 years of age anywhere in the country who has passed a higher junior rifle shooting test than she has.

The National Rifle Association headquarters at Washington, D. C., has announced its junior division has awarded the sharpshooting schoolgirl the coveted Distinguished Marksmanship Gold Bar.

The Gold Bar, ultimate aim of every youngster who picks up a rifle on a firing line, is the highest attainment of all N. R. A. junior classifications. It is preceded by some 14 progressively harder shooting tests and the highest of these, the Expert, must be passed before the shooter becomes eligible even to compete for the Distinguished.

Alice, who lives at 7611 Wydown road, and who entered a recent series of qualification shooting to try for the award, had to prove her all-round ability with the rifle. She had to fire in all four approved positions, prone, sitting, kneeling and standing, over the standard 50-foot course. Two shots at each of 50 bull's-eyes, 100 shots in all, were required in each of the positions. In the prone and sitting positions each of the 50 bull's-eyes must score 18 points or better. In the kneeling and standing positions each bull must score 16 points or better out of the possible 20.

The junior division disclosed also that it has awarded only 24 of the Distinguished Gold Bars this year while a total of 10,078 juniors have qualified for medals in all other classifications.

Keeneland to Give Horsemen $94,700

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 25 (AP).—Keeneland race course will distribute $94,700 in purse money at its 11-day spring meeting beginning April 10, the largest sum in the Lexington track's history.

The increase, another in the steady succession since the track's inaugural meeting in the fall of 1936, resulted from boosts in the average purse. The minimum purse of $800 remains unchanged.

The track distributed $83,900 during its 11-day spring meeting last year.

The highlight of the spring meeting will be the $10,000 Blue Grass Stakes on the closing day, April 24, but four other stakes races with $2500 added money each will be run during the meeting.

Veteran Players Advance in Indoor Tennis Title Play

Veterans came through with victories in last night's matches in the St. Louis district indoor tennis championship at the Washington University Field House. Two former district champions and a former junior titleholder advanced to the third round.

Karl H. Hodge, three-time holder of the district indoor honors, won from Conway Frye, former Washington University player, 6-1, 6-1, while William R. Bascom, former district junior champion, defeated Adolph Orthwein, 6-0, 6-1.

In a third match, Charles W. Barnes Jr., former district outdoor champion, eliminated Allen Richardson, district boy champion. The score, however, was not as one-sided as in the other contests. Young Richardson carried Barnes to 10-8 in the opening set, but the veteran improved in the second set, winning, 6-1.

Gloria Thompson, defending champion, won her opening round match from Lillian Baron, 6-2, 6-0, while Frances Jacobson, former indoor champion, advanced at the expense of Joy Tennenbaum, 6-3, 6-1. Thelma Kenefick, former Iowa State champion, eliminated Margaret Mahoney, 6-1, 6-2, and, judging from her play, may be considered the dark horse of the tournament.

Title Game Scheduled.

The Dunbar High School basketball team of Lovejoy, Ill., and the Washington Technical quintet will meet in a game tomorrow night at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. to decide the championship in the Illinois-Missouri League. The Dunbar team won the St. Clair County championship, while the Washington five won the St. Louis title. In the preliminary game the Franklin High team of St. Charles will play the Lincoln High five of East St. Louis, Ill.

Rip Collins Bought by Pittsburgh

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—President Dave Fleming of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League sold First Baseman James "Rip" Collins to the Pittsburgh Pirates for [illegible] today.

"Rip" will be an understudy to First Sacker Elbie Fletcher.

Collins came to Los Angeles in 1939 from the Chicago Cubs. He was the coast league home run leader for 1939 with 26. In both seasons here, he ranked with the leaders in runs driven in and was conceded to be the best fielding first baseman in the coast circuit.

This spring, Collins was listed as a holdout. He declined to sign a Los Angeles contract for $800 a month because he saw an opportunity to return to major league baseball.

Ray Simmons Wins Second Pro Fight

Ray Simmons, St. Louis boxer who compiled quite a record as a light-heavyweight in amateur ranks, won his second pro fight last night, a four-round decision over Johnny Trotter of Chicago on the weekly card at Marigold Gardens, Chicago.

According to his sponsor, O[illegible] Russo, Simmons won every round and had his foe "hanging on" in the second stanza. Simmons' first pro venture resulted in a two-round knockout of Joe Kennedy at Blytheville, Ark., early in January.

Russo said Simmons has been promised more fights in Indianapolis and Chicago, and there is a possibility that he will get on the April 8 program here in St. Louis. He is 19 years old, weighs exactly 175, and fought two years as an amateur, losing only to Jim Re[illegible] dick and Jim Richie.

Julian Black Selects Gym and Residence for Champion During His Preparation for Musto Fight.

By Robert Morrison

World Champion Joe Louis will begin training here for his title fight with Tony Musto next Saturday, according to Julian Black, co-manager with John Roxborough of the Brown Bomber. Black arrived from Detroit this morning to arrange for Joe's training quarters and residence during his stay in St. Louis.

Arrangements were completed early this afternoon, Black announced. Louis will arrive Friday and go to a residence on Enright avenue rented for Joe and his retinue. The address was withheld. Saturday Louis will begin training at the Pine Street "Y" gymnasium.

Following completion of training camp details, Black held a conference with John G. Griffin, chairman of the State Athletic Commission and Tom Packs, co-promoter with Mike Jacobs of the title fight to be held at the Arena on April 8.

Griffin pointed out that the Missouri rules differed from New York in not observing the "No foul" rule. He pointed out that everything would be up to the referee.

Black Okays Rule.

"That's O K with Joe," Black observed. "Joe abides by the commission rules of the various states whether they differ or not. He merely wants to understand them."

The kind of protector approved by the Missouri commission and the corner to which the fighter delivering a knockdown blow must retire during the count also were discussed and agreed to.

The referee field has dwindled down to two, with four having been originally considered. It's now between Sam Hennessy of Detroit and Arthur Donovan of New York. Hennessy handled the Simon fight; Donovan is used for nearly all important battles in New York City.

"Either would be acceptable to us," Black said. "We are not particularly concerned about the referee and it won't necessarily have to be someone who previously has worked a Louis fight."

Dempsey Out as Referee.

The report that Jack Dempsey would be brought here seemingly had little foundation. Sam Muchnick, assistant to Tom Packs, who is promoting the fight with Mike Jacobs, said there was no chance Dempsey would be the referee.

Black himself added that, "We'd rather have a regular referee instead of a former fighter; it always works a little better."

There will be about 10 in the champion's party, including his trainer, Jack Blackburn, his co-manager, John Roxborough, and sparring partners. Black said George Nicholson, Joe's regular sparring partner, will be brought here and that others will be picked up here. Otis Thomas, St. Louis Negro, is one likely to be selected.

Louis at present is on his farm in Utica, Mich., resting after his recent bout with Abe Simon at Detroit, a fight which went much farther than experts had expected —13 rounds.

Louis suffered a cut under his eye in the fight, it was reported. Black said, however, that it wasn't a serious injury.

"It wasn't a cut, it was just a 'mouse' under his eye," Black said. "It puffed up a little, but will be all right."

This will be Louis' sixteenth title defense and although Musto isn't rated much chance with the champion he still can take heart from the reports Louis is slipping. But Black refutes that argument decisively.

"I don't know how Joe is slipping. They said he couldn't fight a bobber or weaver. Then he went out and kayoed three in succession —Dorazio, McCoy and Burman. Of course, that fight the other night proves everybody has a chance, everybody is dangerous and Joe works just as hard for every fight."

Asked why Simon was able to go so far with Louis, Black replied: "Simon was hard to hit. He had a 4½-inch reach advantage on Joe and he used a left jab effectively so that Joe had to hit over and under it."

As for Musto:

"His small size may give Louis trouble," Black said. "And don't think Musto can't take a punch. I saw him beat Lem Franklin, who ranks with the best punchers in the country. But Joe will be in there, as usual, to finish it as quickly as possible. The first minute—if he finds an opening."

The Joe Louis-Tony Musto heavyweight championship 15-rounder Tuesday night, April 8, at battle will be supported by a 10-round semifinal and four five-rounders, Tom Packs announced last night.

One of the preliminaries will send Billy Born of Belleville against Chino Lopez, Kansas City Mexican. Dan Dowling is being sought for the semifinal.

St. Paul's Protest Is Disallowed; Flyers in Final Hockey Playoff

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 25 (AP). —George Higgins, president of the American Hockey Association, announced today that St. Paul's protest of a 4-to-1 defeat by St. Louis here Sunday night has been disallowed since it involves the judgment of an official.

The victory sent the St. Louis team into the finals of the league playoff.

St. Paul based its protest on the contention Leo Carbol, St. Louis defense man, had batted the puck into the goal with his hand. The goal tied the score at 1 to 1. St. Louis then went on to score three more goals.

"The protest is not allowed because it concerns the judgment of an official," Higgins said, "in this instance, John Swain. Swain is one of the most competent officials in the league and in addition to spending his fourth year in the association, is rated as one of the top referees in the minor leagues."

Swain, Higgins said, was in perfect position and saw the play clearly.

Training Camps, Good, Bad, Medium.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 25.

THERE has been room for much extra-curricular conversation this spring, with cold and rainy days following each other with perturbing regularity and one of the topics has been training camps, good, bad and indifferent. This year there has been unusual weather everywhere. Rain and cold have interfered with the baseball players from the sun-kissed shores of California (poetry) to the sand beaches of Florida.

What constitutes a good training camp? First there must be good weather. All you can do in that department is to go where you have a reasonable expectation of sunny days. Then there must be a good playing field. Hard work and intelligent supervision of enough workmen will take care of that. There should be enough cash customers to absorb part of the expense of training. Even the census figures will fool you as far as fan interest is concerned. Finally, and of much importance, is the question of accommodations for the ball players. Comfortable rooms, nourishing food and a menu that gives the boys a chance to pick and choose occasionally, are desirable. There ought to be a recreation room, and adequate sitting space. It helps if there is a golf course near at hand, and all the better if there are other recreation facilities.

Yanks and Cardinals Have the Spring Plum.

NO training camp in the country compares with St. Petersburg, everything considered. There you will find everything, including that rarest of assets, an interested public. Year after year the tourists at St. Petersburg build up the best attendance figures. There are few clubs in the majors that wouldn't be glad to be invited to replace one of the two clubs now training at Florida's Sunshine City, the Cardinals and Yankees.

If there is good weather anywhere, they have it at St. Petersburg. Even that varies, of course. One year ago, we were at St. Petersburg with the Cardinals. An overcoat was necessary the day we checked in at the Bainbridge Hotel. The day we left it was even colder and a stiff wind blew a cold drizzle against the face. Days on which the beach surf was inviting were rare.

There are other training camps that would be better than St. Pete, if the fan interest were there. At Avon Park, for instance, in the beautiful ridge section of Florida, you don't get the seaside dampness or wind. And you can park your car without getting 10 tickets a day. That's a pain in the neck at St. Pete. Automobiles can't be left on the streets, at night, unless you know somebody who knows the chief, and so each eventide you have to hie to a garage, where the fee convinces you the stall for your car must be of solid gold.

Fishing Good, Crowds Small.

BRADENTON is a fine homey place to train, except that the potential cash customers are too busy to attend the ball games. But there the ball players can find ample recreation, fishing, golf, surf bathing. And 12 miles away Sarasota has the prettiest beach in the training camp circuit.

San Antonio, with normal weather, is as fine a training spot as you'll find anywhere. However, there isn't the cash customer asset. The people of the Alamo City see Class A-1 baseball all summer and they're not unduly excited by the presence of major league clubs playing practice games.

The eating at San Antonio is better than in most Florida cities. A good steak is rare in Florida. It's the rule in Texas. On the other hand, Texas cities are booming, the hotel lobbies are as crowded as the Grand Central subway station in New York at the rush hour and there's no place for the ball players to sit and barber. A good sittin' patio would make the Browns' hotel here a great spot, and they'll probably put one in, for no hotel ever was more eager to please than the Gunter of San Antone. But every time you turn around you find yourself taking three cowboys and a soldier out of your hair.

The best of all camps—well it would have to be a composite. Take the seaside, semitropical beauty of Miami; the dry bracing air of Avon Park; the cash-carrying tourists of St. Petersburg; the small-town hominess of Bradenton; the tender sirloin steaks of San Antonio; the excellent field at Lakeland, carefully tendered and polished by Neil Conway, and you'd have the training camp of all training camps. And even then, you'd have to hope that the weather wouldn't be too unusual.

Mrs. Gillett Bowls 695 for New Record

Mrs. Cora Gillett, a member of the M. H. G. team, rolling on the Melene Recreation drives, established a new three-game record for the women of the St. Louis district to shoot at, when she totaled 695, an average of 231 2-3, in last night's competition.

The total betters the previous district record set by Rose Bohart, on the Acme Alleys of Alton, by two pins. Previous to the time the Alton woman came through with her high count, a 686 by Ann Tonkovic was the high figure in St. Louis.

In scoring her record total, Mrs. Gillett had consistent games of 234, 245 and 216.

According to latest American Bowling Congress records, the total is the fourth highest rolled in the country this season. Mrs. Margaret Slogar of Cleveland tops 'em all with 759, followed by Dora McMillan of Cincinnati, 713, and Emma Middlesworth, of Dayton, O., 696.

Incidentally, Mrs. Gillett's total equaled the best score made by a male bowler in the St. Louis district last night.

All America prefers PHILLIES

Day after day, smokers walk up to cigar counters and put down more money for Phillies than for any other cigar. There's only one reason. They get a better cigar . . . finer tobacco . . . more enjoyment.

No other cigar can give you the assurance of value you get in Phillies. It's guaranteed exactly the same fine cigar, for only 5¢, that was good enough to become the biggest-selling brand in America at 10¢.

Switch to Phillies, and you'll stay switched. You'll find it's a more enjoyable cigar. That's why smokers have made it "America's No. 1 Cigar".

SWITCH TO PHILLIES and get more out of smoking

America's No. 1 Cigar

At only 5¢... Guaranteed the same imported Sumatra wrapper, same ripe Domestic and same choice Havana tobacco that made it the largest-selling 10¢ brand. U. S. Government records show that more Havana tobacco is imported for Phillies than for any other cigar.

279 Game Is Rolled By Cochran

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 25.—Four St. Louis police officers rolled into the prize division of the American Bowling Congress tourney late yesterday, topped off by a sensational 279 score, rolled in the first game of the singles by Jimmy Cochran.

Cochran, competing in his fourth A. B. C., opened his first game in the singles with a spare, chalked up a cluster of nine consecutive strikes and then left the No. 2 pin on a light hit. It was the highest game he ever rolled. It tied the high-game mark of the tourney.

Cochran, a par golfer, followed with counts of 171 and 165, three splits in the final game holding down his total.

Jerome Harris, captain of the Police Department golf and basketball team, scored 627, while Bill Fricke hit 658 and Tim O'Brien added 621.

All are members of the Century Classic League.

Best in the doubles was by Stephen Turner and Joseph Kruk, Gary, Ind., whose 1286 landed them in fourth place. Turner had 645, Kruk 641. William Higi and Walter Cary, Minneapolis, scored 1269 for eighth in the two-man.

Kruk, with 672 in the singles and 609 in the five-man, moved into second in the all events with 1922.

SHORT WAVES By Avery Little

KEOGAN

GEORGE KEOGAN, Notre Dame basketball coach ill in a South Bend hospital from a heart ailment, urges three rules changes. . . . He would abolish the 10-second and three-second clauses and restore the centers. . . Under the first the offense has only 10 seconds to carry the play into defensive territory; the second prohibits a player from holding the ball within the foul circle or its lane. . . . As to the center jump, he said "there is no other fair way of starting play." . . . All, he says, tend to make basketball too much of a racehorse game.

Max and Lou to Toss a Few.

THE most interesting heavyweight set-to in the offing, next to the Louis-Musto fight here on April 8, will be the Max Baer-Lou Nova blasting bee at New York on April 4. . . . Max, who has been evading a match with Louis by asking a $50,000 guarantee, must recall his last fight against Nova with anything but pleasure.

On that occasion Nova battered Baer into helplessness. . . . The referee stopped the bout. . . . Max had gamely taken a beating but his eye condition was bad due to cuts. . . . He was decisively outclassed in that show.

* * *

What lends color to the repetition of the affair is that both men later fought Two-Ton Tony Galento. . . . And the surprising result was that whereas Galento gave Nova a terrific beating, Baer quickly stopped Galento.

Nova was unable to fight for more than a year. . . . It was said that an infection, which sapped his vitality while training for the Galento fight, brought about his defeat and put him in the hospital for months, trying to shake off the insidious disease.

Completely recovered and strong as in his prime, Nova is back in the ring trying to prove his right to a title fight with Joe Louis. . . . He'll have to defeat Baer decisively to do it.

Should Baer win that would just about close the books on all Louis' fights after the Billy Conn affair—supposing that Joe beats Billy. . . Joe might as well retire then and leave the field to the beaten second and third raters remaining.

Koleno in Roller Race.

Martin Koleno, Chicago, is the latest Midwest star to enter Commodore Ed Koenig's 26-mile roller skating marathon to be held next Sunday afternoon at the Crystal Roller Rink, 3411 Cook avenue. The race starts at 1 o'clock.

Koleno came in second to Tony Mirelli of St. Louis in Koenig's 15-mile roller event at the rink last November in a race decided by stop watches, the finish was so close. He is the third nationally-known speedster to enter the race. Others already entered included the national champion, Harry Lindbergh, Detroit, and Allan Runk of Cincinnati.

Ready to Make Deals.

LOS ANGELES—Jimmy Wilson, Cubs' manager, who is awaiting a visit from Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn, said he is ready to "trade anybody on the club." Bill Lee and Hank Leiber, both unsigned, are regarded the most likely trading material, and Babe Phelps as the player the Cubs may get. Chicago's main needs are a right-handed pitcher, a first baseman who can hit and a catcher.

The new peace, he said, must be "made in a spirit of intelligent, mutual helpfulness and good will," and he added that "a military victory alone will not save the democratic system."

He received a tremendous ovation from his audience of 15,000.

Willkie, Republican nominee in the 1940 United States presidential election and recent visitor to Great Britain, said he had talked to political leaders of England, Portugal, Canada and the United States and also with persons recently returned "from discussion with the people of Germany and France and Italy."

Willkie said that as "tangible evidence" of the United States good will he brought with him from the Linen Trade Association a check for £5000 for the purchase of a Spitfire airplane for Britain.

Hope of Many Countries.

A partial text of Willkie's address follows:

"I have seen with my own eyes the faithful, courageous work of your organizations in the bombed and shattered cities, the army camps and hospitals of our common mother country as she fights so gallantly and steadfastly to preserve the front line of liberty—our common heritage and present possession.

"We who are behind that front line know that in that battle is not only England's hope and our hope but the hope of millions of men and women in France, Poland, Holland and Norway, and in all the other captured countries of Europe. And as information gradually trickles through the wall of censorship, we learn that millions more in Germany and Italy pray nightly that there may be somehow lifted from them the curse of totalitarian enslavement.

"We in the United States, I am proud to say, have now with only a few dissenting voices pledged ourselves to help remove that curse from effective leadership in world affairs. And we have made this resolution not for academic or sentimental reasons but for very hard-headed and practical ones. We know that our way of life—the right of men to be free in their civil, religious and cultural life, to aspire and to achieve without the control of an all-powerful government—we know that that way of life cannot survive in a world where Nazism reigns supreme.

"We also know that the well being, the standard of living and the very liberty of our people is inescapably dependent upon large areas in this world where men of all nations may trade by economic laws and the rules of commerce and not by the mandates of military-minded dictators. We know, too, that democracy thrives when the areas of liberty are expanding and dies when they are contracting.

WILLKIE SAYS AXIS DEFEAT MUST BE FOLLOWED BY PEACE IN SPIRIT OF AID, NOT HATE

Military Victory Alone Is Not Enough to Save Democratic System, He Tells Canadians — Urges U. S. to "Give Ships Until It Hurts" to Keep Atlantic Routes Open.

TORONTO, March 25 (AP).

WENDELL L. WILLKIE said last night the war in Europe must end in eradication of Nazism, but asserted that the ensuing peace "must not again lock 80,000,000 people in a prison wall of trade limits and economic degradation to spawn brutality, racial intolerance and war."

In an address at a mass meeting opening Canada's campaign to raise $5,500,000 for national auxiliary war services, Willkie declared that "civilization cannot afford such another mistake" as the one he said followed the World War peace.

The new peace, he said, must be "made in a spirit of intelligent, mutual helpfulness and good will," and he added that "a military victory alone will not save the democratic system."

In a departure from his prepared address, he declared that the United States should "give every ship, give more than every ship that is free and unnecessary, give ships until it hurts, keep them going, and victory then is sure."

Those are invaluable joint assets. Tonight, however, I acclaim not these, but our present union of purpose, by our respective methods, to provide Britain with the necessary aid to preserve freedom's front.

"We, on our side of the line, are going to provide ships to carry food and munitions to our beleagured brethren. We are gearing our great production facilities to the making of airplanes to give them eventual superiority in the air. Our arsenals are forging the guns to blast away the truculence of boastful war lords.

"As in the last war, you are doing your part brilliantly and courageously with men and material. Your aviators are a part of the Royal Air Force whose intrepid gallantry is writing an heroic epic which will be told for centuries in song and story. Your training crews and mechanics are contributing immeasurably to one of the supreme necessities of this war—superiority in the air. Your wheat fields and cattle ranges are providing all-important food. And you, the people of Canada, of your own volition are fighting side by side with British soldiers on a dozen fronts.

"We are confident that with the help of our joint efforts, England will win.

Victory Not Enough.

"But all of us, Englishmen, Canadians and citizens of the United States know that it is not enough merely to win—we now know that we must do much more and in many ways much less than that. We must, when this war ends, have a peace not written in hate or reprisal or in terms of territorial aggrandizement or imperialistic designs. It must be a peace made in a spirit of intelligent, mutual helpfulness and good will. For a military victory alone will not save the democratic system. Democracy, as a way of life, is competing with various totalitarian ways of life, and democracy will win only if it works better than they do.

"Within the last few months I have had the unusual privilege of talking to the citizens and political leaders of England, of Portugal, of Canada, of the United States and also of persons recently returned from discussion with the people of Germany and France and Italy. All of them, with rare unanimity, agree that the trade restrictions and barriers, the unpayable indemnities, the arbitrary redrawing of boundaries, the moral degradation imposed by the Versailles treaty of peace—somehow produced the present Frankenstein of Nazism and war.

"They likewise know that from 1919 to 1939 a sterile and unimaginative political leadership among all of us—a leadership constantly living on the catch-phrases and half truths of outmoded nationalism and promoted economic hates—failed to co-operate to create international monetary standards, enlarged trade areas and world economic recovery which could have corrected the errors of the treaty and saved the world from its present unspeakable mess.

Can't Afford New Mistake.

"Civilization cannot afford such another mistake. We must begin now to shape in our minds the kind of world we want. We must not await the war's end to make these purposes clear. For then some men will feel the gloat of victory, and others the bitterness of defeat; demagogues will capitalize the passions of the people and the greedy grasping of some will teach only an immediate material advantage; and super-patriots among us all again will shout the shiboleths of nationalism and isolation.

"We must have the imagination to dare and the vision to see that from such cataclysms as we are experiencing today, great ventures are possible. My own beloved country, with its priceless tradition of liberty, was born and grew to life in a similar period. And we can, if we have the will, convert what seems to be the death rattle of our time into the birth pains of a new and better order.

"The conquered countries of Europe must be restored to liberty. Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Holland, Belgium and Norway must live again, vitally as part of a larger world of trade, not contracted into arid economic units. China should be saved from aggression and permitted to go forward on the path of the new China with her enormous possibilities of trade within herself and with the rest of the world.

Must Work Together.

"Nazi-ism and all it means as a menace to liberty must and shall be eradicated utterly and its leaders driven from power. But we must not again lock 80,000,000 people in a prison wall of trade limits and economic degradation to spawn brutality, racial intolerance and war.

"And above all the British commonwealth of nations and the United States must join together in eliminating their own trade bar-

Greece Marks 120th Anniversary Of Independence With Resolve to Defend Freedom Against Anyone

Crowds Cheer Marchers With Shouts of 'Aera,' War Cry of the Evzones, Which Means What 'Gangway' Means to Americans—Radio Appeal to 'Brave' Serbs.

By GEORGE WELLER

ATHENS, March 25.

WHATEVER price Yugoslavia places on its independence, as decided today, the lifeblood of Greece is still ready to protect its independence against any threat from the north or any other compass point. Such was the thought uppermost in the dark, passionate faces of the wildly gesticulating men, women and children who today lined the sidewalks of the capital, tiny blue and white flags in hand, to honor once more the anniversary of Greek freedom and the army defending it.

As the parade marched past, consisting chiefly of youth organizations forming the home guard, the Athenians eagerly seized the chance to shout their appreciation of the men who are still holding the northern border. The crowd set up shout after shout of "aera," the war cry of the white-skirted Evzones. Meaning literally air, "aera" is a terrifying warning of attack, which may be translated into Americanese as "gangway," or the slogan of the American Twenty-sixth Division in the World War, "Let's go."

"Aera" has become a civilian as well as military battle yell and today, on this 120th anniversary of the hoisting of the first Greek flag of liberty by Father Germanos, at a little monastery on the Corinthian Gulf, "aera" was on the lips of every Athenian.

Contrast to Bulgaria.

In every way the anniversary was a contrast to the half-hearted celebration of Bulgarian independence, also won by arms from the Turks, which the writer observed in Sofia exactly three weeks ago. This was a popular festival, soberly but thankfully celebrated, while the deep and sincere patriotism of the Bulgarians never found expression on their holiday, unmarked even by a parade, because of the entrance of German troops into the country the day before.

While the Bulgarian Government on that occasion declared, in a statement to the American public, that it was yielding against its will, having no other desire than to protect its own borders, the Greek Government is able to line up its foreign policy today without excuse or explanation. The alliance with Britain has every exterior appearance of being a free, voluntary, close and thoughtful collaboration for which Greece has no need to make explanations of duress.

In today's celebrations, which centered as usual at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier before the remodeled white palace of Greece's first King, Otho, the national colors took a prominent part. The Greek flag, blue as the spring sky and white as the columns of the Parthenon, was everywhere, even on the guide ropes of trolley car poles, and for a nation at war Greece seemed exceptionally gay and light-hearted.

As one Greek put it, "We have made up our minds to fight for our freedom, and for other Balkan peoples who have to go through doubt and uncertainty before they decide what to do, we have no criticism but only sympathy. We are perfectly clear about what we are going to do."

Broadcast to Yugoslavia

For the first time last night, perhaps encouraged by the impending anniversary, Greece took a definite line on the German-Yugoslav situation, although only semi-officially, in a broadcast in Serbo-Croat. The Greek remarks on the crisis created by Adolf Hitler's demands on Belgrade were addressed to the Yugoslavs only and there was no German version. The point singled out by the Greeks for the opening criticism was that the Yugoslavs were supposedly negotiating an arrangement under which the Germans would be allowed "to transport munitions through Yugoslav territory from north to south."

The Greek radio station said, "The Greeks refuse even to think it ever possible for the land of Karageorgevitch to accept a clause so humiliating for itself and hostile to Greece."

In an obvious reference to the Balkan Entente, the Greeks called Yugoslavia "an allied country." The statement, painstakingly avoiding, as do all Greek official utterances, the slightest allusion to Germany as a belligerent Power, said that acceptance of the demands by Yugoslavia would have as a consequence that "Italian planes" would drop

CHURCHILL PRAISES GREEKS IN NOTE ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

LONDON, March 25 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill, in a special message to the Greeks on their Independence day, repeated today Britain's resolve to sustain Greek independence. His message follows:

"On this day of proud memories, I would add one brief tribute to those which the whole civilized world is paying to the valor of the Greek nation.

"One hundred and twenty years ago all that was noblest in England strove in the cause of Greek independence and rejoiced in its achievement. Today, that epic struggle is being repeated against greater odds, but with equal courage and with no less certainty of success.

"We in England know that cause for which Byron died is a sacred cause: We are resolved to sustain it."

The poet, Lord Byron, gave money and personal aid to the Greek movement to overthrow Turkish rule and died of a fever at Missolonghi, April 19, 1824.

Pact Puts British Out of Balkans, Gayda Asserts

ROME, March 25 (AP).

FASCIST Editor Virginio Gayda declared that today's formalities in Vienna, at which Yugoslavia adhered to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis, meant expulsion of Britain from Southeastern Europe and the isolation of Greece and should "give cause for meditation to the United States."

"The United States today can well perceive that their aid to England is not going for the cause of Europe's liberty but for that British imperialism which Europe already has condemned," Gayda wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia.

"The political plan of Anthony Eden (British Foreign Secretary), who hurried to the Mediterranean a second time under the failure of Gen. Wavell's military plan under orders to coagulate some part of Balkan Europe against the Axis Powers according to British policy, also is completely shattered."

Greece, Gayda asserted, "definitely is isolated in Eastern Europe. "He added that "the Balkan League, on which was based so large a part of its policy in harmony with its vassalage to Britain, has been pulverized."

Gayda forecast that Turkey would "not fail to consider with realism that history is on the march as it is developing on its frontiers."

STRICT PHONE CENSORSHIP IN EFFECT IN YUGOSLAVIA

Correspondents Cut Off Whenever They Mention Anything Connected With the Axis.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 25 (AP).—A strict telephone censorship was established in this country a few minutes after it signed up with the Axis today.

Correspondents attempting to telephone out of the country found the lines cut whenever they mentioned anything connected with the Axis partners.

15 Bodies Taken From Ruins of One Huge Tenement in Single Morning—Miles of Streets in Ruins, Farms Destroyed in Two Terrific Assaults.

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1941.

GLASGOW, March 24 (Delayed.)

TEN days after the first intensive bombing it has had since the outbreak of the war, the Clydeside is still digging its dead from the debris of big stone tenements.

In the first 16 months of the war Glasgow and the heavily populated districts along the banks of the River Clyde had only one minor raid. They had come to believe that the bombing was for London and Coventry—in fact, for practically every other area in Great Britain except theirs. They know differently now.

For about nine hours March 13, death and destruction rained from the skies so persistently that Clydesiders could scarcely believe it had stopped when the cold, gray, miserable dawn finally drove the Nazis home.

Raiders Return.

As they went to work to put out still blazing fires, and search heaps of stone for survivors, they thought they had known the worst. But while they were still working, and long before they had been able to find homes for those who had miraculously escaped alive, it came again, just as fierce, just as death-dealing, but only for about six hours.

As I climbed over stones and pipes in the streets of one of the Clydeside towns today a rescue squad was bringing out the fifteenth body it had found this morning in the ruins of one tenement. Identification was clearly hopeless. There was still another huge tenement to tackle. Some 60 families lived in that one.

Farther down the street, where the buildings seemed to have suffered less, chalked on the doorways were forwarding addresses: "David Ferguson at Alloa," "Jay McGregor at Scone Farm, Randor," and so on.

"Aye, they've left their addresses for them and for work managers," said a policeman.

Miles of Devastation.

And so it was for several miles down this stricken street, with what remains of its huge stone tenements, which looked impervious to any but the hardest blow. High above the street, on a fifth-floor wall which was all that was left standing of one building, still hung a bookcase in which not a single book appeared to have been disarranged.

And over the hill, among the green fields, were shattered remnants of farms, which always seemed too rurally Scottish to be on the fringe of a great industrial neighborhood. On top of a hill, surrounded by green lawns, stood a half-demolished children's hospital moved here from the dirt and noise of Glasgow. Through the crumpled walls you could see dusty and glass-strewn baby cots. No one seemed to know what number of these children were included in the 500 dead—Clydeside's toll for those two bitter nights.

And away in the distance, gloomy and smoky as ever, Glasgow stood out in the morning sun, scarcely a pane of glass in the entire city cracked. Below, the River Clyde still teemed with ships of all sizes.

Knudsen 62 Today.

DETROIT, March 25 (AP).—William S. Knudsen, co-director of the Office of Production Management, arrived here last night by plane from Washington to be with his family on his sixty-second birthday anniversary today. Friends said he would rest for several days before returning to the capital.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Education the Easy Way.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOW that there seems to be genuine concern about our educational system, I should like to air some of my pet theories.

When my oldest son was ready for school, the bottom had fallen out of the old educational system. There were no phonetics, no study of the alphabet, practically no memory work. The young were equipped to absorb their knowledge through the pores.

Like all young mothers, I was enthusiastic about the new methods, but a few years later, I began to realize that the fundamentals were sadly lacking.

Take a look at the Canadian school system. There they still teach "by the numbers," so to speak. They use rhymes or songs or pictures to instill the arithmetic tables and the alphabet in the pupils.

I think a very definite discipline should be returned to the school. The time to teach children loyalty, responsibility and consideration is in the early grades. Frankly I feel that our American children have been allowed too much freedom.

The results are now being shown in a definite lack of character and an amazing rudeness to anyone who tries to teach these fundamentals.

Compared with the required course of study at the old Central High School, today's requirements are childish. I have been told there is no value in forced learning, but I have a sneaking suspicion that the people with this theory have missed the boat.

Oh, so much we learn must be forgotten to make room for experiences of mature life, but the habits instilled by our early efforts stay with us for life. The school must develop these habits, otherwise the home is helpless.

I firmly believe the skills will develop better in a child who has been required to do certain routine work every day until he does it well, and he will be less apt to criticise everything and everybody when he has acquired his own knowledge.

RITA SHERRY.

St. Louis County.

Glad to See Wheeler's Address.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WAS glad to see you publish in full detail the recent radio address of Senator Wheeler and also give prominent position to the quotations from Lindbergh's current article in Collier's.

I feel you are trying to be fair to both sides in this matter and keep your readers fully informed as to what is really going on, whereas so many newspapers are taking a strictly partisan attitude in featuring only one side of the case.

Could you not also give good publicity to the latest Gallup poll showing that only 17 per cent of the people would now vote in favor of going into the war, while 83 per cent would vote to stay out?

HENRY T. FERRISS.

The Menace of the Machine

"Boss rule is the bunk!"

So St. Louis is being told by the apologists for the Dickmann-Hannegan machine as the mayoralty race enters the stretch.

"It is not a machine, but only an organization."

Thus ran the refrain of a professorial crooner over the radio the other evening. Is St. Louis to be fooled by such a play on words as that? Does St. Louis believe that boss rule is the bunk?

From a city terrorized by political hoodlums for years and disgraced by boss rule comes a word of warning to St. Louis. The Kansas City Star, which knows whereof it speaks, says:

> When the Pendergast machine came into power in 1926, it gave the city fair government, as political city governments go. It seemed to be living within its budget and it kept a ready ear to public opinion. The men who ran the machine and its public business were considered likable and honorable men.
>
> The analogy to St. Louis is plain. And what happened in Kansas City? Again to quote the Star:
>
> It started so slowly that most people didn't wake up for years, as innocently as the first trickle of the flood over the dam. Vice concessions started with winking at the law, but they grew into such a powerful gambling racket that its leaders sat in the councils of the mighty. Ordinary political patronage grew with demand on demand until the city payroll was at least one-third pad, or unnecessary employes.
>
> Along with the gambling racket and the payroll racket went the contract racket. The people "woke up one day to discover that graft had edged up year by year, to be figured in the millions." Along with big money went increasing political power until Boss Pendergast, once a purely local figure, extended his power to the State and was able to name United States Senators, Governors and Congressmen, as well as local officials from Mayor to dogcatcher.

* * *

Missouri knows that sinister story in all of its details. But, of course, it couldn't happen here. It couldn't happen to St. Louis. Mayor Dickmann is a good fellow. He has given the city some improvements. This situation, they say, is different.

Yes, it is different. It took the Pendergast machine a long time to function on all its 16 cylinders. The Dickmann-Hannegan machine has had only eight years in office so far, and a large part of that time was spent in perfecting a free-wheeling mechanism. Its horsepower has already been built up and tested, as we hereafter show. It is ready to go to town.

It isn't the fault of the Dickmann-Hannegan machine that the discredited Excise Commissioner, Lawrence McDaniel, does not hold the Governor's chair today, with power to appoint Police and Election Boards here and in Kansas City.

The difference here between the Kansas City machine and the Dickmann-Hannegan machine is that the former won the governorship with the help of fraudulent ballots and the latter attempted to steal it after the ballots were counted. Meanwhile, the contest for the governorship goes on and McDaniel may yet sit in the Governor's chair.

* * *

We hear a good deal about civic purity and civic righteousness from the defenders of the Dickmann-Hannegan machine. We wonder what they have to say about a remarkable communication that was mailed in February to all city officials, members of the Democratic City Committee, officers of the Democratic committees in the 114 counties of the State, Democratic members of the Legislature and State officials.

This letter established the Kansas City-St. Louis machine axis. It was signed by Eugene P. Donnelly, chairman of the Jackson County Democratic Committee, and it addressed itself (1) to the contest for Governor and (2) to the St. Louis election.

Mr. Donnelly, replying to Republicans and "misguided Democrats" who were demanding the seating of the duly elected Governor, Forrest C. Donnell, urged the party "to show unbounded courage and fearlessness in the fight that is on our threshold." He urged the party to keep Donnell out of office and to keep Dickmann in. "I say to you," wrote Mr. Donnelly, "in all candor that if he (Donnell) is seated, the party will be ruined for years to come in Missouri." It is not a matter of principle with Donnelly that the duly elected Governor should be seated. It is a matter of party expediency to deny him his seat. There is a fine example of the machine mind.

Coupled with his plea to deprive Donnell of his seat was Donnelly's bugle call for a Dickmann victory. Wrote he:

> In my humble judgment, the re-election of Mayor Dickmann is essential to future party vitality and victory in the State and congressional elections in 1942. We need strong party organizations in the two major cities buttressing the long and faithful work of rural democracy to insure party victory—a situation demanded by all faithful Democrats. We are growing daily in Kansas City. . . . I venture the confident prediction that we will recapture the City Hall in April, 1942. Let every Missouri Democrat do his bit to insure the re-election of Mayor Dickmann next April.

What does that stirring call to "faithful Democrats" mean? It means that the discredited Kansas City machine, whose leaders went to the penitentiary, is making a comeback and that it hopes, with a victory for Dickmann and the governorship in McDaniel's hands, to make the whole State once again safe for machine rule.

* * *

Mayor Dickmann is not an evil man. Far from it. He is, in many respects, a very good man. But he has evil companions, from the smooth big shots to the jackals of Rat Alley. All of these now carry the banner of civic purity until the time when the votes are counted, the power is obtained and the time for racketeering begins.

We have plenty of evidence of their handiwork in the past. Who placed on the bench Judges who sullied their profession by their servile allegiance to the machine? Who, at this very moment, after the people in the last election voted to divorce politics from the bench, are attempting to dynamite this great reform? Who knifed Democratic Judges with good records like Frank B. Coleman in favor of unknown and unhonored candidates who would do the bidding of the bosses? Who double-crossed Jesse McDonald after he had been asked by Mayor Dickmann to get up a good judicial slate? Who smashed that slate and caused Mr. McDonald to throw up his hands in disgust?

Who is responsible for the wholesale frauds in the registration of 1936 and for the equally wholesale pilfering that was exposed in the riverfront bond issue election of 1935? Did the Dickmann-Hannegan machine, by any chance, have anything to do with these performances, for which not a single election crook went to prison? Why did not these election crooks go to prison? Because Democratic prosecutors and Democratic Judges, part and parcel of the machine, were always able to find some loophole for their escape.

We have had well-conducted elections in St. Louis since 1936. But why? In that year, following exposure of election frauds, public indignation forced Gov. Park to fire the Election Board headed by Chairman James Waechter, then an intimate political ally of Mayor Dickmann, and appoint instead a board of outstanding citizens who would not tolerate electoral crookedness. And, following Gov. Park, we had Gov. Stark, who also appointed decent Election Boards. The Dickmann-Hannegan machine could not steal elections with honest boards, and it is a rather interesting historical fact that when Gov. Stark ran for nomination to the Senate, the Dickmann-Hannegan machine knifed him and beat him in St. Louis.

* * *

If the people of St. Louis wish to excuse or condone the misdeeds of the Dickmann-Hannegan machine simply because Mayor Dickmann has some good deeds to his credit, they are inviting the fate the Kansas City Star has warned them against. They are courting a tie-up with the Pendergast outfit and with the miserable Democratic legislators who for years have crucified essential reforms like modernization of the criminal code, improvement of the election laws to provide a secret ballot and other safeguards and who, finally, this year bent their knees to party bosses who ordered them to steal the governorship.

A Dickmann victory would cement the Kansas City-Jefferson City-St. Louis axis. It would tie together three groups of politicians who will stop at nothing—not the Constitution, not the laws, not the expressed will of the people—to perpetuate their power.

Wall Street's Idle Sharecroppers

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Business at Broad and Wall recalls the old gray mare; decline in scrap paper sweepings keeps pace with decline in seat prices, reporter finds; brokers still do trade now and then, but they no longer whistle at girls or eat lunch; horseplay and jokes out at funeral.

From the New Yorker.

NEXT time a broker, toying wanly with his frayed cuffs, tells you a seat on the Stock Exchange has sold for $27,000 and that the daily average of shares traded this January was 512,000, as compared to 4,300,000 in January, 1928, you might enter into the spirit of things by telling him how the amount of wastepaper swept up from the Exchange floor at the close of a day's trading stacks up against the amount swept up 10 years ago.

Current sweepings, consisting of brokers' orders, memorandums and quotation slips, are only about two-thirds what they used to be: in 1931 they averaged 21 bags, or 1500 pounds, a day; today they hover around 13 bags, or 950 pounds. Moreover, the figures jotted on these scraps of paper are substantially lower than they were in the days when stockbrokers warned their sons against becoming college professors, poets or harmonica players, and their daughters against marrying same.

We obtained this interesting wastepaper statistic, and a few sidelights that may be of value to some morbid historian, when we visited the Exchange last week. An official guide took us to the visitors' gallery, from which, around noon, we watched the following sluggish scene unfold itself.

* * *

At Trading Post 6, a bald-headed broker was sitting down, reading a copy of Time, no doubt the "Business & Finance" section. At Post 2, another broker was working on the Herald Tribune crossword puzzle. At Post 4, where General Motors is traded, three members were talking; one was sitting, two standing. Our guide pointed to the left of Post 2, where United States Steel is traded, and said, "There's the steel crowd." The steel crowd consisted of four brokers and one Stock Exchange employe, all conversing without animation.

Another crowd of four brokers stood about Post 10, where Bethlehem Steel is traded; under our very eyes one of them walked away from the others and wrote something on a pad. Our guide advised us to keep on watching him, because it looked as though the man was about to trade. "Yes," the guide said breathlessly a moment later, "he did trade, he did trade."

Around this time the annunciator board, which is used to call members from the floor to their phones and is equipped with a thousand numbers, had 16 numbers up. In the old days, 300 or 400 numbers showing was nothing unusual.

Brokers' carnations have declined even more sensationally. Formerly about half the members sported them; the day we were there all buttonholes were bare.

According to E. Burd Grubb, a governor of the Exchange, most brokers have given up lunch, along with the carnations. Mr. Grubb told us he stopped eating lunch a year and a half ago. "It's an easy way to save a dollar and a half," he said. He just has a bigger dinner when he goes home. A few of the more improvident, or hungrier, brokers have sandwiches sent in, or go to Walgreen's, or patronize a recently installed sandwich bar in the Luncheon Club.

The smoking room is more popular than it used to be, since members go there increasingly to read, complain, do crossword puzzles and talk deferentially about such profitable ventures as photography and stamp-collecting. Backgammon stakes in this room, once a quarter a point, are now generally a nickel.

We asked a broker about the horseplay and practical jokes which have long been an Exchange tradition and were told that the last prank occurred before the election, when a trader, having bought a carton of eggs from John Conklin, a broker, who has a farm in New Jersey and peddles 70 dozen eggs a week to his colleagues, checked his carton in the cloakroom. Another member, apparently feeling Willkie was going to be elected, giddily removed the eggs, had them hard-boiled at a restaurant across the street, and returned them to the cloakroom. The owner's wife later tried to make some scrambled eggs, and the joke was judged a success.

By the end of the year, however, no one felt humorous, and Dec. 31, formerly an occasion marked by revelry, song, two bands, paper hats and noise-makers, was celebrated gloomily with prolonged booing at the 3 o'clock close. The man who told us this went on to say that no one has had the initiative to haze the two newest members; that the Stock Exchange theme song, "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," formerly rendered by all hands when something good happened in the market, hadn't been sung for months; that no one whistles at girls in the visitors' gallery any more; and that James Seligman, once one of the wittiest men on the floor, had given up conversation altogether.

"You don't crack jokes at a funeral," our informant said.

Smoke War in St. Louis

From the New York Sun.

THE success of the smoke-elimination ordinance in St. Louis is of interest not only to residents of that city but to authorities in other large American cities faced with a similar problem. They have watched the progress of the experiment closely.

The testing period in St. Louis ended March 3, with the Weather Bureau reporting a 71 per cent decrease in hours of smoke in the first fall and winter under the new law.

The ordinance permits use of soft coal only when it is burned mechanically. Otherwise, hard or processed coal must be used.

Prior to adoption of the ordinance, members of the Missouri Botanical Garden staff asserted that smoke was particularly injurious to trees in St. Louis during the late fall, winter and early spring months. They recommended certain trees as having greatest powers of resistance to smoke; now, presumably, other trees can be grown.

Injury through smoke is by no means confined to trees; human beings also suffer. Dr. John S. Owens, an expert, has estimated that the 7,000,000 people who live in the County of London breathe 90 pounds of soot into their lungs every 24 hours, while in a thick fog they inhale 1200 pounds. Every "pea-souper" that envelopes the English capital causes a loss of around $1,700,000 to railways and tradesmen and in the extra lighting required.

Dr. H. B. Meller and L. B. Sisson, "smoke professors" at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, have been unremitting in their campaign for pure air. Dr. Meller, who is chief of Pittsburgh's Bureau of Smoke Regulation, describes preventable smoke and dust as "worthless by-products of incomplete combustion and uncontrolled emission," and asserts that their discharge into city air continues only because of an attitude of easy tolerance on the part of the inhabitants.

BUT WHAT WILL MR. DIES SAY?

D. L. H. in the Kansas City Star.

WE observe that women are doing all they can to bring spring to us. In the selection of the so-called accessories they are wearing just now, women are accomplishing more than the weather man to brighten the scene. We nominate red accessories—red on the hat, red pocketbook, gloves and shoes—as harmonious companions to the redbird and robin red breast.

SEARCH FOR AN EASY VICTIM.

From the New Orleans Item.

MUSSOLINI's press has now taken to denouncing the Swiss for "insulting the Italian Army." Perhaps if he searches long enough he can find somebody smaller and weaker than the Greeks to pick on. Switzerland is smaller, but we wouldn't advise him to select the Swiss on other grounds. Perhaps he might start something with Monaco, if that paradise still survives.

Protest on TNT Plant Decision

From the Wentzville (Mo.) Union.

SOMETIMES when we read the utterings of great statesmen of old—the men who were the guiding stars in the establishment of our Government and the development of our nation into the "land of liberty," becoming the haven of the oppressed of all nations, men like Washington, Patrick Henry, Jefferson, Lincoln and Daniel Webster—we wonder what these great defenders of the rights of the people would say if they could see the mess we are in today.

Politicians are shouting "Democracy," "Freedom," "Goverment by the people," while they are taking away their liberties—even their homes, forcing them to accept whatever the Government is willing to pay, as is being done in the TNT area in St. Charles County today.

According to newspaper reports, Congressman Cannon declared he considers it an outrage that the War Department set aside the options on land of St. Charles County farmers, after these options had been accepted by the Government and almost half of the land owners (among them the owner of a big acreage of bluff land recently purchased, realizing double or more over the price paid, it is reported) had been paid the option price, while farmers and home owners who gave up their property relying on Government to pay out are now facing condemnation proceedings.

* * *

The whole matter of locating the TNT project in the Howell-Hamburg area rests upon a series of outrages. In the first place, it was an outrage to allow the War Department to swoop down on St. Charles County and select a portion of the most promising country site without giving the owners even a chance to voice their protest against such a proposal, as they have a right to do under a true representative form of government—a government of and by the people.

It is known here that there were citizens in St. Charles who knew about the plan to locate a dynamite plant in the center of the historic Daniel Boone territory in this county, months before it happened. Surely the Congressman knew about it, too, and as the representative of our people—the farmers and landowners of the TNT area—should have consulted them regarding the wishes of the people. According to well-founded reports, three other localities turned it down. Are we not a part of "the people"?

The next outrage was the hiring of an outsider at 5 per cent commission to sign up the options—and it stands to reason that the price put on the land would not be too low, because the higher the price paid, the bigger the commission. And the hiring of a Kansas City title company to handle the titles, when we have in St. Charles County a title company whose directing head knows the history of nearly every parcel of land in the county, and certainly has a most complete record of all county land titles on file.

These farmers, who are about to suffer a great loss through the action of the War Department, acted in good faith and are entitled to every penny of the price contracted for by reason of loss and mental anxiety suffered and by reason of not being able to secure new locations for lack of funds.

The President of the United States has been given power in the Lease-Lend Act to settle controversies, especially where national defense matters are concerned, and the farmers and landowners who are suffering on account of the action of the War Department are looking to their Congressman to present the matter to the President and urge favorable action for the people he represents.

There is another way out. If Congress has not entirely abdicated, it has power to pass an appropriation to pay the difference between what the War Department will pay under the condemnation plan and the amount agreed to in the options. What's the answer?

FOR TEACHERS' PENSIONS.

From the Kansas City Journal.

THE Legislature owes it to Missouri school teachers to enact a satisfactory retirement law at the present session. Four years ago, the teachers obtained the voters' approval of a constitutional amendment authorizing a pension system. Indifference and misunderstanding have delayed the passage of an enabling act. In failing to pass such an act at this session, the legislators would again ignore a mandate from the voters.

'DU BARRY' VERY MUCH ON THE SPICY SIDE

Bert Lahr Starred in Musical Comedy Success Now at American Theater.

DU BARRY WAS A LADY, a musical comedy in two acts, with music and lyrics by Cole Porter, book by Herbert Fields and B. G. de Sylva. Presented by B. G. de Sylva at the American Theater with Bert Lahr as the star and these other principals: Frances Williams, Benny Baker, Ronald Graham, Ruth Bond, Oscar Ragland, Sunny Rice, David Shelley, Walter Armin, Eddie Hanley, Jane Sproule, Harold Cromer, Don Liberto and the Four Internationals.

By COLVIN McPHERSON

A most evil-minded, mischievous, hilarious and delightful musical comedy is at the American Theater for a run through next Sunday night. "Du Barry Was a Lady" happens to be the title but the opinion of Cole Porter, who wrote the music, and Herbert Fields and B. G. De Sylva, who wrote the comedy, is that DuBarry definitely was not.

The story takes the audience—a big one last night—from the washroom of the Club Petite in New York to the Court of France under King Louis XV for no good reason perhaps, except to show that the frame of mind as regards men and women, boys and girls was the same in both places and times.

Central figure in the rowdy fantasy is Louis Blore, "ladies' maid in a gents' room," who wins a $75,000 sweepstakes prize, quits his job in the inner courts of the Club Petite and is about to make a play for the Club Petite's star "vocalist" when he accidentally gives himself a Mickey Finn and wakes up as Louis XV, with the singer as the royal favorite, Madame Du Barry.

That's it, except for the spice and chasing around and unblushing exposure and magnificent clowning by Bert Lahr as Louis Blore and King Louis XV. The George Arliss of comedy is at the height of his art and puts the customers in a spirit of great glee with anything he does.

Just to watch him wiggle his eyebrows or stare cross-eyed and amazed at the audience is something of a treat. The scene in which he explains to his successor at the Club Petite, Benny Baker, how the job ought to be run is a gem and there are hundreds of Lahr comedy tricks that are good for laughs—the way he has of collapsing a lorgnette under his nose, his palpitating fortissimo when he sings, his delicate dignity as the King of France. He even pretends to muff the lyrics of his songs, which you might believe until you watch him sing "The Star-Spangled Banner," every word of it, in the American's customary closing style.

But even aside from its star, "Du Barry Was a Lady" has everything a good musical comedy needs. The pace is so fast that plot, if there were more, would become completely addled. There are dancing girls and dancing boys, raising a clatter and a dust. There are specialty artists who get special applause. Cole Porter's music and lyrics are, as usual, of the best.

As a result of the show's year on Broadway and 14 weeks in Chicago, "Do I Love You" is the best-known or best remembered, perhaps, of the tunes. Three comedy numbers click at first hearing—"It Ain't Etiquette," "But in the Morning, No!" and "Friendship." The last, sung by Lahr and Frances Williams, his Du Barry, stopped the show last night and forced the star to make a thank-you speech and explain, "We ain't got no more choruses."

Dance numbers staged by Robert Alton are smart and original and the costumes and scenery by Raoul Pene Du Bois, obviously not as smart and fresh as they were at the show's Broadway opening, still are eye-thrilling. The fact that "DuBarry" is the first musical show at the American in the 1940-41 season marks it with unique entertainment appeal.

Miss Williams, here about a year ago in a minor flop, "Three After Three," gives valiant service to "DuBarry"; Benny Baker is the funny fat boy he has been in films; Ruth Bond lends beauty and grace; Sunny Rice's dancing gets some of that special applause. Singing of the romantic sort is done by Ronald Graham, good-looking former leading man at Municipal Opera, several members of the chorus are from the Forest Park ranks and Ray Sinatra, co-conductor of last summer in the park, is in charge of the orchestra this week.

But "DuBarry Was a Lady," at Seventh and Market streets, is about a close to Municipal Opera as it ever will get.

DARST DENIES BACKING SHIFT OF CHILD BOARD

Welfare Director Says Protest by Guardian Group Head Is Political.

Joseph M. Darst, Director of Public Welfare, denied today that he was in favor of transferring the functions of the non-political Board of Children's Guardians to his department, as was recommended recently by the City Survey Committee. He said he had no opinion at all on the proposed change.

His statement was made in reply to a letter sent to the Survey Committee by Walter C. Haeussler, chairman of the Board of Children's Guardians. Haeussler protested against the proposed transfer, saying that children and taxpayers would suffer if the board's work were put under the politically controlled Welfare Department.

Darst, an appointee of Mayor Dickmann, charged that Haeussler was "playing politics." He said Haeussler's letter was "in bad taste," and that Haeussler "had asinine ideas about inefficiency in the Welfare Department."

The Survey Committee, in its bulky report issued last month, suggested that Bellefontaine Farms and Meramec Hills, the two institutions operated by the Board of Children's Guaridans, be administered by the Welfare Department, along with the "placing-out service" which the board conducts.

"Your report criticises severely many city branches in the Public Welfare Department," Haeussler said in his letter, "stating that they are inefficiently operated, with the implication they are inefficient because of political control. And still you recommend that our well-governed organization be transferred to that department.

"The Board of Children's Guardians is responsible for its employes and has the power to employ and dismiss its agent, superintendents and other employes without political interference. We already operate under a merit system because our ordinance stipulates that only trained professional social workers may be employed. If we are placed in the Department of Public Welfare we will doubtless shortly be in the same situation as the departments you criticise. As a result, unfortunate children will suffer."

Darst, who is Democratic City Committeeman from the Twenty-fifth Ward, said there "is no more politics in my department than in Mr. Haeussler's organization."

The Board of Children's Guardians is composed of 12 members, appointed by the Mayor for overlapping four year terms. Haeussler said it was successful because it has been free of political control.

"The smoke elimination program was ineffective until it was implemented by a citizens' committee," he continued. "The success of your own committee is a further illustration of the effective manner in which public spirited citizens can function in promoting civic welfare. But citizens' groups can function effectively only when they have full power without political hindrance."

Haeussler pointed out that the Federal Children's Bureau is now also making a survey of the child welfare program in St. Louis. He asked that any action on the survey committee's recommendation wait until the Federal survey is completed and published.

CURRIE'S REPORT ON CHINA

By JOSEPH ALSOP and ROBERT KINTNER

WASHINGTON, March 25.

IN THE field of Far Eastern policy, the past 10 days have seen two important developments. The first was the return from China of Lauchlin Currie, the economist and presidential assistant, who journeyed to Chungking to help Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his advisers cope with a dangerously inflationary currency situation. Currie does not pretend to be a military expert, but he is a good reporter, and he is said to have brought back to the President a remarkable list of the Chinese needs for starting a counter-offensive against Japan.

The list, considering the nature of modern war, is magnificently brief. A dozen Flying Fortresses, 200 up-to-date pursuit planes, comparatively small quantities of aviation gasoline, steel alloys and other raw materials, and a certain amount of heavy artillery and ammunition would be enough, according to the Chinese leaders speaking to the President through Currie. With this comparative handful of supplies, the Chinese think they could knock spots out of the Japanese invaders.

The second development is not unrelated to the first, indicating that our Far Eastern policy is already hovering on the verge of boldness. It is the dispatching to Australia and New Zealand of several heavy and light cruisers and a considerable number of destroyers on a "courtesy visit." Although Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox has indignantly rejected any suggestion of ulterior motive, any observer not too obtuse must conclude that this "courtesy visit" is in reality an effective compromise between the two main factions in the Navy Department.

The cautious faction, composed of the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Harold Stark, and most of the members of the general board, has maintained that any substantial American naval force crossing the 180th meridian would be attacked or turned back by the Japanese. The officers with Far Eastern experience, who are poorly represented on the general board, are the faction of daring. They have maintained the contrary proposition, that such a force as has now been sent to Australia and New Zealand would not only not be attacked, but if sent to Singapore would also be enough to deter the Japanese from further adventures in Malaya. Anyone examining the map can see the warships "courtesy visiting" and enjoying "recreation" at Sydney and Auckland can proceed to Singapore without much danger of Japanese interference.

Courtesy Visits.

THE plunge of sending ships to Singapore may not be taken, but the mood suggested by the "courtesy visits" to Britain's Pacific dominions augurs a friendly reception for the Chinese requests for aid. These have, of course, been presented before, through other messengers, among whom Dr. T. V. Soong, China's great former finance Minister, was the most persuasive. Even before Currie's departure for the Far East, Dr. Soong might have succeeded in getting his country what it needs, had it not been for the demands of the European fighting on the defense production machinery.

Currie, however, will speak with special authority, as a man close to the President, who has seen for himself. He spent enough time with the Chinese leaders—30 hours with Chiang Kai-shek alone — to receive a dependable impression. And he is said to have come back a convert to boldness on all points.

The division between the Chinese Communists and Chiang Kai-shek, which has worried so many persons here, he is reported to dismiss as in the first place cured, and in the second a sign of Chinese self-confidence and belief in ultmate victory. The problem of getting in the supplies he thinks little of, for the Japanese talk of "closing the Burma road" is nonsense, so long as there are hundreds of fervently energetic coolies to repair the damage of every bomb the Japanese drop. The problem of air fields and air personnel he also minimizes, having been impressed by the opinions of the foreign air experts at Chungking on Chinese flying, and having seen with his own eyes 75,000 coolies building one of a chain of vast fields intended to be used by the Flying Fortresses.

As for the effectiveness of the proposed Chinese offensive, he makes two points. First, the Japanese in China are in a far worse state of exhaustion and demoralization than is generally assumed here, and thus not likely to stand up under strong attack. And second, with the Flying Fortresses alone, to drop incendiary bombs on Japan's concentrated, almost undefended paper and matchwood industrial area, a body blow could probably be struck at the Japanese war effort.

Time to Consider.

ON the other side of the balance sheet, Currie is described as agreeing with virtually all the other Far Eastern experts, that the only present danger to China is a flank attack on Singapore, after which supplies going over the Burma road could be shut off at the road's mouth. The reinforcement of Singapore is now known to have been substantial, however, amounting to at least 20,000 men. The Netherlands Indies also are increasing their armed strength, and really effective preparations have been made to destroy their oil wells in case of Japanese attack. The Japanese, with not much more than five divisions on Hainan Island and in North Indo-China for their Malayan adventure, have a hard job ahead. According to the best informed men here, the conservatives in the Japanese navy have beaten the daredevils after a hard policy tussle, and the adventure has been put off pending the outcome of the spring and summer fighting in Europe. Thus there is a little time to consider the decision on Far Eastern policy which Currie's report calls for.

SEALSKIN PRICES UP 30-56 PCT. AT AUCTION

The 33,000 Alaskan sealskins had 776 blue fox pelts auctioned yesterday for the Federal Government by the Fouke Fur Co., Fourth and Market streets, were sold for a total of $996,182 at prices from 30 to 56 per cent above those at the previous semi-annual sale last September. More than 100 representatives of American coat manufacturers competed for the limited supply of skins.

Philip B. Fouke, president of the auction and fur-processing company, said the supply of seal at yesterday's auction was the greatest available at one time to the market in 40 years. "Even so," he said, "it was insufficient, enough maybe for 10,000 coats, very few for America's population."

In normal times, Fouke said, from 10 to 15 per cent of the available furs went to foreign buyers, but even with the stoppage of this demand, there are not now enough skins to supply the United States. "We could have disposed of 50,000," he said.

The supply of pelts is strictly limited by the United States' conservation program, which, under the terms of a treaty with Japan, Russia, Great Britain and Canada, reserves to the Federal Government a monopoly in taking seals from the Pribilof Islands off the Alaskan coast. Canada and Japan each receive 15 per cent of the proceeds of fur sales.

Average prices for the three color varieties yesterday were: Black, $26.91, up 30 per cent; matara brown, $31.98, up 56 per cent, and safari brown, $29.10, up 36 per cent. Blue fox skins sold at an average price of $15.07, an increase of 37 per cent.

Furriers at the auction contributed about $2000 to purchase an ambulance for Britain. They also sent a cable of good wishes to the British Fur Trade Association, London.

ONLY 2 OR 3 OF 12 CRIME CODE BILLS LIKELY TO PASS

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—The major part of the legislative program for revision of Missouri's obsolete criminal code, sponsored by Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis and supported by the State Bar Association, is apparently headed for defeat this session.

Supporters of 12 pending criminal code reform bills assert that not more than two or three of the bills have any chance for passage. The measures that might pass despite the opposition of the lawyer-legislator bloc, which has prevented revision of the code in previous sessions, would make only minor changes, they said.

A hearing on six of the pending bills, four of them sponsored by Hennings, was held last night by a none too receptive Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, which took no action on the measures. The House Committee on Civil and Criminal Procedure, which also met last night, delayed action on six other criminal code reform measures, which it has had under consideration for several weeks.

Committee Hearings.

Hennings, First Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry G. Morris and Arthur J. Freund of St. Louis, chairman of the Committee on Crimes and Criminology of the State Bar Association, appeared before the Senate committee in support of the bills and were questioned extensively.

Most outspoken committee opposition was directed against a bill sponsored by the bar committee and not by Hennings, which would give the Supreme Court the right to promulgate rules and regulations on criminal case procedure, which would supersede present statutory rules and empower the Legislature to veto any rule proposed by the court. Most legislators are opposed to this proposal as an attempt to have the Legislature surrender its law-making power to the courts.

Freund Speaks for Bill.

In advocating passage of the measure, Freund declared it was the most important of the pending code reform bills. He asserted it was impossible for the Legislature to study the matter at this session and that the revision could best be done under the direction of the Supreme Court.

Senator Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon sharply questioned Freund as to the need for revising the code, and Freund responded by suggesting numerous changes, most of them covered in the bills sponsored by Hennings.

Hennings attempted to save his bills from becoming involved with the highly controversial court rule-making proposal. He told the Senate committee he regarded his proposals equally as important as the bar committee's proposal, and expressed the hope that no prejudice would attach to his bills because of any opinion on the other matter.

CITY BUYS 12 NEW POLICE CARS WITH TWO-WAY RADIOS

Emergency Transmitter Also Purchased—Call System Revised.

Twelve new police scout cars with two-way radios and an emergency power unit for the police radio transmitter, KGPC, have been purchased, Chief of Police John H. Glassco announced today. A new system of call numbers for scout cars also has been developed.

When the new cars are placed in service, 10 districts will have two two-way radio cars instead of one, and the Hampton avenue and Ruskin districts each will have three two-way radio cars instead of two. The new power unit was purchased for use in event Union Electric current fails.

By the new system of call numbers, each car has two or three digit call numbers instead of the car number and district number heretofore used. The first digits will represent the district number and the last digit the car number, thus car No. 5 in District 1, will be known as No. 15. The Central District cars have been assigned figure eight as district number.

STATE SENATE VOTES TO END AUTO LOAN FEE

Bill Would Strike Out $1 Investigation and $20 "Hazard" Charges.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—A bill striking out heavy charges imposed by loan companies on borrowers of money on second-hand automobiles was passed by the Senate today and will go to the House for consideration.

The Senate voted to remove from the law a provision under which companies have been permitted to charge a $1 investigation fee on each loan, and an additional $20 "extra hazard" charge for loans on automobiles which may be surrendered in full settlement of the loans.

Senator William M. Quinn of Maywood, author of the bill, said that many loan companies had been guilty of gross abuses, and that it was customary in the business to make the loan for only two-week periods, and then charge the investigation fee for each renewal of the loan.

The 8 per cent interest rate remains in the law. Through a system of discounting notes, Senator Quinn said, the companies could still actually receive about 16 per cent interest.

All banks in Missouri would be required annually to furnish local assessors with certified lists of their depositors and the amount of each deposit, for purposes of tax assessments against the owners of the deposits, under a bill introduced in the House today by Representative J. Arthur Francis, Democrat, of Iron County.

The bill also would require banks to obtain certified lists from holders of safe deposit boxes of all assessable personal property held in their boxes, and to furnish these lists to the local assessors.

TRUMAN APPEALS TO PUBLIC TO AID DEFENSE INQUIRY

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Over a nation-wide radio hookup, Senator Truman of Missouri, chairman of the Senate committee to investigate the national defense program, appealed last night for voluntary information about racketeering and profiteering on Government work and contracts.

Formal hearings by the committee will start April 7, when leading defense officials will testify about the organizational machinery and how it operates.

"When we have that picture clearly before us," Truman said, "we shall go into whatever details that seem to us to need adjusting. Any citizen who has information of irregularities based on facts, where the Government's interest has been violated, should inform the special Senate Committee on National Defense. The committee's address is the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Truman did not disclose specific instances of the types of contracts and operations to be investigated but merely announced committee policy.

"If your men are being drafted for training and are forced to go to prepare against a real emergency," he said, "then the gentlemen who are acting for the Government must be made to be extremely careful in their handling of the preparations, the camps and whatever else these young men need. There should be no profiteers. . . .

"When people create delay for profit, when they sell poor products for defense use, when they cheat on price and quality, they aren't any different from a draft dodger and the public at large feels just that way about it."

Pointing out that the committee is bi-partisan, he declared the investigation would be without prejudice or bias.

"There will be no attempt to muckrake," he said.

One of the subjects Truman personally wants investigated is the concentration of big contracts in the hands of large Eastern manufacturers. He asserted that fewer than 120 contractors had received more than 80 per cent of some 11 billion dollars in contracts.

"We want to know if the job is being done with a minimum dislocation of the normal economic structure of the country," Truman said. "Is the little manufacturer, the machine shop, the little merchant, being squeezed out in the name of national defense? Is economic power being further concentrated in a few hands? Are the big fellows being made bigger and more powerful at the expense of a democratic economy?"

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—A few rails and specialties exhibited rallying inclinations in today's stock market while many leaders were creeping over an irregular route.

Slightly mixed trends prevailed at the start and, except for scattered favorites, direction sign-posts were notably obscure at the close. Low-priced utilities accounted for a sizeable slice of the day's volume of 447,130 shares.

The majority of these power company stocks were about where they finished Monday or a shade in arrears and at or near their low levels for the year or longer. Commonwealth & Southern opened on a 10,000-share block, unchanged at ½, eventually sold at ⅜.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

A few rails and utilities were the favorites toward the final hour, with most other classifications fairly steady.

Even the over-the-counter market in U. S. Governments was slow, brokers reporting only a fraction of their usual business. In this market, prices of all classifications held about unchanged.

The new 11-to-13-year 2½s continued at 101 15-32 although the issue was more than 12 times oversubscribed. The Government fixed allotments to subscribers at 8 per cent of the amounts requested.

Among the better gainers at the close were Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 49, Southern Pacific 4½s of '69 at 48½, Warren Brothers 6s at 57, Nickel Plate 4½s at 61½ and Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62 at 25.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Expansion of business loans of banks extended into the twenty-fifth consecutive week under the stimulus of the defense program.

The Federal Reserve Board said that banks in 101 leading cities increased their "commercial, industrial and agricultural" loans $40,000,000 to a total of $5,414,000,-000 in the week ended March 19. This figure was $1,035,000,000 larger than a year ago.

Best gains were $14,000,000 in the Boston district and $11,000,000 in the Chicago district.

DIVIDEND DISBURSEMENTS

PHILADELPHIA, March 25 (AP).—The Norfolk & Western Railway Co. declared today a quarterly dividend of $1 per share upon the adjustment preferred stock, payable May 19 to stockholders of record April 30.

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—Wilson & Co., Inc., a Delaware corporation, declared a dividend of $1.50 a share on the $6 preferred stock to apply on accumulation for the period from Feb. 1, 1940, to April 30, 1940. It is payable May 1, 1941, to stock of record April 15 and reduces the arrearage on May 1, 1941, to $6.

Detroit-Edison Stock Split-Up.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Stockholders of Detroit Edison Co. at a special meeting approved a five-for-one split-up of the company's stock, involving a chance to $20 par from $100.

Alfred C. Marshall, president, explained the split-up was to encourage ownership by more stockholders, particularly in Michigan.

FARM AID MEASURE BOOSTS WHEAT PRICES

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—Farm aid measures, mill buying and short covering again lifted the wheat market today and in the final hour prices shot up more than a cent a bushel for the May delivery. Advances in the new crop contracts were about one-half as much. All deliveries of wheat and corn closed at or near the day's peak.

Action of the Senate agricultural committee in favorably reporting the Bankhead bill, which would guarantee producers 100 per cent of parity on the major crops presumably led shorts to cover their commitments. The committee also was reported to have adopted several amendments increasing the penalties on wheat and corn sold in excess of marketing quotas. Some traders said the committee action was discounted because the administration has indicated that it did not favor the Bankhead measure.

Wheat finished ¼@1¼c higher than Monday's final quotations; corn was up ¼@⅜c; and oats advanced ⅜@½c.

Lard prices dropped as much as 10 cents after the selloff in the cottonseed oil market. Soybeans failed to top yesterday's high largely on profit taking sales.

Market observers attributed the recent upturn to small but persistent buying by investors, commercial interests, millers and previous short sellers, and also to reports of crop damage in the Southwest.

The Russo-Turk pact was considered by many as definitely favorable to the British cause, although it created a critical situation in the Balkans in view of Yugoslavia's adherence to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 25.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was 1c higher and corn unchanged.

COMMODITIES

Recent high-flyers in commodity markets settled down coincident with reports Federal officials were watching closely price trends that might upset defense production plans.

Domestic sugar at New York declined .02 to .03 of a cent a pound in futures trade after hitting peak prices since late 1939 on Monday. The market evidently considered a possible further increase in quotas, or the use of larger amounts of sugar grown in the United States, as a deterrent to a sustained rise.

Coffee, also at around the best prices in months yesterday, dropped as much as ¼ cent a pound. Dealers said the decline was largely a result of profit taking after a too fast rise.

Silk, cocoa and tin also receded. All have been favored in past weeks because of the possibility of ship shortages and increased freight rates.

Wheat at Chicago responded to, among other things, the favorable report of the Senate Agricultural Committee on the Bankhead bill with gains of ¼ to 1¼ cents a bushel. Corn rose ¼ to ⅝ of a cent.

The New York cotton market, however, was a little less bullish on the committee approval because of the belief the administration disapproved of the measure. The Bankhead proposal would assure producers of major crops a return of 100 per cent of parity. Cotton closed 10 cents a bale higher to 10 lower.

Other staples higher included lead, cottonseed oil, wool tops, world sugar and rubber. Uneven were hides and copper.

TEACHERS WARNED AGAINST CYNICISM OF NAZI SYSTEM

Df. A. L. Sachar Assails Defeatist Philosophy Before Midwest Education Conference.

Teachers must set up psychological defenses against European outlooks on life that belie the heritage of Western civilization, Dr. A. L. Sachar, director of the Hillel Foundation at the University of Illinois, told the opening session of the fourteenth annual Midwest Education Conference at Washington University yesterday.

The first of these outlooks Dr. Sachar listed as: "The deadly cynicism which has grown up everywhere in Europe with reference to the worthwhileness of life itself. It takes for granted that man personally has no significance, that this is a vast quantitative world in which qualitative values are alien. . . . This is the defeatist philosophy of a Spengler, the dour old Nazi mentor, the intellectual spearhead of Caesarism. Some of this cynicism is seeping into our own country, corroding the ethical idealism of our youth."

"The second menace from abroad," he continued, "is the unqualified admiration for the technique of direct action. It comes from a disillusionment with the law as an instrument to accomplish social change."

Disillusionment with democratic practice had swept the continents and now threatened to engulf America, he said. Anne Morrow Lindbergh highlights her own "terrifying disillusionment" in her book, "The Wave of the Future."

Democracy that combines liberty and security he defined as "the wave of the future, even as the technical efficiency of the brutalitarian states is really the wave of the past."

The third and last menace from abroad Dr. Sachar listed as "a new terrifying faith in the glory of war, a kind of idolatry of the reckless military hero who plays dice with lives and damns the consequences."

"We must meet the cynicism from abroad," he concluded, "with renewed faith in the sanctity of personality, the disillusionment from abroad with renewed faith in the dynamic quality of our own way; the belligerency from abroad by renewed faith in the creativity of peace."

About 300 teachers from St. Louis and nearby communities attended the meeting, over which Charles A. Lee, Washington University professor of education, presided. The next meeting of the convention will be held at Soldan High School at 4 p. m. Friday, when William H. Kilpatrick, professor emeritus of education at Columbia University, will speak.

WILLKIE SAYS PEACE MUST BE WRITTEN IN SPIRIT OF MUTUAL AID

riers and obstructions. And each must work to end within itself its political, economic and social maladjustments.

"Thus we can, if we will, create a world in which the standard of living of all men who work will rise; in which the urge of enterprise will bear its rich and ripening fruit to be more equitably enjoyed by all. We have the opportunity of the ages. Canada, England and the United States are today of one purpose. May we remain joined tomorrow for this nobler purpose."

WILLKIE CALLS FOR UNITY AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, March 25 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie declared today the democracies can make the totalitarian states "look like toy manufacturers" if they get together on war production.

Willkie told political, business and labor leaders in a speech at Montreal's Canadian club that they must get together "if we are to throw back the menace" and warned them they would be "brushed aside by the people" if they didn't.

"This is just a job that's got to be done," Willkie said, and predicted that United States plane production would be at "full tilt" by the spring of 1942. The outcome of the war depends on keeping Britain's sea lanes open and getting those planes to England, he said.

Willkie expressed conviction in an interview here that the United States should send destroyers and "every available ship bottom that we can spare."

Asked by reporters if he believed the United States navy could spare destroyers, the 1940 Republican presidential candidate replied "I wouldn't have said that if I didn't believe we have the available destroyers."

Employes of the Weil-Kalter Manufacturing Co., 1408 Locust street, chose the AFL International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to represent them in collective bargaining at an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board today, Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, the board's regional director, announced. The vote was 53 to 31.

In an NLRB election yesterday employes of the International Shoe Co. plant in Olney, Ill., rejected by a vote of 438 to 365, a proposal to have the AFL Boot and Shoe Workers' Union represent them.

NEWSPAPER STUFF: Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, thinks newspapers should take responsibility for the opinions they print. He is against "personal journalism," he told a publishers' meeting, as practiced by Lippmann, Alsop and D. Thompson. It's easy for Editor Agar to say so. He's boss of the sheet, and his editorials—all superb — are part of the policy he himself sets. But he's a queer one to belittle personal journalism. The Courier-Journal was the home of one of the greatest opinion-staters of them all—Massa Henry Watterson! . . . Meet Jane Doe-pe! Gracie Allen got into a cab in front of her house and gave the driver the address she was leaving. "That's where you are!" he said. "Oh," she replied vaguely, "then maybe you'd better take me back." . . . Max Mefoofsky and a friend stopped in front of a Fourteenth street theater where two headliners were advertised (Molly Picon and the Four Mills Brothers), beside a line of 16 chorus girls, a name band, double feature movies and screeno—all for 15 cents. "Let's go in," said his pal. "Not so fast," hesitated Max. "I like Molly and the Mills boys. I am crazy for stage shows and pretty girls. Swing is for me, and I would ulzo enjoy two movies. But I never win!"

It's about the anti-Fascist in Italy who was sentenced to death, but was given his choice of execution. He elected to be shot by an Italian anti-aircraft battalion. And so he was hoisted to a high pole and shot at. When a fortnight had elapsed he was taken down—having died of pneumonia. . . . The other day Jack Gilford of "Meet the People" dined with Bess Johnson, the radio actress. They gabbed about the best way to deliver lines. Jack is an advocate of "The Throw-Away School"—Bess prefers to "punch" her stuff. To settle it, Jack invited her to see "Meet the People" to demonstrate what he meant, but the night she was there he was home ill. Bill Hardy overheard a union delegate approach a picketing stagehand in front of a Forty-fourth Street theater with an invitation to attend a labor meeting the next afternoon. # Comedians Improve With Age

So Says Bert Lahr, Who Is Glad He's No Glamor-Boy Actor

By Clarissa Start

"COMEDIANS get better with age—they're very fortunate that way," Bert Lahr pointde out. "The glamor boy has only so many years to go, but almost every great comedian in the country is over 45 years old. Look at Charlie Chaplin, Bill Fields, Ed Wynn, Victor Moore, Hugh Herbert, Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson"——

To that stellar list he might have added the name of Bert Lahr, for Lahr, after 30 years in show business, is still going strong. His current show, "Du Barry Was a Lady," now in action at the American Theater, has been running 76 weeks—and is considered one of his best shows in a string of hits. It is his tenth musical, and he has the unique distinction of having never appeared in a flop show. He was a star in vaudeville before he went into musicals, has been in movie successes—such as "The Wizard of Oz"—and yet with all this background he just barely makes the list of "distinguished comedians over 45," as he's only on the brink of 46.

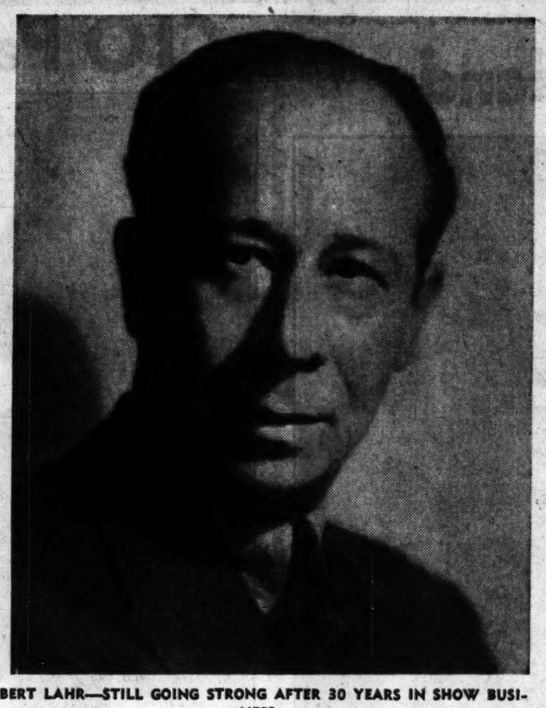

"I was very young when I went into show business," he explained, "and for that reason most people think I'm closer to 55. I've had men older than I am come up to me and say, 'I remember seeing you when I was just a young fellow.' That's quite possible, because I was starring in burlesque when I was 17, and what with the putty noses and wigs we wore, I probably looked older.

"I got into show business entirely by chance. When I was a kid in New York, there was a boy in our neighborhood who dabbled around the theaters. I was always stage struck, and I could sing a little, so one day he asked me if I'd like to join a schoolroom act he was getting up. We never got paid for our act, but I got the 'bug,' and stuck with it.

"I started in burlesque at $35 a week and ended up at $115, which was big money then, but it wasn't the money so much as the experience and background that made it valuable. Burlesque was a great school for comedians then. It was a lot different than it is now. We weren't even allowed to say 'hell' or 'damn.'

"From burlesque I went into vaudeville. I remember playing here in St. Louis 15 years ago. I played at the Orpheum Theater and then later at the St. Louis. I did an act called Lahr and Mercedes, in which I was a cop—a policeman.

"The first musical show I did was called Delmar's Revels, with Winnie Lightner, Frank Fay and Patsy Kelly. The show wasn't a big succuess, but I got a job out of it, in 'Hold Everything.' That was my first hit show, and from then on I just kept going."

BERT LAHR—STILL GOING STRONG AFTER 30 YEARS IN SHOW BUSINESS.

The Lahr lunacy, including that famous "Ung-gung-ung" noise which is Bert's specialty, took a hold on showgoers in such hits as "Flying High," "Hot Cha," "Life Begins at 8:40," and plenty of others. In "Du Barry," the story of a night-club attendant who inadvertently drinks a Mickey Finn he fixed for his rival, and dreams he is Louis XV, offers a particularly good scope. Among other transitions, he changes from a Brooklyn accent to a French one, which he delivers, as one reviewer pointed out, through his "sub-Bourbon nose." Lahr loves it, all but the elaborately ruffled and lace-edged costumes.

"They're a little bit feminine," he laughed, "and I keep tearing 'em. But this is nothing compared to that heavily paddec costume I had to wear as the lion in 'The Wizard of Oz.' It took me an hour and a half to get into it, and then for technicolor they have to use 10 times the amount of light they use in other pictures, so we had 90 arc lights beating down on us. And I was working on the picture 26 weeks; it was really tough."

Quiet-spoken and serious in conversation, Lahr carries on the unbroken tradition that comedians don't cut capers off stage, but he has some definite ideas about how they should act on stage.

"A comedian should never be smart alecky," he said. "He should be a humble sort of fellow with a certain sympathy. Then, too, I don't think a comedian should play above his audience; he should always play beneath them. But the most essential quality of all is that he must have charm. By that I mean charm on the stage, and I don't mean a sophisticated charm, but just a likable personality."

There's more to Lahr's theatrical code than those fundamentals. Of the old school of conscientious performers, it's one of Lahr's proudest boasts that he's never missed a performance, not once in 30 years. He was hurt during the run of "Life Begins at 8:40," but they carried him on the stage and he went through his two important scenes anyway.

"They don't give medals for something like that," another theater man commented, "but people in a show business have a word for fellows like Bert Lahr. The word is 'Trouper.'"

Aching Feet Sign Spring Has Arrived

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

ONE of the signs of spring, along with spring fever, is that the feet begin to hurt. This is a perfectly natural phenomenon due to the sudden changes of temperatures that occur through the winter, the exposure of the feet to wet and cold, and the small traumatisms that occur from slipping and sliding around on the ice and sleet.

A Canadian physician, Dr. C. C. Ross, has classified the causes of painful feet in a recent article, very interestingly:

Corns develop as a result of pressure and friction over a small area. If the pressure and friction is exerted over a larger area, callosities are produced. The cause of corns is primarily badly fitting shoes and the traumatisms and temperature changes which I mentioned above. The corns may persist after the badly fitting shoe has been discarded.

Treatment of most corns is, therefore, to get rid of bad shoes and make an application of corn paint twice daily until the corn disappears. An effective corn paint is: acetic acid—1 dram; salicylic acid—50 grains; flexile collodion to make one ounce.

The choice of treatment depends upon the type and degree of flatness. Mild types are often the result of weakness of the muscles occurring after an illness and standing too soon without proper shoe support. Simple methods correct this condition. Strapping of flat feet, with the help of corrective shoes, is satisfactory treatment.

★ ★ ★

EXERCISES TO strengthen the feet consist of rising on the toes and coming down on the outer sides of the feet, rotating the toe in a counter-clockwise direction with the knees crossed, or stroking the foot up and down the shin bone.

Hallux valgus, or hammertoe, is a very common cause of painful feet, which usually needs surgery for its correction.

Rigid toe is caused by arthritis of the toe joint and may be very painful in the late winter and spring months. Treatment consists in the application of heat, contrast—hot water and cold water—baths.

Painful heels are usually due to small bony spurs or to an inflamed bursa near bony spurs. Many of them can be corrected by rest and properly fitting shoes. Occasionally the inflamed bursa must be removed surgically.

Chilblain may be prevented by giving proper attention to the warm covering of the foot in winter and by care in thawing out frozen or nearly frozen feet.

THE BRIDE LEARNS TO COOK

WONDER COOKIES CAN BE MADE IN A HURRY.

HERE is a wonder cooky that you can make in a hurry and vary in several ways. Add nuts, chopped raisins, chocolate chips or coconut to the basic dough, pinch off little bunches, place them on a cooky sheet and press them flat with a flat-bottomed glass over which a dampened cloth is stretched. Dip the glass in cold water occasionally and pat on a towel to prevent sticking.

To make the cookies, cream one cup of shortening with two-thirds cup of sugar until the mixture is light and fluffy. Add two eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla. Sift flour once, measure two and one-half cups, add one-half teaspoon of salt and sift again.

Add to the creamed mixture, blending only until smooth. Drop dough from a spoon or pinch off portions the size of a walnut, then flatten with a glass. If you like, chill the dough, roll out one-eighth inch thick on a lightly floured board and cut with cooky cutter.

Cry for Help -o- By Angelo Pa

"I don't care."

"What's that? You don't care? I'll make you care. Take another zero."

One day a small boy in the upper grades of Mr. Grady's school made a mistake and his teacher gave him zero. He, like this other child, said, "I don't care." "Take another zero," said the teacher. "I don't care if you give me a thousand zeros," screamed the hysterical youngster.

"All right. Take the thousand zeros," said the teacher imperturbably. That was too much for the excited child and he ran to Mr. Grady's office crying, "Save me, save me, Mr. Grady."

Mr. Grady gathered him up in his arms and said, "Take it easy, son. What's going to happen to you?"

"She gave me a thousand failures, Mr. Grady. A thousand failures. What will I ever do?"

"Nothing."

"Right. How much is one thousand times zero?"

"Nothing. Naught."

"Right again. I told you that you were smart. A thousand zeros are nothing. Now you wash your face and go home to your lunch and I'll attend to the rest."

But you see the little boy cared. Cared a lot. They all do. That defiant cry, "I don't care," is a despairing cry that calls for comfort and strengthening help. Don't bother marking it zero because zero is nothing and it can have no relationship to a failing child at school or at home.

Punishment does not help him at all. Just don't bother with him. Put the time and energy on the effort to discover what is making this child fail, what force is at work in his life to destroy his hope and courage to the place where he gives up completely.

Often he is tired out. He has been too long on a job that is hard for him. Take him off it and help him do something that is easy for him until he forgets his trouble. Then lead him back by another road so that he does not feel he is back where he left off but that he is standing on other ground facing something he can really do.

No child in good shape physically and mentally cries out that he does not care. That cry is a signal for help, and any teacher worthy of the name will respond to it immediately—not with a thousand zeros, but with a thousand good wishes, tons of good will, armfuls of comfort and handfuls of strength.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE S-121: Melvin T., aged 24, is a slender, anemic looking fellow.

"I have been reading some literature about nudist camps," he began our interview. "Their arguments sound logical to me. After all, if a little natural sunlight is healthful, then why not expose the entire body and get big doses of sunshine? Clothing is not a good idea for it deprives the skin of the benefits of sunlight and air. Don't you think it would be a good idea for me to join such a colony, Dr. Crane?"

★ ★ ★

DIAGNOSIS: We have fads in medicine as well as in women's hats. Even we physicians get taken in occasionally by some widely heralded new drug which is reported to be effective on every kind of ailment from measles to pneumonia, or tonsilitis to hemorrhoids. After five or 10 years of eager trial of the new medicine, we often find it reasonably effective in some diseases, but learn that much of its early magic was due to suggestibility of the patient under the care of a positive, almost hypnotic physician who also believed the drug would work miracles. In recent years we have gone loco over sunlight. People burn themselves cruelly on the beaches in order to get an all-over tan. It is not always logical to argue that if a small quantity of a substance is beneficial, then big doses of it will be all the more helpful. Small doses of arsenic and strychnine are an aid in many ailments, too, but large doses will quickly take you out of the doctor's hands and put you in custody of the undertaker.

★ ★ ★

SUNLIGHT IS beneficial in reasonable amounts, but the tan of your skin is actually nature's way of protecting itself against sunlight and reducing the amount of ultraviolet rays which penetrate. A tan, therefore, is nature's way of putting clothes back on your skin to protect you. Nudists, therefore, are simply substituting a brown type of skin clothing for cotton or wool, silk or rayon. This nation is full of gullible hypochondriacs who will try any patent remedy or highly touted treatment in a perpetual quest to get good health. Many of them are normally healthy to begin with but are scared. If they'd develop more courage and use a little horse sense, they'd soon realize that the human race has come down to the present without drugs or even scientific physician. I'm not opposed to drugs or organic medicine, for I use them when indicated. But cowardice and lack of common sense are wasting millions of dollars each year on the part of these people who "enjoy poor health" and constantly worry about their "innards."

FOWLS AND ANIMALS were created with feathers and fur to protect the body against too much sunlight as well as cold. We were born with smooth skins because God figured if he put a brain above our eyes, we'd have enough sense to manufacture our own substitutes for feathers and fur. He thus gives us unlimited variety and versatility in our apparel. He lets us improve on nature. But we are a disgrace to our species when we park our brains and let silly whims of politics or fashions stampede us like sheep and cattle.

IF the family seems to tire of stewed rhubarb during the early spring months when it is practically the only fresh fruit available, don't be discouraged, for there are many other ways of using it. One solution, especially suitable for special occasions, is to give the sauce an extra dose of sugar, making it really sweet, and then use it as an ice cream or pudding sauce. Another one, rhubarb upside-down cake, appears below, and you will find it looks as good as it tastes, and vice versa.

Rhubarb Upside-Down Cake

Three cups rhubarb cut in one-half inch dice, one and one-half cups granulated sugar, one and two-thirds cups all-purpose flour, one-half teaspoon salt, three teaspoons baking powder, one-third cup shortening, two eggs, beaten, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Mix rhubarb with three-fourths cup of the sugar and spread in the bottom of a buttered nine-inch skillet. Sift flour, measure and resift three times with baking powder and salt. Cream the one-third cup shortening until soft, add the remaining three-fourths cup sugar and the eggs, and beat vigorously until smooth and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and milk alternately, beginning and ending with flour and beating well after each addition. Stir in vanilla. Turn batter into skillet over rhubarb and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35-40 minutes, or until center of cake is springy when lightly pressed with fingertips. Cool in pan set on cake rack about 10 minutes, then turn out onto a serving plate. Serve warm with top milk. Serves four to six.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A married woman in my late twenties and have a daughter, aged 7, and a comfortable home, considering the wages my husband makes. He is good to me, but there is something I don't understand. When he gets home evenings, he goes straight to the attic and stays till I call him for supper. As soon as he has supper, he reads the paper and goes to the attic right away again. He does this day in and day out, including Saturday afternoons and Sundays. He never will go to church with me, and now that Lent is here and we have services on Thursday evenings, he says I may go only if I ride the street car, and I prefer to walk, for the exercise. If I do walk, he cross-examines me on my return as to whether or not I walked or talked with any men. He is able-bodied and quite able to chaperon me to and fro. He has nice clothes. I can't imagine what's wrong. He won't even go for a walk Sundays; just seems to have no craving for companionship whatsoever, prefers to go, wherever he does go, alone. I am becoming unbearably lonely—especially when I see other couples go about together and have such good times. When I go out alone there is always some man who will be attentive to me, and sometimes, although I am a married woman, I find it very difficult to resist temptation, for loneliness can do strange things. Please suggest some way I can get into a closer relationship with my husband. BLUE.

Is your husband, by any chance, writing a best seller, or inventing some wonderful new gadget, that he must remain aloof for hours on end and leave his wife and child without the pleasure of his company? If he is doing either of these things, he might be excused, for geniuses need to be alone to concentrate and work out their great ideas. But if your husband is just an everyday man like most men, he is decidedly not acting in a normal manner, for the normal husband and father returns home full of the news of the day, glad for someone to talk things over with, happy in the love of his wife and children. Since this habit of solitude is growing on your husband, you had better try to do something about it promptly. Have a heart-to-heart talk with him. Point out that to you and to his child he is fast becoming a stranger, that he owes it to himself and to his family to keep close to them and in sympathy with their daily lives. That in shutting himself away from all companionship, he is cutting you and his daughter off from all social life. That you love him and need his companionship, and need his help with your growing child; that you understand anyone's desire for quiet, but that you feel he is carrying it to extremes; that you are proud of him and want to be seen with him at church and among your friends; that he owes it to you, to your daughter and to himself to lead a more normal life. If this has no result, then speak to your doctor. It may take a doctor to get your husband back to everyday living and a more sympathetic viewpoint, but whatever you have to go through to gain the desired result, you owe it to both of you to make every effort possible. As to the temptations—you will put them behind you, I know, for the sake of your husband and child. Every attractive woman comes in for a certain amount of attention, which she must not allow to turn her head.

Corsage Problem

By Emily Post

MEN and boys, please listen! There is much complaint these days in my letters about you on the subject of flowers—not about those you don't send to your girl friends, but about those you do. This may sound ungrateful of the girls, but read on to see whether you are guilty of causing anything so distressing as the situation described by one mother: "I've no doubt men and boys mean well, but won't you please write something to them about the thoughtless way they have of sending girls corsages to wear with their evening dresses without finding out first what color dress the girl is wearing? My daughter has had this happen to her several times in the past year, and it always causes so much commotion around the house, when she has to wear an old dress again instead of her new one, that she leaves the family as completely upset as she is herself. Last night she was in tears because she had to wear an old dress for the sixth time so she could wear the flowers, and for the sixth time hang her lovely new orange-colored one back in the closet! All because he will send pink roses."

EMILY POST

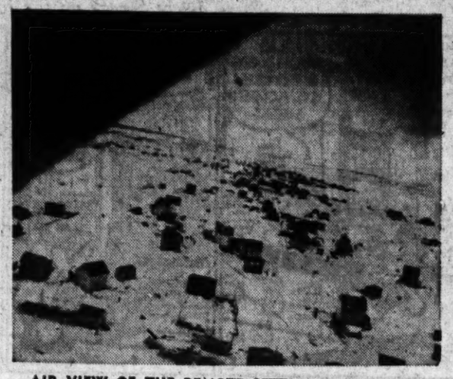

Therefore, men and boys, if you are thinking of sending a girl flowers to wear when she is going out with you, won't you please ask her first what color she is going to wear—or, better still, ask her what flowers would look best on the dress she is wearing? If you can't find out, then under most circumstances gardenias are safe—unless she is one of the very few who dislike their odor.

DEAR MRS. POST: My father is going to marry me in his own church. There will be no other minister to assist. May father walk in with me and then take his place and proceed with the ceremony? And would he walk in in his vestments or put them on after he reaches the front of the church? Don't tell me to ask father, because he told me to ask you.

Answer: I could name several weddings at which the clergyman who was the bride's father walked up the aisle with his daughter—the groom and his best man having meanwhile walked in from the vestry alone. Usually, however, he stands waiting for his daughter and her brother—or other near man relative—who walks up the aisle with her and then takes his place in one of the front pews and stays there. If your father does walk with you, he, of course, wears his vestments—since he at once takes his place facing the congregation and begins the ceremony.

TRAGEDY IN THE FROZEN NORTH

Pilot's Own Story of His Four-Day Struggle for Life in the Wilds of Newfoundland Following Plane Crash That Brought Death to Sir Frederick Banting, Noted Scientist.

By Capt. Joseph C. Mackey

Sir Frederick Banting, whose co-discovery of insulin made him one of the great benefactors of mankind, was killed with two other men in the crash of a military plane in the frozen wastes of Newfoundland on Feb. 21. The only survivor was the American pilot, Capt. Joseph C. Mackey. Following is the first of three articles in which the pilot tells of the crash and his own struggle to keep alive in a wilderness of snow until rescued four day later:

MILITARY control makes it impossible for me to reveal many details of the story leading up to the crash. It is sufficient to say that I was flying an airplane to Britain; that my navigator was Flying Officer William Bird of the Royal Air Force, with whom I had no previous experience; my radio operator was William Snailham, with whom I was well acquainted; and that I was instructed to take aboard as passenger Sir Frederick Banting, whom I knew of as a famous Canadian scientist and discoverer of insulin.

I had no opportunity to make the acquaintance of Sir Frederick. In the preparation of my ship for the trans-Atlantic flight, I was introduced to him and he boarded the plane. Within a very little while, he and I were alone in a desperate situation in which he was to die and I was to survive.

I shall set down the story in simple detail, but it should be said at the outset that while Sir Frederick lived for about 16 to 20 hours after the crash he did not consciously suffer from his injuries. When I found him he was unconscious. He regained consciousness and lost it from time to time. But at no time during his apparently conscious moments was he really aware of his plight.

I think he was rendered delirious by his head injuries. I cannot figure out where he thought he was. But such was his force and energy that he spoke and acted throughout these periods of apparent consciousness as though he were a military officer on duty, or perhaps a professor in a clinic. He commanded me to take down his dictation.

Throughout the first night of our crash and all through the first morning, Sir Frederick roused himself time after time and in what seemed a perfectly lucid condition dictated rapidly letters, memoranda and statements, every one of which was to me merely streams of wholly unintelligible technical medical phraseology which I, due to my own condition, could not possibly take down.

It may well be that scientific and medical information of the most priceless character was lost in these hours. It may have been the struggle of a great mind to fight against death in a race to record his last thoughts. But at no time did Sir Frederick show the slightest recognition of the fact that he was gravely injured in a plane crash. Not once did he give any sign that he recognized in me the pilot of the plane.

The best I could do was to help him sit up when he woke to action and persuade him to rest and relax when I saw his condition was critical. I remained almost constantly with him through the night and the first morning. About noon, I set off on a first and futile search of the neighborhood. When I returned late in the afternoon, Sir Frederick was dead.

Very shortly after taking off and heading out to sea, I discovered that it would be necessary for us to return. My first act was to jettison our main fuel cargo, and I informed my three companions in the rear compartments of the plane of my intention to return. I asked them to throw overboard all the baggage and every item they could find that would reduce our weight for the possibly powerless return flight to land.

It was dark and snowing. By the time I had reached what I was certain to be land, I instructed Snailham, who was in the radio compartment immediately behind me, to order the others to bail out. Snailham and I had been working together for some time, and I knew he was thoroughly familiar with the situation and how to meet it.

It never occurred to me to think that they would not bail out. I felt what I thought to be a definite change of balance in the ship, and assumed that they had gone. I then devoted my attention to making the best possible landing entirely by instrument, as of course I was unable to see the ground at any time. I gambled that as half of the surface of Newfoundland was frozen lake, I might have the luck to strike one of them.

In actual fact, my wing struck the one large tree in that whole area of Newfoundland. I came within a few feet of making a safe landing. I do not recollect anything whatever of the crash. My first memory is feeling about my head. I woke to consciousness as you wake from sleep, wide awake, and I found that I had already tied my handkerchief around my head, which was bleeding profusely.

I then looked at my watch and realized it had been one hour since my last wholly conscious moment. All the cabin lights were still burning brightly. I sat in my seat for several minutes trying to collect my thoughts. A pleased feeling crept over me momentarily as the realization that I had been able to avert fire became complete.

As my head wound was bleeding profusely, I realized I must bandage myself and I reached for the first aid kit beside me. It was missing. I climbed from my seat to go back into the cabin. This was my first look backwards into the ship. And to my utter amazement and horror, a body was visible lying between the main cabin and the radio cabin.

Having given orders for them to jump by parachute and having imagined I felt a change of balance in the ship, I was certain I was alone in the final stages of the flight. I found that the body was that of Snailham. He was dead and had obviously been killed on impact. I went on back in the cabin, dreading what I might find. And I found Sir Frederick still alive but unconscious, with a severe head wound, his left arm broken and other injuries. I went on to the back of the cabin and found Flying Officer Bird also dead and presumably killed on impact.

I RETURNED to Sir Frederick and explored his injuries. They were severe. I got him into a sitting position, though it was difficult for me to move him because of my own damages, and I talked to him and finally roused him to semiconsciousness after about 15 minutes.

He was able to help me move him from the cabin floor into the bunk in the cabin, where I covered him with several folds of a silk parachute. I had no knife, but by tearing another parachute, by snagging it on a broken projection of the wrecked interior of the plane, I got enough silk to make a sling for his broken arm and a new bandage for my head.

I tried to inquire from Sir Frederick why they had not jumped, but at no time during the ensuing hours was I able to establish contact with Sir Frederick with regard to what had occurred. From the very outset, he struggled to set down or dictate technical and medical matters. I could not recall him to himself or our plight.

I made various excursions outside to look over the ground. It was cold. There was five feet of snow on the ground. We had struck a tree—the largest tree in sight on that desolate area, as I saw later—and by only a few feet I had missed a landing on a snow-covered lake that might have turned out differently.

I turned off the lights in the plane, all save one, and devoted myself to attending to Sir Frederick, since there was nothing else to do. Knowing by the nature of his injuries that he was in a critical state, even if help came with the morning, I tried to make him lie down and rest. But after a few minutes of rest, he would insist on rising to a sitting position again and commence once more his dictation.

His entire bearing and attitude was military. He seemed to feel he was carrying on at a post of duty. During every semiconscious period, his speech was thoroughly coherent, but on medical problems beyond my comprehension. At times, I went through the motions of writing down his words in order to quiet him.

When morning came, I went outside the plane and tried to figure what chances there were of our being spotted from the air, for I knew there would be planes searching for us. But it had been snowing and as we had crashed against the edge of the lake, our wreckage might not show up amidst the rocks and the bush.

After waiting until noon, I decided that Sir Frederick's condition was such that he could not survive if he did not have immediate medical attention. He had by this time become completely unconscious. I had no proper plan in mind. I was weak from shock and my injuries, but I thought I might explore the immediate neighborhood. I covered Sir Frederick well with coats, two of which had not been thrown overboard, and then I started out.

After going only about 20 yards, I realized it would be hopeless for me to try to go anywhere in the five-foot deep snow. The woods were thicketed and dense and full of little gullies. I had to stay in the open spaces.

The strongest of men could not wade through five-foot snow. I returned to the ship, took the map board and broke it in half by banging it on a rock. With friction tape, I rigged up a plausible imitation of snowshoes out of these two 18-inch square pieces of plywood, and bound them to my feet. I may say I wore out two of these sets of snowshoes in the next day or two.

The first exploration trip might very well have ended in complete disaster. I had no plan. I was weak from injury and shock. At the most, I do not think I traveled two miles from the plane. I set off for what I thought would be the seashore. Stumbling and floundering on the makeshift snowshoes, I grew terribly weary after a little while. I began to see mirages. I thought I could see houses. I even imagined I could see windows. But when I reached them, they were merely snow-covered trees and rocks.

It was in this wandering that I made a most important decision, which shows how in extremity the mind will craftily function even though we have little reason to expect anything of it. I was frequently falling down and it would be several minutes or even longer before I could summon energy or even will enough to get up. I came to what I believed was a river. I had to decide which way to go, to the right or to the left.

The wind was blowing strongly. So somehow, in that great confusion and mental fog, I worked it out this way. If I went with the wind, it would be easier. But if I went against the wind, it would be easier to come back. I chose to go into the wind. I sincerely believed that if I had not gone into the wind, I would not be here today to tell this story, for after following the river bed some way and coming to the realization that I could not go farther and that I had to get back to the plane, so long and grim was the struggle that I gave up completely half a dozen times.

Slowly, my energy would creep back and rouse me to one more try. I set myself little tasks. I did not think of the plane. That seemed miles away. I set myself merely to that next hillock, that next rock or bush. When I made that stage, I fell down and waited to see if my heart would come back. Then I would set myself a new goal.

I LEARNED that first afternoon my folly but I also learned about making a plan. I made a hundred little plans that day, in order to get back to the plane. It helped me, the following day, to make a big plan.

The two miles I traveled that first afternoon took from shortly before noon until dusk. When I reached the plane, I found Sir Frederick dead. By some immense effort, he had got himself off the bunk in the wrecked cabin and had got outside. He lay 15 feet from the wreck.

I was at this hour completely exhausted. My ankle had been sprained in the crash and it had swollen almost to the knee during my travels. Every stage of the journey had been agony, and I had done the last 500 yards, backtracking on my own trail, on my hands and knees through the deep drifts, to spare my leg.

With an engine cover of canvas under me and two overcoats over me, I tried to sleep in the snow beside the ship. I had my flying gear on. I was terribly uncomfortable but not dangerously so. It seemed daylight would never come. But it grew very clear in my mind, as I lay there in the pit in the snow, that I had to formulate some plan.

My spirits were very low. I never expect them to be lower. The whole scheme of life had become so aimless. Here was a great enterprise in ruin in the midst of an immeasurable wilderness. Here lay dead a great man, a man I did not know, but a man of importance in the world. He had been the only other living thing, speaking to me in urgent riddles. Now he was still.

And I was in this hole in the snow, beside the wreckage. And what I needed was some plan; or the whole enterprise was lost here in the remote silent wilderness.

Tomorrow: Capt. Mackey tells of being discovered by a searching plane, piloted by an old friend, after he had abandoned all hope of being spotted from the air.

East Doubles Two Diamonds, Sets Declarer

By Ely Culbertson

ALTHO the requirements for an opening one no trump bid have been slightly lowered in the new Culbertson system, it does not follow that these bids may be overcalled with impunity. Indeed, one of the best points about the new requiremens is that the side which opens with a no trump will have the opportunity for many lucrative penalty doubles simply because the opponents will insist on "sticking out their necks" against the "weaker" no trumps. After all, a hannd containing three and a half honor tricks, well distributed through at least three suits, can scarcely be called weak. In fact, from a defensive point of view, it is exceedingly strong. This fact must not be overlooked by the partner of a one no trump bidder. Said partner must not hesitate to double an opponent's overcall whenever he has a fairly balanced hand with about average top trick strength, that is, an ace, a king, and a queen, or the equivalent. Today's hand is a case in point:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

| The bidding | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| West | North | East | South |
| 1 no trump | Pass | Pass | 2 diamonds |
| Pass | Pass | Double | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

West was a shade out of line in opening with one no trump, because with 4-4-3-2 distribution the doubleton normally should be headed by at least the king. Aside from that, however, West had the three and a half honor tricks (including the plus value for six or more honor cards applied to no trump and four card suit bidding) and with his doubleton headed by a queen, felt that he could take this slight liberty. It was especially desirable to open with a one no trump instead of one club, he figured, because of the vulnerability conditions, and the fact that an opposing overcall might be "clipped" for a substantial penalty.

East's hand was the merest shade short of a sound raise, which requires two honor tricks. Actually, East could have given a shaded raise without incurring criticism, but he knew South to be the sort of player who rarely lets an opposing one-bid stand, hence he gambled on a pass. His judgment turned out to be brilliant. Not only did South put his neck in a noose with a two diamond overcall, but, as may be seen, East-West could not have made three no trump if they had bid it. And although he had been doubtful about raising the no trump, East was in no doubt about doubling 2 diamonds, although his strength in the diamond suit itself was nil.

West opposed the club ten. Dummy ducked and East won with the ace. On a club return South unblocked the queen in order to create an entry in dummy. West could easily have countered this attempt by conceding the queen and winning the next club lead, but shrewdly surmising that South might want to finesse for the queen of trumps, West obligingly gave South an entry to the dummy, that is, he took the club queen and played a third round to dummy's jack. Declarer might well have looked this gift horse in the mouth, but he did not. He led the diamond nine and let it ride. He was thoroughly disgusted when West pounced on this trick with the queen.

West now was on somewhat of a spot for a good return. He feared that East might have the diamond king, hence did not want to return that suit. After considerable thought, he decided that the safest play was to lay down the heart ace and watch for East's follow-suit card. When East played the six spot, West continued with a low heart. East won and exited with a trump. Declarer finally had to break the spade suit himself and, of course, lost three spade tricks in addition to two hearts, one diamond and two clubs.

The Kindly Barkeep -o- By Elsie Robinson

My friend just died. Perhaps you wouldn't have approved of him as a friend, for he was a barkeep. But he had been many other things besides. Indeed, I doubt if there was a trade he had not dabbled in, for he was a born adventurer at heart. But the greatest adventure to him was always human life.

That love of life—of frank, easy going, Western life, in particular—was the thing you felt first and last in him. You could not come near him without being warmed by it. Of all the men I have known—wise and foolish, strong and weak—he revelled in life most deeply. He did not try to analyze it or pass judgment upon it. He took it as simply as a child, as a great and glorious gift . . . a cause for everlasting rejoicing.

I have seen him stand over a bubbling pot of polenta, that Italian dish of boiled corn meal with mushroom sauce which puts to shame the greatest French culinary masterpiece. All day the meal and the sauce must simmer if they are to be brought to perfection. And all day my friend would bend above the fragrant steam, laughing, rejoicing, as if at a fiesta . . . feeling to the full the savor of that simple incident.

The fragrance and heartiness of a dish of polenta . . . the tawny flight of a young buck through the chapparal . . . the burning blue of a California sky above bronzed oaks . . . the clotted honey of the first, fresh figs . . . the very smell and feel of the red, mountain soil—all these he loved in every portion and made a part of his own self. Never have I seen a human who felt the whole of life so deeply. Yet, as I've said, his greatest joy lay in human beings.

There was no profit motive in that joy. Of all he earned, in his widely varied projects, he must have given even more for the sake of a smile . . . or as a comfort to grief. He had an uncanny instinct that way. You might hide your trouble from the shrewdest eye on earth but you never got beyond his instant comprehension.

Mind you, he made no fuss about it. A gay, white flash of smile against his velvet bronze, and your heart felt healed. And if the hurt went deeper, then he'd give you all he had. I've known him to toss a right good job aside and spend weeks in a home where pain had hit. Not asking anything for all the time he'd lost. Not ever preaching or offering advice. Just sprawling in a chair or slouching by a stove. Yet, somehow, warming every breath that moved your broken heart . . . and giving you fresh hope to face the trail again.

They say he was a barkeep—and alcohol, some people claim, is poison. But there's more deadly poison than ever came across a bar, and that's the poison of unkindliness. And never did I see a drop of that in anything he dealt. He'd chuckle over human cussedness, including his own and yours, but never did his word stab any man in the back. And always there lay welcome in his hands and heart for any lonely stranger who came by his way.

I know not what the moralists may say. I only know the world is cold today because my friend has gone. . . . And I'll walk humbler all my life, for having known his courage and his unfailing kindness.

Lock Up My Heart

By ROB EDEN

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

A BRIGHT sun filtering through the Venetian blinds of her bedroom awakened Cam the following morning. She stretched luxuriously and contemplated, sleepily, the idea of adjusting the blinds to shut out the light and napping for another hour or so.

Why not? She had nothing in particular to do. Then she sat up with a start. She did have something to do. She'd told Frank Kirkwood she intended to find a job for herself and remain in California if she could.

Well, if she were going to start looking for work she had no business lolling in bed.

She glanced across the room and saw that the morning paper, as usual, had been slipped under her door.

She'd better check on the want ads to see if there was anything that might fit in with her abilities.

Her flimsy nightgown trailing behind her, she walked over, picked up the paper and returned to bed and propped her pillows so she could sit up comfortably.

"Miss Lucia Fleming, of Bel-Air, yesterday announced her engagement to Mark Cheney, the well known artist and sportsman. The announcement will come as a surprise to Mr. Cheney's many friends as he has long been considered the most heart-free of all members of the Bachelors' Club.

"It is understod that the marriage will be quietly solemnized in the very near future. Mr. Cheney is the nephew of Mrs. Elizabeth North of New York and Bel-Air."

Cam was stunned as she sat staring at the picture and the printed words beneath it. Then she started searching the page for any further news of the surprising announcement, but although she read every item she could find nothing more.

Either the announcement had been made so late in the day that there was barely time to get the picture and caption in, or the society editor had decided the mere mention was sufficient.

She hadn't realized until the full import of the announcement had sunk into her brain how much she had been thinking of Mark Cheney.

She had admitted to herself that he attracted her more than any other man ever had, that she was in love with him, but her thoughts had not progressed beyond that.

Strangely enough she hadn't really thought about marriage, she had been so busy with so many other things. She had hoped to see much more of Mark because she got so much pleasure from being with him.

She might even secretly have hoped that he was in love with her, too, but if she had she had immediately dismissed the idea as preposterous.

And now he was going to marry someone else! Lucia Fleming, his aunt's companion. Perhaps that was why there wasn't anything more in the paper, Lucia Fleming was unknown in society and the society editor hadn't had time to check on her background.

It was because of Mark, she realized now, that she had decided to stay in Los Angeles instead of returning to Chicago.

She considered the thought of marriage with Mark, now. It would have been very pleasant; it would have been marvelous, she corrected herself. It would have been perfect.

Frank, when he called to take Cam to lunch, asked casually if she had seen the morning papers' announcement of Mark Cheney's engagement.

"Yes, I read it," she confessed.

"It must have been a bit of a shock, wasn't it? I had the idea that you were sort of carrying the torch for him."

Cam admitted honestly that it had been a shock.

"Now maybe I've got a chance," the newspaper man laughed. "How about grabbing me on the rebound? I really don't mind, you know."

"You shouldn't joke about anything as serious as marriage."

"I'm not joking, Cam. I really mean it, if you can get this other bird out of your system. I wouldn't want any ghosts hanging around my honeymoon cottage."

"Than': you, Frank, I am quite flattered. You've really caught me entirely by surprise."

"I've made a crack or two before that sort of hinted I was goofy about you. I thought you understood?"

"I thought you were just joking, and never took what you said seriously."

"Well, I'm no Romeo. This sort of thing is Greek to me. Maybe after I've had a little more experience, I'll be able to reel off a proposal like something out of a book. If you'd like, I'll start all over again and propose in well chosen words."

"It's not that, Frank, really," Cam said. She was upset now that she knew he was serious.

"I really don't know how I feel about Mark. I never realized until I read that announcement in the paper this morning that I was very much in love with him. I haven't had time to think things out yet. It's not so easy to put someone out of your thoughts when you suddenly discover that you've been thinking of him almost exclusively."

★ ★ ★

"OKAY, I understand, Cam. You want a raincheck. I'm willing to wait until you get yourself unscrambled and get used to the idea of looking at me with a predatory gleam in your eye."

Her eyes, half brimming with tears, thanked him. She was unable to speak for a moment.

"All right, let's talk about something else for a change. Got any idea where I can find Ruby Osborne?"

"Ruby?" The question caught Cam completely unaware.

"Yeah. I've got an assignment to find her. The boss has a bright idea that if we find her, we'll get a line on the missing Joe Raymond. Otherwise, he reasons, why would she have dropped out of sight?"

Cam couldn't see any reason why she should tell Kirkwood she knew where Ruby was hiding out. It would mean that Ruby would be hounded again, hounded by the police and by reporters, and Cam herself knew that Ruby didn't know where "Joe" was.

She felt a sudden wave of sympathy for the woman, and wondered if her own future was going to be as hopeless as hers. She knew that she'd never love anyone but Mark, and now that he was going to marry Lucia—

When she arrived back at her hotel and started across the lobby, a man rose from a chair and came toward her. It was Mark Cheney!

"Will you go for a drive with me, Cam?" he asked. His use of her nickname was so natural that she didn't notice it. She walked out the door with him.

Continued Tomorrow.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Why Do We Call It "Poinsettia?"

It is after Joel R. Poinsett that this popular greenhouse wintering shrub, native of Mexico and Central America, is named; but information is barren that does not point the highlights in the career of the extraordinarily versatile gentleman this plant commemorates.

Joel Roberts Poinsett, South Carolinian, was born a few years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

He completed his education at the University of Edinburgh and shortly after returning to his homeland was sent to South America as United States Commissioner to investigate political conditions.

It is startling to relate that at that time there was a rumor that the United States and Peru would go to war against each other! Peru seized several American merchantmen and held them until Poinsett persuaded them it was all a mistake, obtaining their release.

When his mission was finished, Poinsett came back to the United States where he served in the South Carolina Legislature, and subsequently as Congressman, Minister to Mexico and finally Secretary of War.

His native town was Charleston where he founded an Academy of Fine Arts.

He is the author of "Notes on Mexico, Made in 1822, With an Historical Sketch of the Revolution," published in 1824.

Prune Cake.

Two cups cake flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, one cup chopped prunes, one teaspoon soda, three tablespoons sour milk, one-fourth cup prune juice.

Sift flour, measure and resift with cinnamon. Cream shortening and gradually add sugar, blending until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs one at a time and stir in chopped prunes. Add soda to combined sour milk and prune juice. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with liquids, beginning and ending with flour and beating well after each addition. Bake in a greased loaf pan (8½x4½) in a moderate oven 350 degrees F.) for about 60 minutes. Spread the cake with an uncooked butter icing flavored with orange juice and rind.

Face and Figure Beauty

By Patricia Lindsay

FACIAL and physical beauty as we know it today is not accidental. It is acquired through loyalty to a health-giving schedule and to certain external regular administrations. All of which means, if a woman will persevere she can be lovely.

If you see a slim beauty you can bet your boots she doesn't eat banana splits between meals, a half-pound of chocolates while reading a magazine, or second helpings of rich foods!

If you see a woman with an exquisite complexion and firm facial contour, you need not ask her what creams she uses! It's 10 to one she rests from eight to 10 hours most nights, exercises either in her home or out of doors daily, and eats very well balanced menus. She may use a cream for cleansing and one for softening, or if she plays considerably under the sun, a cream for protection. But you might be surprised to discover that her skin beauty is guarded by a certain good soap and only one jar of cream! Skin beauty comes from within—all the cosmetics in the world cannot create a translucent texture! But certain cosmetics, if they are intelligently chosen, do protect one's skin from ravages of the elements, and may enhance its beauty.

If you come face to face with a woman whose charm overwhelms you be assured that she has spent much effort in modulating her voice, studying mannerisms which are attractive, analyzing humans to discover what pleases them and what displeases them, and getting control of herself in every way. A well poised, charming woman is the product of much self-training—she decided to go out and conquer and she prepared herself in every way so she might conquer.

She immediately conquers you when you speak with her and she can conquer any other person she chooses. She is not a snob, or she couldn't be charming. Charm is a warm, genuine characteristic which is acquired only through determination. It always gives me a thrill when a very charming woman confesses to me that in her youth she was plain looking and extremely shy. Then I realize just how much any woman can do for herself if she has the will-power to persevere!

So if you have any inhibitions, throw them off. Realize that you can adopt a schedule which, if held to diligently, will make you a desired beauty. You needn't have the measurements of Venus nor the face of Snow White—simply make the most of yourself in every way. Determine to be lovely and work for it.

Begin with Patricia Lindsay's FIVE PET EXERCISES, to limber your body. Free upon request, if you write Miss Lindsay, care of this paper, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Don't Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

COMMUNIQUE AGAIN

From Boston: Why doesn't the -lque of communique have the "eek" sound as in physique, antique, unique? U. L.

kuh-MEW-nee-KAY

The reason that -lque in communique has two syllables is that in the French, from which the word comes, the final "e" has above it an acute accent (accent aigu) mark, a short stroke that slants to the right. When the letter "e" is so marked, it always has the approximate sound of "ay." The final "e" in antique, etc., is not so marked, and -lque-, then, has its customary "eek" sound.

Hint to speakers: Learn to overcome the "UH" habit, as "Uh, ladies and gentlemen, uh, my, uh, subject this evening is, uh . . ." This is invariably the sign of the inexperienced and the inept, and it often drives listeners to the point of committing mayhem.

Listen for this annoying habit in your speech. If you hear a drawn out "u-h-h" after every few words, you must give yourself a good talking to before you can give a good talk to others.

Why is it correct to say "If I WERE younger"? WAS and WERE will trouble you no longer if you read my free, non-technical key. Send a stamped (3c), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper. Ask for free "WAS-WERE Pamphlet," or simply enclose this clipping.

My Neighbor Says:

Potted ferns will likely be "straggly" by spring. Cut off the browned and ragged fronds, repot if pot-bound, give bone meal and as soon as the weather is permanently warm sink the pots to the brim in a border where they will have sun in the afternoon.

Never use a damp or wet cloth or holder in removing a hot dish from the oven or stove. A dry one prevents the heat from penetrating and scorching the fingers.

When making griddlecakes, melt two tablespoons of shortening and add to the batter. This eliminates all need of shortening and adds to the batter. This eliminates all need of greasing and griddle, saves time and there is no smoke.

Hardwood floors are refinished in various ways depending upon how thorough a job is necessary. For a complete job, all the old materials are removed with strong alkali solution, and the wood is finished as if new, with stain to equalize color, or bleach if necessary to remove discoloration. This is followed by a filler, varnish and wax. A good painter will refinish floors so that they will look like new.

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor

GOSSIP, as Joyce found out, is one of the deadliest weapons of "civilized" mankind. Joyce had been out all night—and with a MAN, too! There was no escaping that fact.

But was that any reason for humiliating her—for driving her out of town—for ruining her life? This is no ordinary story. This is a brusque, an almost brutal, recital of what a town can do to a solitary human soul. What really underlies gossip is laid bare for all to see, in—

BILLOPP SAYS:

WHAT earthly use is there worrying over the problems of the world and concluding that they are so gigantic that they cannot possibly be solved when one ordinary American woman—and there are millions of them—considers it all in the day's work to:

Help solicit funds for the British, for the Greeks and for the Finns, and stand ready, if need be, to tackle solicitation for the Turks.

Obey every urgent appeal to write to her Senators and Congressmen; or, better still if she can afford it, wire.

And, in addition, plan and prepare three meals a day for the family, mend the children's clothes, and defy her husband when he warns that she is just wearing herself out and cynically advises her to let the world go to the dogs in its own way?

MEDIATION BOARD REFUSES TO STEP IN

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 26 (AP).—More than 100 picked Pennsylvania State police stood guard to enforce "peaceful picketing" today, after smashing massed picket lines at the parent plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co. Workers passed in and out of the mills without incident.

Shouting warnings and waving riot sticks, the troopers—many of them mounted—cleared all nine entrances last night of pickets established by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Col. Lynn G. Adams, State Police Commissioner who led the troopers last night, said today that "the ones making the trouble are stevedores, ex-sailors, dock hands and Communists" who, he said, were "brought in." Asked who brought them in, Adams said: "I won't say."

Strikers May Seek Writ.

Strike leaders announced they may seek a court injunction for resumption of picketing broken up by police "if necessary." They threatened a "finish fight" in all Bethlehem Steel mills and shipyards with their more than a billion dollars of defense contracts.

No pickets appeared early in the day, although strikers gathered on streets a short distance from the plant. The State police had decreed "peaceful picketing only," and the union later directed its membership not to gather in groups near the mills.
